40-Hr. Week, Raise Asked For Million Rail Workers

Truman Board's Proposal Will Bar Strike of Clerks, Yardmen 30 Days

By The Associated Press

A White House emergency board yesterday recommended cutting the present 48-hour work week for a million rail workers to a 40-hour week effective next September.

The board called for an immediate 7-cent hourly wage boost, dating back to October 1, 1948, with another 20 per cent pay rate increase next September to give workers the same money for the shorter work week.

The recommendations apply to the railroads' nonoperating employes, those who do not run the trains but service and maintain them. The board calculated 1949 costs of both the pay raise and the shorter work week at $340,000,000, but forecast the cost will dwindle with passage of years.

Average Pay About $60

The nonoperating rail workers now earn, on the average, about $60 for their 48-hour week. The 7-cent increase would give them about $63 for the same work week. Then, if the 40-hour week is adopted next September, they would get approximately the same $63 for the shorter week.

In anticipation of higher labor costs the carriers had asked the Interstate Commerce Commission in advance to boost rail rates 13 per cent, or about one billion dollars a year.

The emergency board's recommendations are binding on neither the carriers nor the unions. But such recommendations made by presidentially appointed boards, functioning under terms of the Railway Labor Act, usually have been the basis of dispute settlements in the past.

January 17 Strike Possible

Under the law the unions must consider the recommendations without going on strike for a 30-day period. G. E. Leighty, chairman of the unions' negotiating committee, indicated there is the possibility of a strike January 17 if the carriers reject the board recommendations.

There was no immediate comment from the carriers. The unions expressed "disappointment" that the board had deferred the 40-hour week until next fall and granted only a 7-cent pay boost. But George M. Harrison, head of the largest union, the railway clerks, said:

"The recommendations are a good basis for negotiations for settlement of the dispute."

The unions announced they will study the broad recommendations at a meeting in Chicago Monday and Tuesday and probably will request a negotiating session with the carriers in Chicago the first week in January.

"We will negotiate with them even if they reject the report," Leighty told a reporter. "The 48-for-40 was the 'must' of our program. We have got to have that for settlement."

The nonoperating unions had See RAIL, Page 9, Column 5.

Texts of Seven More Papers Are Released

Another State Department cable on secret Anglo-American naval talks in 1938, found in Whittaker Chambers' possession, was among the seven released last night by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Marked "strictly confidential" for Secretary Hull, the cable told of the plans of Admiral Lord Chatfield, then First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, to lay down a 39,000-ton battleship in the coming year's British naval building program.

The British and Americans had decided to build bigger ships in view of Japanese naval building above the limits set in the 1936 London naval treaty, and were having secret talks on the subject in London.

The newly released cable on naval building was the third on the subject so far released from the documents produced by Chambers in the Alger Hiss libel action in Baltimore. The message published last night was dated February 16, 1938; last Sunday the committee released one dated March 3, and Thursday it issued still another dated March 29, 1938.

Yesterday's batch also contained the text of a long aide-memoire, or memorandum, handed by Undersecretary Sumner Welles to German Ambassador Hans H. Dieckhoff on July 21, 1937. Dieckhoff had protested that American "interference" was hampering German negotiations for a barter agreement with Brazil.

Welles denied any interference.

2 Sponsors To Try for Spy Control Legislation

Probers' Committee And Administration Will Present Bills To New Congress

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Two separate moves for peacetime "spy controls" appeared in prospect last night, as the Administration disclosed that recommendations of its own will be presented to the new Congress.

Attorney General Tom Clark suggested tightening of existing espionage laws including a change in the statute of limitations and possibly legalized wire tapping.

Committee to Push Bill

Clark's recommendations probably will be routed to the House Judiciary Committee, which will be largely under Administration sway in the new Congress.

Spokesmen for the House Un-American Activities Committee said they will continue to push for a revised Mundt-Nixon anti-Communist bill, with strengthened provisions for screening "disloyal" persons, and specific penalties for passing out secret data.

"If the Judiciary Committee fails to make wartime espionage statutes apply in some degree to the present cold war, we will probably do that, too," said Representative Karl E. Mundt (D., S. Dak.), acting chairman of the Un-American Activities group.

Probers Take Holiday

Representative Francis E. Walter (Pa.), ranking Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee, said he thought it probable his group would favor putting some of the wartime espionage laws on a peacetime footing, with possibly modified penalties.

Clark disclosed the Administration is preparing antispy recommendations as the House Un-American Activities Committee took a weekend holiday. Even the running fight between the committee and the Justice Department quieted down as a new Federal grand jury weighed the spy-ring charges of former Red runner Whittaker Chambers.

Clark made his statement following a meeting at the White House with President Truman's Cabinet.

Mr. Truman told newsmen Thursday he had asked the Justice Department to look into tightening of the espionage laws, adding that it was a difficult matter to

Georgia Plans Law to Block Negro Voting

Assemblymen Discuss Educational Basis For New Registration

Atlanta, Dec. 17 (AP).—Gov. Herman Talmadge and his legislative leaders came out today with a "white supremacy" program frankly aimed at barring 80 per cent of Georgia Negroes from voting.

Hardly a ripple of opposition was apparent as the plan was outlined at an informal conference of 75 legislators. The program is being drafted for a regular meeting of the Georgia General Assembly January 10.

The core of the plan is to wipe all present voters' registration lists off the books. Then a complete new State-wide registration would be undertaken with emphasis on "educational qualification" of voters.

House Speaker Fred Hand, who will steer the measure in the Legislature for Talmadge, told lawmakers today:

"A good educational qualification will cut out 80 per cent of this ignorant bloc vote in Georgia. I like to think of it that way instead of going into this color angle.

"Under this plan it will no longer be a menace. It will fix things where we can handle it."

Hand reminded the assemblymen that 46 Georgia counties have more Negroes than whites, and Negroes form 25 per cent of the population in 114 of the State's 159 counties.

"You might not think 25 per cent is so bad," he said, "but look at the voting returns and see how much you won by."

Hand said the Georgia plan would be similar to the "Boswell amendment" in Alabama, which requires prospective voters to interpret the constitution to the satisfaction of registrars. Alabama political leaders said it was aimed at Negro voting.

Planes 3 Times Speedier Than Sound Forecast

Know-How Learned From 1st Supersonic Craft, Builder Says

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

The maker of the first airplane to fly faster than sound said last night that man-carrying aircraft can be built to travel two to three times that fast.

Lawrence D. Bell, president of Bell Aircraft Corp., builder of the X-1, told 700 of the Nation's aviation leaders that know-how learned from the craft makes such speeds possible. It would mean speeds of from 1300 to 2200 mph.

Bell spoke at the Aero Club of Washington's annual Wright brothers memorial dinner at the Statler, commemorating the anniversary of the Wrights' first flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., 45 years ago today.

Earlier in the day, Bell, John Stack, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics scientist, and Capt. Charles Yeager, USAF, were presented the Collier Award by President Truman for their work on the X-1. Stack designed and Yeager test-flew the plane which "first achieved human flight faster than sound."

Two other aviation trophies were presented at last night's dinner. The newly established Wright Brothers Memorial Trophy was awarded to Dr. William Frederick Durand, 89, dean of America's aviation engineers.

Wins Brewer Award

John Victory, executive secretary of NACA, accepted the trophy for Dr. Durand, who lives at Stanford, Calif.

The annual Frank G. Brewer award was awarded to Philip S. Hopkins of Link Aviation, for "timely achievement in the field of air youth education."

Bell disclosed some of the problems overcome in "crashing the sound barrier." New-type instruments and fuel systems had to be designed, he said, while drop-flights of the X-1 from the belly of a B-29 were used to give the pilot a chance to determine its Craft Accepted for U. S.

Wright Plane Is Welcomed In Ceremony at Smithsonian

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

The clumsy, frail, 605-pound, heavier-than-air craft which first pulled man into the air was officially welcomed home here yesterday.

The Wright brothers' Kitty Hawk, which made the first free, controlled and sustained flight with an engine, was formally accepted for the United States in a ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution.

It was 45 years to the hour after Wilbur and Orville Wright took off in the strange contraption from the sands of Kitty Hawk, N. C., that they were hailed by public figures from President Truman and Chief Justice Vinson down as the first conquerors of the air.

Two B-36s—the world's largest bombers—18 B-29 Superfortresses and a score of F-80 jet Shooting Stars, thundered over their tiny forbear, as the program ended in a formidable Air Force display.

Message From Arnold

They added weight to the words of Gen. H. H. Arnold, wartime chief of the Air Force, who said in a message read at the ceremony:

"Our country has been led through one historical step after another, without seeking it, to a position of world leadership. Air power is chiefly responsible."

A message from the President, read to the 800 officials and invited guests assembled at the Arts and Industries Building where the Kitty Hawk now hangs in the place of honor, said the historic airplane's return "will quicken in all hearts an appreciation of the achievements of American inventive genius."

Chief Justice Vinson, chancellor of the Smithsonian, presided at the ceremony and accepted title to the prized aircraft from Milton Wright of Dayton, Ohio, nephew of the plane's inventors and representative of their estate.

Air Pioneers Present

Several other relatives of the Wright brothers, men and women who were identified with the earliest phases of flying in this country and a few who learned to fly in Wright planes, were with the Government and military officials in the audience to see the honored plane come into its own.

Conspicuous in the hall were a score of the blue and white checked caps of the "Early Birds," pioneer airmen and airwomen. Among them was Mrs. Alys McKey Bryant of California, who said she "got some junk together from a wreck in 1912 and flew it."

Glider Snatch Rescue of 9 on Icecap Fails

Craft Is Undamaged In 2 Attempts; New Effort Slated Today

The Air Force announced last night that a C-54 transport failed in two attempts Friday to snatch up a glider carrying some of the airmen marooned atop a 7700-foot Greenland icecap.

The rescue attempts failed, the Air Force said, when the wheels of the glider broke through the frozen crust of snow and the glider "nosed up."

The glider was not damaged and none of the men aboard was injured. A new rescue try probably will be made today.

An Air Force spokesman said at least 10 men and "possibly" 11 now are stranded on the icecap. He said the type of glider dropped at the rescue scene normally carries a pilot and one helper to set up the "snatching equipment."

Weather May Delay Rescue

Seven of the men have been marooned since December 9 when a C-47 transport crash-landed on the icecap. Two others were marooned December 13 when their B-17 cracked up during a rescue attempt.

The spokesman said the weather will decide whether a new attempt to rescue the airmen is made. He said a "weather front" is moving in on the area and that it is uncertain when it will hit.

An attempt probably will be made to lay a short plywood runway which would permit the glider to take off without digging into the snow.

If that doesn't work, the wheels of the glider will be removed permitting the fuselage to run across the snow like a sled.

Doctor on Icecap

The idea was for the C-54 to snatch it into the air by means of a special tow rope hung between two uprights and tow it back to civilization.

At last reports, the Air Force said, the stranded airmen were in good health and their morale was high. There is a doctor with them.

Defenders Pull Headquarters Near Nanking

Only 30 Miles Away; Peace Rumors Die for Want of Confirmation

Nanking, Dec. 17 (AP).—Defense headquarters on the ragged front before Nanking pulled back today to a point only 30 miles northwest of this Communist-threatened Chinese capital.

The 76-mile withdrawal from Pengpu to Chuhsien indicated a worsening of the government position, although there were few fresh developments on the battlefields.

In the north there was desultory fighting around Communist-surrounded Peiping, but a waiting calm continued inside the ancient city walls.

On the political scene, rumors of peace negotiations subsided somewhat in the absence of confirmation of any of them.

Pengpu Residents Flee

Removal of Gen. Liu Tze's headquarters from Pengpu was reported by Seymour Topping, AP staff correspondent in Pengpu.

Topping said advance echelons of the headquarters pulled out Thursday night. They informed railway officials that only part of headquarters was moving.

Removal of telephone wires and heavy truck traffic, however, indicated a large-scale move. Panicky residents of Pengpu piled on top of the southbound trains to go along with the military.

At the same time, Topping reported elements of the fresh Twentieth Army were arriving in Pengpu, indicating that the fighting front was not being abandoned.

The Twentieth, from Hankow, has been estimated to total about 14,000 men. It moved up to relieve troops of the battle-worn Sixth Army group.

Army Believed Wiped Out

The Sixth, originally estimated at about 40,000 men, has fought unsuccessfully for more than two weeks to rescue the Twelfth Army group, trapped by the Communists some 40 miles northwest of Pengpu.

The government announced Thursday that the Twelfth had broken out and reached govern-

Communications and transport were disrupted over an area of about 1200 square miles of rich farming and cattle country in the southeastern part of Minas Gerais State and the northern part of Rio de Paneiro State.

Can't See 'Kids Suffer'

Blood Donor Today Will Give Skin Patches to Burned Boy

George Becraft, 31, and a hardy beer salesman, is set to give up two large patches of his skin today to spunky Michael Rector, critically burned boy at Casualty Hospital.

"I just can't stand seeing kids suffer," he explained. "I like the boy, and I like his spunk. He's my kind."

Becraft understands the skin-taking, in which two 4-by-8-inch patches will be peeled from his inner thighs, will be unpleasant. "That I can take," he said last night as he prepared to leave his home at 209 20th st. ne., to spend the night at the hospital.

Michael, who will be 4 next Thursday, suffered severe burns over 70 per cent of his body on November 12. Doctors didn't expect him to live more than several hours.

Since then, numerous offers were received at the hospital by outsiders willing to give their skin freely, but Becraft's was the first accepted. Surgeons already have taken what they dared from the boy's father, Everett, a garage mechanic.

The father, who risked his job and gave up the family income to remain constantly with his boy, sacrificed five 4-by-8-inch patches of skin from the abdomen, inner thighs and backs of his legs.

In explaining why he made the offer, Becraft said: "I used to see the older boys toss him around pretty rough like, but he always came up smiling. My wife and I often said we'd like to have a boy like him in our home."

The Becrafts have no children.

A salesman for the Valley Forge Beer Co., Becraft said he became acquainted with Michael about a year ago on frequent visits to his wife's mother, Mrs. Sally Allen, who lives directly across the street from the Rectors.

"About every time I saw him, we'd talk, and I'd ask him if he

Seeks $71,550 Back Pay

'Hollywood 10' Writer Wins Suit to Be Reinstated in Job

Los Angeles, Dec. 17 (AP).—A Federal Court jury decided tonight in favor of Film Writer Lester Cole in his suit for reinstatement in his $1350-a-week job at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

He sued also for $71,550 salary since his suspension a year ago, shortly after he and nine other Hollywood figures were held in contempt of Congress.

They had refused to answer whether or not they were Communists in a hearing before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

United States Judge Leon R. Yankwich will rule Monday on terms of the judgment to be rendered in the suit.

He told the jury before its retirement for four hours deliberation that it must answer yes or no to four questions of fact. It answered the first three in the negative and the fourth in the affirmative.

The questions were:

1. Did Cole's action before the committee "bring himself or tend to bring himself into public hatred, contempt, scorn or ridicule?"

2. Did Cole by his conduct before the committee tend to shock, insult or offend the community?

3. Did Cole, by his statements and conduct before the committee, prejudice MGM or the motion picture industry generally?

4. Did MGM by its conduct toward Cole after the Washington hearing waive the right to suspend him?

Yankwich amplified the last question by telling the jurors "an employer, knowing his rights, who feels that an employe may have violated his contract, may not continue employment and at a later date treat that employe's action as a breach of obligation."

The judge referred to the fact Cole was employed by the studio a month after his appearance before the committee.

The mystery virus which has plagued Washington neighborhoods for the past several months continues to sweep District sections in patchwork pattern, District health officials said yesterday.

Dr. C. C. Dauer, District epidemiologist, said the malady is more uncomfortable than dangerous. It appears to spread by personal contact, he said, sometimes racing through whole families.

Rail Car Row Halts Gifts to Soviet Zone

In Border Clash

Reds Release Britons Held For 48 Hours

Duesseldorf, Germany, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—The Russians released six British soldiers today after holding them prisoner 48 hours as the result of a border incident in which two other British tommies were wounded.

It started when a British corporal crossed the British-Russian zonal border to get a rabbit he had shot. Russian frontier guards arrested him. When a party of British troops went to ask the Russians about it they were fired on. One Briton was wounded seriously and one slightly, and six were made prisoners.

British authorities at first minimized the incident and said a young Russian sentry shot one man in error. But negotiations for the release of the six captured men bogged down and Prig. Gen. M. H. Curteis, British liaison chief at Russian headquarters, hastened by plane from Berlin to the zonal border to investigate.

Tonight British Rhine army headquarters at Bad Oyenhausen said the six Britons had been released.

The soldier seriously wounded by Russian gunfire was Pvt. Dennis C. Knill, shot through the chest and arm. Pvt. H. Whitehead was slightly wounded.

There was no indication the British intended to make the incident the subject of a major protest. It appeared, from their statements, that the first soldier involved was arrested in normal routine by the Russian guards. It was not explained why the party which went after him, under command of a captain, was fired on, and detained by the Russians. Presumably they, too, crossed the zonal border by accident or the Russians thought they did.

Berlin, Dec. 17 (A.P.)—A new Soviet-American disagreement tonight blocked delivery of more than 50,000 Christmas gift parcels to Germans in the Soviet zone and Berlin.

American officials won't send any more rail cars to Soviet Germany because, they say, the Russians don't return the cars.

Correspondence disclosed that Major General Semenikhin, chief of Soviet communications, wrote to the American communications chief, Eugene H. Merrill, protesting the stoppage and Merrill shot back that the Russians apparently used the gift parcel system to retain 1700 rail cars rightfully belonging to the United States and British zones.

Merrill complained to the Soviets a month ago and two weeks later the Russians offered to correct the situation. When nothing was done, the American chief embargoed shipments.

Merrill described gift parcel traffic as more or less one way—from west to east. He said American citizens had sent to Germans parcels worth more than 250 million dollars.

The Soviet general denied that Western rail cars are being detained. He insisted that the United States and British zones "owe" the Russian zone 957 cars.

Merrill offered to deliver the parcels to the Soviet zone border if the Russians guaranteed transport facilities from that point onward to Soviet zone stations and all sectors of Berlin.

Anglo-American planes flew another 5705 tons of supplies over the Russian blockade into Berlin despite rain and lowering clouds today.

A Soviet army newspaper hinted at reprisals for the French action yesterday in dynamiting Radio Berlin's transmission towers as menaces to air navigation near Tegel airport.

The Taegliche Rundschau said editorially: "This barbaric demolition will be entered in future accounts and all necessary conclusions drawn from it."

Berlin Assembly Makes Appeal for Prisoners

Berlin, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—Berlin's City Assembly has issued an "appeal to the world" for the return of German prisoners of war still held by victorious powers, it was announced today.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov promised at the Moscow conference of Foreign Ministers last year that 892,000 German prisoners in Russia would be returned by this Christmas.

Of that number, 500,000 are still not back and German sources estimate two million more former soldiers have disappeared in Russia.

U. S. Executed Innocent Nazi, Germans Say

Frankfurt, Germany, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The execution of former German Naval Lieut. Erich Wentzel as a war criminal at Landsberg ... December 3 has stirred up pro... the Ruhr that the Ameri... military court hanged an in... man.

... defenders contend the 46-... officer was not responsible for the killing of seven American fliers at Borkum on Borkum Island in 1944.

More than 1000 Germans attended his funeral and heard Director Carls of the Catholic Welfare Organization assert:

"All efforts to help justice gain victory in this case have failed."

High Catholic and Protestant Church authorities previously had protested to President Truman against the Landsberg executions, without specifying individual cases.

Today was the second consecutive Friday on which there were no hangings at Landsberg.

The Duesseldorf newspaper, Rhein Echo, protesting the Wentzel case, said a German soldier confessed to shooting the fliers and that Wentzel was not present at the time.

American authorities have not contended that Wentzel personally killed the aviators. An Army statement said he "furthered and contributed to their deaths" by ordering that the fliers be marched through two lines of 80 to 100 men of the German Workers Corps, who beat them. The fliers were shot later.

Rome, Milan Red-Led Strike Ineffective

Rome, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—A one-hour strike called by the Communist-led Chamber of Labor failed today to make itself felt in Rome. A two-hour work stoppage in Milan apparently was almost equally ineffective.

In both cities scheduled speakers failed to appear to address little handsful of people gathered before union headquarters.

Stores stayed open in Rome. Streetcars operated normally.

The strike in the capital was called to protest the police handling of demonstrations by women and children and wounded war veterans yesterday.

Trouble is expected Monday when a nation-wide 24-hour strike of state employes and railroad workers has been called by the Communist-ruled General Confederation of Labor. The public servants are protesting that pay increases approved Wednesday by the cabinet are inadequate.

Taft Sees Europe Communism Halted Unless Red Army Aids

New York, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) said today that communism could spread no farther without the help of the Red army and "on the spot" officials do not expect war to result from the Berlin crisis.

Senator and Mrs. Taft were among the 989 passengers returning from Europe aboard the liner America. They went aboard shortly after the election and spent 26 days in Italy, Switzerland, Holland and France.

Asked if communism was becoming stronger in Europe, Taft replied:

"No. The general opinion in all countries that I visited is that communism is growing weaker as an open political force. Without the support of the Russian army, communism is not likely to become stronger."

Taft ducked most political questions. But he spoke at length on the European situation. Among the points he made were:

1. The airlift has impressed Russia with American air power and taught American military leaders how to supply an Army from the air.

2. Economic conditions have improved in countries participating in the Economic Cooperation Administration.

3. American aid to Europe may be reduced some in 1950 and should be reduced considerably the following year.

4. France's slow recovery is due to political rather than economic problems.

5. Dismantling of German factories should be halted except for those which would permit the

"To love, honor and obey"

Catholic, Son Of Canterbury Prelate to Wed

London, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The eldest son of the head of the Church of England will marry a Roman Catholic Saturday. A Catholic priest will officiate.

The bridegroom is Henry Fears Fisher, 30, lawyer son of Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the Archbishop of Canterbury. The bride is Felicity Sutton, 26, pretty Chelsea artist, who herself describes the marriage as "a controversial matter."

The 10-year romance blossomed despite long-standing controversy between the two churches. Henry Fisher does not plan to become a Catholic; therefore the service will not be performed before the high altar.

The Rev. Alphonso de Zulueta, who will perform the service in the Catholic Church of Our Most Holy Redeemer and St. Thomas More, said: They will be married subject to the usual conditions of the Catholic Church."

These conditions require that any children of the marriage will be brought up in the Roman Catholic faith; and that the bride will not attend a second religious wedding ceremony—in the Church of England, for instance.

Dr. Fisher will not attend the ceremony, but Mrs. Fisher and her five other sons will. The archbishop refused comment.

"He will be taking ordinations and, whatever the circumstances, would not have been able to attend. It is quite understandable," said Miss Sutton.

"He is, after all, the head of the Church of England and could not, as such, attend a Catholic service. It would be like attending a service at the Vatican. In the same way, the Pope could not attend a service in Westminster Abbey."

An Anglican church spokesman said his church has no ecclesiatical law or regulation forbidding mixed marriages.

U. S. Rejects Czech Bid for Machinery

By The Associated Press

The United States has in effect rejected a Czecht government plea for more American shipments of critically needed machinery and equipment, it was disclosed yesterday.

Government officials said after studying the Czech appeal that the United States will continue to screen "very carefully" every American export to Czechoslovakia.

This policy means, they said, that no export licenses will be issued for "war potential" goods or scarce products for Czechoslovakia or any other eastern European country.

Ambassador Vladimir Outrata of the Communist-run Czech government personally appealed to the State Department December 3 for a "more liberal trade policy" toward his country.

Outrata especially urged delivery of approximately 17 million dollars in American machinery, most of it parts for a steel strip mill to be established in Vitkovice, Czechoslovakia.

Government officials made it plain yesterday there is very little prospect the Czechs will get the steel works since it falls into the "war potential" classification.

Some of this equipment already has been manufactured and paid for. It was ordered long before the Communists took over the Czech government and at a time when the United States was trying to encourage trade to that country.

American trade experts said Russia produced very little of the complex machinery needed by the Czechs.

The Russians tried to help out the Czechs three days ago when they announced Moscow would lend some of its gold and dollar stores to the Czech government to enable it to buy from other countries.

Control Plan Ordered for Jap Economy

By The Associated Press

The United States ordered the Japanese government yesterday to impose a tough new nine-point economic control program aimed at curbing inflation and increasing exports.

Similar measures were proposed months ago by Gen. Douglas MacArthur but the Tokyo government officials said, balked at risking unpopularity by carrying them out.

Yesterday the Army and State Departments, after notifying the 11-nation Far Eastern commission, announced a formal directive to MacArthur. He is to tell the Japanese to "carry out an effective economic stabilization program" as "rapidly as possible." This is "calculated to achieve fiscal, monetary price and wage stability" as well as to increase production for export.

Backing it is an implied threat to scale down American appropriations unless the Japanese take "resolute and intensive steps to meet inflationary peril. The occupation is costing about 450 million dollars this year aside from the expense of maintaining some 100,000 American troops commanded by MacArthur.

The announcement said the performance of the Japanese "will be weighed in connection with future requests for appropriated funds."

The new measures call for a "true" budget balance, increased taxes and collections, and tighter controls over credit, wages, prices, foreign trade, rationing and food collection.

They will be developed, the announcement said, "to pave the way for the early establishment of a single general exchange rate." Fixing the foreign exchange value of the yen was recommended this month by the Far Eastern Commission, which sets policies for MacArthur to carry out as supreme Allied commander.

Officials said the program's immediate purpose is to strengthen the hands of MacArthur and the Japanese government in putting through an unpalatable program of austerity to deal with dangerous inflation.

Japan's recovery thus far was declared to be encouraging. November industrial production reached 62 per cent of the 1930-34 average, a gain of 47 per cent in a year. Exports this year are expected to reach 260 million dollars, a 48 per cent gain.

Doctors Await Autopsy on Jap Hurt by Bomb

Tokyo, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—An autopsy on a 28-year-old Japanese may reveal whether his slow death can be attributed to the Hiroshima atom bomb blast of three years ago, physicians said today.

Doctors said that if it can be proved that Shiro Nakayama's death was caused by the bomb, medical science will have made a "tremendous advance."

Nakayama died Wednesday in the Tokyo University Hospital after X-ray and other treatments failed to check swellings on his skin, groin, armpits and internal organs. Doctors believe the condition may have been a delayed effect of the atom bomb.

Nakayama suffered from atomic radiation, including fevers and loss of hair, immediately after the Hiroshima blast. He was nearly a half mile from the center of the explosion.

Later he apparently recovered and was well enough to return to work with the government's statistics commission. In November, he returned to the hospital with swellings under his armpits which later spread to other parts of his body.

French to Cut Arms

Paris, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—Official sources said today the government decided to reduce its military budget for 1949 by about 430-million to about $1,120,000,000.

Arguments Closed On Jap Sentences

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Neither the Supreme Court nor any court in this Nation can review action of the tribunal which convicted 25 Japanese leaders of war crimes, Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman said yesterday.

As arguments concluded before the high court on whether it can reconsider decisions of the International Military Tribunal for the Far East—with the lives of seven Japanese and imprisonment for the others at stake—Perlman declared:

1. When the Nation acts through the President in the field of foreign relations, "it is acting in a field which is outside the courts' " . . . power of review.

2. The International Tribunal is unquestionably a legal, international tribunal, with power "derived from the sovereignty of 11 different nations."

3. No action can be brought against Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Supreme Commander of Allied Forces, for in that role he serves 11 nations, and "is not operating under the Constitution or any of the laws of this country."

Perlman scored the "audacity" and "temerity" of "conspirators who planned the destruction of this Government and were responsible for dropping the bombs on Pearl Harbor," to attempt "to use the processes of this court to get rights that never belonged to them and could never be granted."

Five defense attorneys pleaded with the court that it must not permit to go unchallenged the convictions for "crimes against peace," which "is not an offense under our American law; it never existed as such."

"We don't ask you to review what an international tribunal did," said defense attorney David Smith of Washington, "we ask you to review what General MacArthur did as a citizen and officer of the United States Army."

All the Supreme Court justices participated at one time or another in yesterday's four hours of argument, and then took the case under advisement. Joseph B. Keenan, prosecutor of the Japanese before the Tokyo tribunal, was present but did not argue the case.

"It is inherent in the sovereignty of this Nation," said Solicitor General Perlman, "that the Chief Executive . . . has authority to make this kind of agreement" to join in establishing such an international tribunal. He mentioned that the President had similar authority in the "destroyers for bases deal with England, for example."

"Suppose," asked Justice Black, "the President had agreed with 11 countries to try everybody in the 11 countries who had helped bring on the war" and even established such a court in Washington, "and tried them and sentenced them to death . . . you wouldn't agree that could be done?"

"No sir," replied Perlman, "there have to be limitations."

In an extensive discussion on General MacArthur's role as supreme commander, Justice Murphy asked what would happen if the War Department gave MacArthur an order "antagonistic" to the Far East Commission's orders, "who would he obey?"

"Well," replied Perlman, "I hope that never will be raised," but later, when Justice Douglas asked:

"Do you mean that an American general who acts for another government as well as this one would be beyond the reach of this court?" Perlman replied:

"I do, in this case."

"That's a rather startling statement," said Justice Douglas.

Asked if a habeas corpus writ could be served on MacArthur, Perlman replied, "I don't think your process could reach him. He is the supreme commander for 11 nations . . . He is not operating under the Constitution or any of the laws of this country."

If the Supreme Court ordered release of the prisoners, General MacArthur would not have to obey the order, said Perlman.

At another point, Perlman said, "There is nothing new or novel in these proceedings . . . the crimes punished here were in existence and recognized by civilized nations for some time," and he later mentioned the outlawing of aggressive war by the Kellogg-Briand Pact.

Said Defense Attorney Smith:

"If this court has no jurisdiction . . . then all aliens and citizens of the United States physically present on foreign soil in military occupied areas, deprived and denied their rights and liberty by official action taken by Army officers of the United States, have no redress in any judicial form in the United States."

One of his clients, Koki Hirota, was a former Prime Minister of Japan and three times Foreign Minister, but retired in May, 1938, Smith said, and "had no part in the Pacific war."

When the Japanese surrender was signed in 1945, he said, it was never conceived that culpability of Japanese officials would "go back to the Mukden incident . . . or the undeclared war between China and Japan."

The Far East tribunal was "General MacArthur's tribunal," said Smith. "He originated it, he told them what the international law was that they had to work on . . . it stems from one man and comes back to one man . . . he can't divorce himself from our Constitution and our laws."

Similar contentions were made by Defense Attorneys William Logan, jr., and George A. Furness of New York; John G. Brannon of Kansas City, and George Yamaoka, American-born Japanese from New York.

Yamaoka said in conclusion:

"If we do not exercise any control, the executive and military agencies of our Government will be wholly unhampered and unrestrained" in their acts.

"So long as there was American participation in this trial, to the extent of that participation the safeguards of the Constitution must apply . . ."

U. N. Rejects Membership Bid of Israel

Paris, Dec. 17 (AP).—Israel lost out in the United Nations today in her efforts to gain U. N. membership—at least until spring.

Five of the 11 nations in the Security Council voted to admit Israel. These were the United States, Soviet Russia, the Soviet Ukraine, Argentina and Colombia.

Syria voted against admission.

Five nations refused to vote—Britain, France, China, Canada and Belgium.

This line-up defeated Israel's bid, since seven "yes" votes are needed to approve a question.

[Belgium, Canada and France held the fate of the Israeli application in their hands. None of the three expressed opposition to eventual entry of Israel into the U. N., nor did they deny the existence of Israel as a full-fledged state, the New York Herald Tribune said.

[Delegates of the three powers stressed, however, that an immediate council recommendation to the Assembly for admission of Israel would, in their opinion, seriously prejudice efforts of the new Palestine Conciliation Commission to bring Jews and Arabs together in a final settlement.]

The vote came after Egypt charged that Jewish troops had launched a new attack in the Negev. Israel denied this.

The council's action did not end Israel's chances of joining the world organization. Aubrey Eban, Israeli representative to the U. N., said: "We submit our application again."

The council sidetracked for the day Egypt's complaint that Jewish forces attacked trapped Egyptian troops at Faluja in the Negev Desert yesterday. The complaint was read, however, by Faris el Khouri, Syrian delegate.

It contended the Israeli attack was made "with masses of troops," and asked the council to place the matter on its agenda today because it was a question of "great urgency."

An Israeli government spokesman in Tel Aviv denied the Egyptian charges. He said the Negev was quiet except for heavy rain in the desert.

Dr. Philip C. Jessup of the United States objected to placing the reported Faluja incident on the agenda until a report from the U. N. truce team in the field is received.

Only Syria and Belgium voted to discuss the Egyptian complaint immediately. All other council members abstained.

The vote on Israel completed the last major business of the United Nations in Paris. The council returns to its headquarters at Lake Success, N. Y., in January but might be called here in the interim if an emergency arises.

No move was made in the council today to take up an Indonesian request for an emergency session on the situation in the East Indies.

U. N. Opens Aid Program For Palestine Refugees

Geneva, Dec. 17 (AP).—The United Nations launched today a 30-million-dollar program of aid to Palestine war refugees. One agency involved said reports have been received from the Middle East that "people are already dying from exposure."

Stanton Griffis, director of U. N. relief for Palestine refugees, signed agreements with three international voluntary agencies for administration of the project.

The U. N. Organization for Palestine Relief will be responsible for the program, distributing supplies through the International Red Cross Committee, the League of Red Cross Societies, and the American Friends (Quaker) Service Committee, with whom Griffis signed the contracts. Funds come from contributions by national governments.

ment lines, but Topping said the most reliable reports in Pengpu confirmed Communist statements that the Twelfth had been wiped out. The Communists said the Twelfth was found to have totaled 120,000 men in four armies.

A government military spokesman in Nanking meanwhile admitted withdrawals from Hwaian and Paoying, 115 and 90 miles northeast of Nanking. Impartial military observers said this was not immediately significant as only small Red bands were in the area.

Dispatches from Peiping said the government troops of Gen. Fu Tso-yi were continuing counterattacks just outside the city.

The Communist radio, in a broadcast heard in San Francisco, said Peiping's South Airfield, seven miles outside the walls, fell to the Reds at 3 a. m.

Several hours later, however, Associated Press correspondent Harold K. Milks landed at that field and went safely into Peiping.

Milks reported mortar and artillery shells were landing nearby and that the field was deserted.

Inside the Peiping walls, soldiers, refugees from the countryside and permanent residents jammed every street.

[The New York Herald Tribune said deteriorating conditions at Tangku, the port of Tientsin, which is jammed with Nationalist soldiers, have been reflected in disturbing events in the last two days.

[Yesterday the British steamship Hupeeh was fired upon by Nationalist troops as it left harbor. Today, unloading of Economic Cooperation Administration wheat from the American cargo ship Joseph Feuer had to be suspended because of inability to obtain lighterage. The Joseph Feuer reportedly will leave Saturday for Tsingtao, in Shantung Province, with 1300 tons of wheat unloaded, out of a cargo of 9000 tons.

Peiping 'Bluff' Is Build-up for Deal, Reds Say

Hongkong, Dec. 17 (AP).—Communist spokesmen said today that Fu Tso-yi, governor of Suiyuan Province, is using Peiping to build up his bargaining power.

"Peiping could be captured at any time we choose," the informants said, "but Fu, perhaps hoping to make some deal, is pretending to defend the ancient walled capital.

"He is trading on our known desire not to destroy this beautiful center of Chinese culture.

"No Chinese army will take the responsibility of destroying Peiping," the informants declared.

Marshal Li Chi-shen, leader of the exiled Kuomintang revolutionary committee, told reporters he received a personal emissary yesterday from "a very important figure in Nanking who could be a substitute for Chiang Kai-shek."

Li, the leading Chinese dissident in Hongkong, said the emissary asked him what his chief at Nanking could do to solve the national crisis.

"I told him if he would help to kick out Chiang Kai-shek right away he could keep national troops in the areas they are now occupying, provided nothing was destroyed or sabotaged, all government employes were kept on their jobs, and order was maintained.

"I told him then to wait until a democratic coalition provisional government could take over, and that I personally thought both we democratic dissidents and Communists would consider retaining such high personages as himself, provided their individual records are clean and they are willing to work for the future of China."

Informed observers thought the Nanking leader might be Vice President Li Tsung-jen, and that the emissary might be connected with Gen. Lung Yun, former governor of Yunan province, who was reported to have arrived here earlier this week from Nanking. Lung was deposed by Chiang Kai-shek shortly after the end of the Japanese war.

Li Chi-shen said "the fighting in this civil war is about over. There will be no more big battles because few Nationalist generals have many troops left, and those who do cannot get them to fight."

His remarks strengthened the impression that an intensive round of conferences among dissidents and Communists here is beginning to evolve a political pattern for China's immediate future.

Li said earlier that the dissidents and Communists will confer "possibly at Peiping" to set up a provisional coalition government

War Inquiry Group Lands in Costa Rica

San Jose, Coast Rica, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—A four-nation investigaton commission from the Organization of the American States arrived late today to look into charges that Costa Rica has been invaded by Nicaragua.

Made up of representatives from the United States, Brazil, Colombia and Mexico, the commission was greeted at the airport by President Jose Figueres and his entire government junta.

United States Commissioner Paul C. Daniels reported the trip was uneventful. The other commissioners are Luis Quintanilla of Mexico, Jose Maria Bello, Brazil, and Silvio Villegas, Colombia.

It was understood that the committee planned to begin work immediately.

Shortly before the committee's arrival it was announced that Foreign Minister Benjamin Odio had apologized to Nicaraguan Charge d'Affairs Emilio Ortega for the "bombing" of his residence in San Jose.

A strong defense line crossing northwestern Costa Rica from the Pacific to the high mountains in the interior has been readied to meet the invaders from Nicaragua, President Figueres said today.

On his return from a three-day inspection trip to the front with President-elect Otilio Ulate, Figueres announced: "We are ready; let them come."

Figueres equipped his troops with flame-throwers.

Laughing like a schoolboy, he told how he fired a whole machine-gun magazine, "just to try it out."

"There was nothing around to shoot at, so I just let it fire. You should have seen everyone jump when they heard the shooting!"

The government tonight said ivading forces in northwestern Costa Rica suffered the loss of five men in an attack last night near Santa Rosa.

There were no Costa Rican casualties, an army bulletin said. (This dispatch did not specify whether the invaders' "losses" were killed or wounded.)

Panamanian Foes Eschew Bullets for Baseballs

Panama, Dec. 17 (AP).—In at least one Central American nation last night, the government and opposition clashed with baseball bats instead of rifles and tommy guns.

The majority and minority blocs of the Panama National Assembly played a benefit softball game to raise a Christmas fund for the city's poor.

The government defeated the opposition by a 19-18 score in seven innings. There were no speeches.

Nations Meet to Choose New Commission Head

Representatives of 21 American nations met in special session yesterday to appoint a new chairman of the five-nation investigating commission that is looking into the "invasion" of Costa Rica.

Members of the commission left here Thursday night by plane for Costa Rica, but it turned out that the chairman, Peruvian representative Dr. Juan Bautista de Lavalle, remained behind, a victim of "diplomatic illness."

It first was reported that De Lavalle actually was ill, but Peruvian official said later he was withdrawn from the commission because Costa Rica has not established diplomatic relations with the present Peruvian government.

WING SPANNING 45 YEARS—The Kittyhawk's flight of 120 feet in 1903 was slightly more than half the 230-foot wing span of the Air Force's giant B-36 bomber, as indicated in this photodiagram. While the fuel consumption of the Wright brothers' small motor was 2½ gallons an hour—if it could have stayed aloft that long—the B-36 uses more than 250 gallons an hour and has a range of 10,000 miles. Its cruising speed is 250 miles an hour and the Wright brothers' top speed was 40

EARLY FLIGHT TALK—There was little zigging or zagging in the Wright brothers' first flight, but Capt. Bill Tate, who witnessed the takeoff at Kitty Hawk, N. C., uses gestures typical of the modern pilot as he explains to two of the Wrights' nieces. They are Mrs. J. H. Jameson (left) and Mrs. Harold S. Miller, both from Dayton

Kitty Hawk Is Accepted

St. Louis, they heard Vice President-Elect Alben W. Barkley tell in his acceptance speech of the 12-second first flight by the two bicycle mechanics who had put together "the assembly of strips of wood, of canvas and of metal."

"If, at the time of that historic event of 45 years ago, the possibility of human flight was unbelievable," said Barkley, "life today without air transport is equally unthinkable."

Some in the audience who knew the Wright brothers nodded as Milton Wright described the matter-of-fact way in which his uncles used their gadgets and 'planed the spruce strips and glued them together into ribs for their 'flying machine,' in their bicycle shop," where he played.

"It left me with the impression that all bicycle shops did the same thing," he said. "It was very commonplace."

Orville and Wilbur Wright were neither "demigods whose minds suddenly produced the answer to the problem of flight," nor "ignorant mechanics who stumbled on the secrets of flight," he said. "They were very normal young men who had an idea and saw a problem and set about to solve that problem."

Wright said he was surprised, many years after the historic flight, to learn that the first plane had not been dismantled "since no one in our family could afford to waste good wood or metal or fabric." Usually, he said, parts of old machinery were used to make up new machines.

British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks told of the care bestowed on the Kitty Hawk, or the Flyer, as the Wrights called it, during the 20 years it was in the Science Museum at South Kensington, London.

Neither he nor Wright referred to the dispute between Orville Wright and Smithsonian officials, over the significance of the Kitty Hawk flight.

The dispute led to his sending the Kitty Hawk to England in 1928, and it was brought back last month as a result of a request by Orville to the British in 1943. The inventor died last January 30. Wilbur had died many years before.

Describing the Kitty Hawk as "the start of the twentieth century," and "one of the rarest of historical objects," Sir Oliver said the British were conscious of their historical responsibility in having its temporary custody, and took special precautions to guard it "against its progeny" during the war.

President Truman's message, read by his Air Force aide, Col. Robert B. Landry, said: "I feel that the entire Nation will rejoice because the historic craft is home again. I can think of no acquisition to the treasures of the National Museum, administered by the Smithsonian Institution, which would exemplify more eloquently the purpose of its founder in providing here in the National Capital and establishment for the increase of diffusion of knowledge among men."

The Wright plane went on public display at 2 p. m. yesterday, following the acceptance ceremony.

Vice President-elect Barkley described how the historic flight on that bitter December day was made "before an audience of three men from the Kill Devil lifesaving station, one other man and a boy."

In Barkley's own audience was the "boy" he referred to, John Moore, now 62, and the only living witness to the flight. Looking up at the canvas craft yesterday in the Arts and Industries Building, for the first time since he saw it fly, he remarked that it looked about the same, "only cleaned up a bit."

Mrs. Carrie Grumbach, the Wright family housekeeper for 48 years, another guest at the ceremony, recalled that the famous brothers used to sew the muslin wings for their planes at home.

"They were very good at sewing, too," she said. "They could do anything they wanted to, and they were always very methodical and meticulous."

flying characteristics before using the full power of the plane.

He also revealed that the plane has flown "many, many times at speeds near and above the speed of sound" in its original make-up—unchanged as conceived on the drawing boards.

President Truman, in presenting the trophy, read a citation calling "this an epochal achievement in the history of world aviation—the greatest since the first successful flight of the original "Wright Brothers' airplane."

The President, looked up from the citation at this point and noted that the Kitty Hawk plane was being accepted that day at the Smithsonian Institution.

"It is a pleasure to greet you and to turn this trophy over to you for one year—one year is all you can have it," said Mr. Truman, amid laughter.

The Collier Trophy is awarded for "the greatest achievement in aviation, the value of which has been demonstrated by actual use during the preceding year."

Some 55 members of the Early Birds, pioneer aviators who piloted a balloon or plane before December 17, 1916, were special guests at the dinner.

Other guests included Thomas Beck, chairman of the board of Colliers magazine; Dr. Alexander Wetmore, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution; Jerome Fanciulli, founding member of the Aero Club of Washington and former aviation editor of The Washington Post; Dr. J. C. Hunsaker, chairman of NACA; Brig. Gen. Frank Lahm, president of the Early Birds; Maj. Gen. Oliver P. had been a good boy, and maybe slip him a dime, or something," said Becraft.

Physicians reported Michael's condition virtually unchanged last night. They were having some trouble, they said, with blood transfusions. A new formula for whole blood, indirect transfusions with accompanying saline injections, was worked out for use yesterday, they said.

The process, according to the hospital medical chief of staff, was devised by Col. Eugene R. Whitmore, (retired, Medical Corps, United States Army,) a former professor of pathology and parasitology at Georgetown University School of Medicine.

Incidentally, when Becraft heard Michael was getting blood from the Red Cross blood bank, he went down to the Red Cross and donated a pint of his own.

Glider Snatch Rescue Fails

northwest of Bluie West One, an airfield at Narsarssuak, Greenland.

Tuesday night the marooned fliers, apparently still in high spirits, radioed: "Send us some ham sandwiches."

Howling Arctic winds and driveing snow had delayed the aerial rescue.

Radio messages indicated the men had built a house of ice blocks and installed heaters dropped by parachute. New supplies of food and fuel were dropped.

Base for Air Rescue Is Tricky Spot, Too

Westover Field, Mass., Dec. 17 (U.P.).—The words "Bluie West One" meant life or death today to nine men stranded on a Greenland icecap.

A former stopping off place for combat-bound bombers during World War II, the air strip at Bluie West One dropped into the relative obscurity of a weather station when peace came.. Bluie West One is below unexplored mountains and the only entrance is along a narrow twisting fiord.

When and if the tow plane picks up the glider, they will have only one means of returning to the 2-mile long runway of Bluie West One, and that is almost like a tunnel.

Towering peaks and ice-topped cliffs force planes to circle to the coast, enter the fiord and fly 20 miles along a river.

At a height of 200 feet, the wing tips of the plane barely miss rocky ledges lining the banks.

Near the end of the run, Sugar Loaf Mountain juts out into the water breaking the river valley into a "Y". A turn to the right would bring the plane nowhere. A turn to the left, and then a reverse curve brings the ship to the head of the runway.

Winds make no difference. There is only one approach.

Retail Stores' Profits Ratio Dips to 3.8%

By S. Oliver Goodman

Net profits of department stores and specialty shops dipped to 3.8 per cent in relation to sales in the first nine months this year.

This compared with a ratio of 3.9 per cent in the same 1947 period and 6.5 per cent in 1946, according to the Controllers Congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. The latest report is based on results of 240 firms, while last year's was based on a representative group of 185 stores.

John J. Kavanagh, general manager of the congress, said that stores generally had not increased their markups to meet the higher operating expenses. This would indicate, he added, that most retailers were relying on increased dollar volume of sales to cover higher operating costs.

Most of the stores, 189, reported an advance in dollar sales while 30 reported declines ranging from 1 per cent to 16 per cent from the previous year's level. The average gross sale rose to $4.65 from the $4.34 reported in the like period last year.

The NRDGA survey summarized other phases of store operations as follows:

Sales return ratio rose to 7.4 per cent of the gross sales, compared with 6.9 per cent for the same group of stores at the end of the third quarter of 1947.

Inventory increases ranged from 1 per cent t 68 per cent for 175 stores. Generally, the larger stores had smaller gains in goods on hand.

Operating expenses hit 31.1 per cent of net sales, compared with 30.4 per cent a year earlier.

Total payroll expenses advanced to 17.1 per cent of sales, compared with 16.8 per cent for the like 1947 period.

GAS SALES: Washington Gas Light Co. reported November sales totaled 13,190,747 therms, an increase of 13.47 per cent over the same 1947 month. For the first 11 months of this year, cumulative sales were 135,825,882 therms, a gain of 16 per cent over the like 1947 period.

FORECAST: When retail sales for the Nation and Washington are finally tabulated for December, the percentage increase over last year's record is going to be sharp. Here's why. Christmas fell on a Thursday last year, leaving only three shopping days in the week ended December 27, 1947. This year Christmas falls on a Saturday, which means five full shopping days in the week ended December 25. Some informed quarters predict that the Federal Reserve Board's report for the week ended December 25 may show an upsurge of as much as 100 per cent over the same period last year.

IN VETERANS' CLUB: Herbert H. Lawson, president of Washington Loan & Trust Co., was admitted to membership this week in the bank's Quarter Century Club. Miss Helen W. Hume also became a member. The two were honored at the institution's annual dinner and dance for officers and employes in the Shoreham. Christmas bonus checks were distributed.

YULE SPIRIT: The spirit of Christmas is reaching out into the field of directors-stockholders relations—in the pleasantest possible way, through dividends. Directors of the Munising Wood Products Co. in Michigan are putting in each shareholder's stocking a cash dividend of 12½ cents a share and the following of the firm's products: a breadboard, wooden mixing bowls, clothes pins, forks, spoons and a rolling pin. The company also makes railroad ties, but the directors aren't sending any to the stockholders, at least not this Christmas.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: John S. Sinclair, former president of Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia and former executive vice president of the New York Life Insurance Co., has been elected president of the National Industrial Conference Board. He succeeds Dr. Virgil Jordan, who was made chancellor of the economic research group . . . Bryce B. Smith, former Mayor of Kansas City, has resigned as a director of the Tucker Corp. . . . Louis F. Flagg, former senior air-conditioning sales engineer with the Washington office of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co., has been appointed Eastern regional service and installation manager.

DIVIDENDS: Publicly reported cash payments by corporations last month totaled $206,600,000, a 17 per cent increase over November, 1947, the Commerce Department said yesterday. For the three months ended November 30, they totaled $1,360,000, a 16 per cent rise over the same period of 1947. The department said publicly reported dividends account for about 60 to 65 per cent of all cash dividends paid.

ODD LOTS: With the entry of Newfoundland into confederation with Canada, the island's currency will disappear. Beginning March 31, all existing Newfoundland money will be replaced by Canadian denominations . . . The Bemis Bag Co. will distribute $500,000 in extra wage payments to 1400 employes in plants in Virginia and 14 other States . . . House & Herrmann Furniture Co., Washington, announces a bonus of two weeks pay to all employes of one year's service . . . Continental Motors Co. has received an initial $18,800,000 order from the ordnance department for a new type tank engine . . . Lukens Steel Co. plans a two-million-dollar program for enlarging its finishing facilities . . . Cleveland Trust Co. stockholders will vote on a proposal, to increase capital stock from $13,800,000 to 15 million dollars.

McDowell Claims New Data on Spies

Triangle Case

Doctor Held In Slaying Takes Poison

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
DR. AND MRS. RUTLEDGE

St. Louis, Dec. 17 (AP).—Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, accused of fatally stabbing an admirer of his attractive wife, swallowed poison today when police went to his apartment to arrest him.

The 27-year-old assistant resident physician at Children's Hospital was charged with first-degree murder in a preliminary warrant issued in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

He was charged in the slaying of Byron C. Hattman, 29, an engineer for a St. Louis electrical manufacturing firm. Hattman's battered body was found in a Cedar Rapids hotel room Wednesday.

Detective Sergt. Charles Beckman quoted Mrs. Sydney Rutledge, 23-year-old blonde, as saying her husband quarreled with Hattman over the latter's attentions to her. She said her husband followed Hattman, a bachelor, to Iowa Tuesday "to have it out with Byron once and for all."

The handsome young doctor was in the bathroom when police arrived at his apartment, and said nothing of the poison until after he collapsed in a squad car en route to police headquarters.

Rutledge revived somewhat later today and made an oral statement to Detective Sergt. Maurice O'Neill and Lieut. John Sinclair. They said the physician told them they fought and Hattman drew a pocket knife, after he offered Hattman money to stay away from his wife.

The 6-foot 2-inch doctor said that Hattman, also a large man, fell to the floor after "I took the knife away from him and jabbed him a number of times to keep him away," the police said.

Mrs. Rutledge met Hattman last February when she went to work at the company where he was employed. She said she went boating with him and several other employes last July.

Mrs. Rutledge was quoted by Detective Capt. William Washer as saying she had sexual relations with Hattman last July when they were in her apartment and that she later told her husband about it.

Chambers' Wife Held in Auto Death In Baltimore

Baltimore, Dec. 17 (AP).—An automobile which police said was driven by Mrs. Whittaker Chambers, wife of the confessed prewar Communist courier, hit and killed a 70-year-old Baltimore woman today.

Patrolmen Leroy F. Davis and Arthur Plummer charged Mrs. Chambers with reckless driving at the scene. Later when the victim, Mrs. Maggie Thomas, died in the hospital, Mrs. Chambers accompanied by her husband was brought to police court and charged with assaulting, knocking down and thereby causing the death of the pedestrian.

In a low quiet voice, Mrs. Chambers gave her name as "Esther Chambers," age "48" and address, "R. F. D. 2, Westminster, Md."

World Fund Approves Colombia Devaluation

The International Monetary Fund announced last night that it has concurred in a change of the par value of the Colombian currency from the previous rate of approximately 1.75 pesos to the United States dollar to approximately 1.95 pesos to the dollar. Colombia proposed the change.

The fund said the change will be accompanied by certain modifications in the existing multiple currency system of Colombia, which should have the effect of curbing imports and thereby tend to lessen the drain on Colombia's foreign exchange reserves.

It said the measures will remove some features of the existing system which had been deemed in conflict with the policies of the fund, such as the export premium on basic commodities.

New York, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) of the Un-American Activities Committee, today said he had dug up some "highly important" new information involving "the matter of espionage in Government affairs."

McDowell came here for a one-day, one-man subcommittee hearing of the House group and he was scheduled to hold it in the Federal Courthouse where the new grand jury probing Communist espionage also is in session.

McDowell failed to show up. Two witnesses were on hand, George Hewitt, an admitted former Communist, and Max Yergan, former head of the Council on African Affairs, which is listed by the Attorney General as a subversive organization. Both are Negroes.

Finally, two committee investigators announced the hearing had been called off.

Was at Hotel

McDowell, it was learned later, was holding his hearing in the Hotel Pennsylvania with two other witnesses who were not identified and who have not appeared before the grand jury. It was from them that the Congressman got his new information.

Then he telephoned the Un-American Activities Committee in Washington and told his colleagues of his new information. McDowell said the two witnesses "testified to all matters pertinent to the questions at hand."

He was asked whether those "questions" involved Alger Hiss, indicted for perjury by the grand jury after denying he passed along restricted Government documents to Whittaker Chambers, former Communist courier.

"I mean the matter of espionage in Government affairs," he said.

McDowell said he would return to Washington tonight.

"Admiration Increased"

Asked whether he would appear before the Federal grand jury in New York, he said:

"My admiration for the New York grand juries has increased tremendously in the last few days. But I do not know whether I will appear before them."

The new grand jury, meanwhile, held a two-hour session at which Chambers testified. Henry J. Wadleigh, a former State Department official, was in the waiting room but was not called.

The grand jury recessed until Monday. It was expected the panel would decide on a fairly lengthy recess during the Christmas and New Year holidays.

Chambers was asked by reporters what he thought of Hiss' indictment.

"I think the grand jury, the Department of Justice and the FBI each did an impressive job," he said. "I would be inhuman if I could take any pleasure in Mr. Hiss' personal troubles."

Two to Seek New Spy Laws

handle and still stay within the constitutional Bill of Rights.

Clark later indicated he will ask Congress to extend the period in which persons can be tried for espionage. The present statute bars prosecution of suspects for spying if more than three years has elapsed since the offense.

Clark said that "technical surveillance," or legal wire-tapping, may be recommended as well, with proper restriction on its use. Strengthening of laws requiring registration of foreign agents and aliens and stronger safeguards against subversive groups and individuals may also be asked.

In fact, he may outline pretty much the course of action he presented to the Un-American Activities Committee last February. Then as now he favored new teeth in the antisubversion laws, but told the House unit that a continuous campaign of exposure of Communist organizations and groups can do more than all the statutes on the books.

Mundt meanwhile told newsmen that the House group's revised Mundt-Nixon bill probably will be handled separately. In addition to anti-Communist features, he said it will be concerned chiefly with "screening of disloyal persons." Its flat ban on Communists in Government will again provide penalties alike against Communists who take Government jobs and officials who hire them.

Mundt said a subcommittee will probably be named to question both Chambers and Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, central figure in another alleged spy ring, on the best means of breaking up organizations of any future ring.

The South Dakota Republican, who will shift over to the Senate in January and there introduce a companion Mundt-Nixon bill, predicted the committee will rewrite controversial section 4 of the measure "to take any thought control out of it." He said another change will make it clear that the bill doesn't "outlaw" communism even though it seeks to control it.

Filipino Red Witness Follows U. S. Pattern

Manila, Dec. 17 (AP).—The Philippines House of Representatives Committee on Un-Filipino Activities haled the Communist Party secretary general before it today.

What happend had a familiar ring—United States style.

The Communist official, Mariano Balgos, refused to testify unless permitted to read a 7000-word prepared statement. Committee Chairman Cornelio Villareal told Balgos he was a witness and not attending a political meeting.

Words flew. Villareal unexpectedly ejected newspapermen and photographers. Then he readmitted them, explained Balgos had agreed to answer questions only.

Said Balgos:

Filipinos "are gradually beginning to see that their main enemy is United States imperialism.

Canadian Scientist Must Go to Prison

Ottawa, Dec. 17 (AP).—Dr. Raymond Boyer, Montreal scientist sentenced to two years imprisonment for conspiring to violate the Canadian official secrets act, today lost his plea for permission to appeal to Canada's Supreme Court.

The decision of Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret means Boyer must go to prison.

The ruling closes the court books on the Canadian spy case which began in 1946. Boyer, a former McGill University professor, was arrested in the investigation of a spy ring dealing with development of atomic weapons. Some of those convicted were accused of helping send data to Russia.

Inventory of Documents

Here is a brief inventory of the State Department documents released yesterday by the House Committee on Un-American Activities:

EUROPEAN AFFAIRS

July 21, 1937—
From: Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State. To: Hans H. Dieckhoff, German Ambassador to the United States

An aide-memoire (memorandum) protesting against German barter policies, and politely rejecting German complaints that the United States was trying to hamper German trade with Brazil.

Dec. 31, 1937—
From: Charles F. Darlington, assistant to the chief, Division of Trade Agreements, State Department. To: No address [presumably sent to Harry C. Hawkins, chief, Division of Trade Agreements, State Department].

A memorandum, apparently a draft, of a reply to be made to the German Ambassador's request of October 21, 1937, for trade discussions. The draft said the United States was "ready to cooperate" with Germany in reaching a temporary settlement "which would regularize" German-American commercial relations and lead to full agreement later on a most-favored-nation basis.

Feb. 16, 1938—
From: Herschel V. Johnson, charge d'affaires in London. To: Secretary Hull.

A cable, marked "strictly confidential," reporting a talk between Admiral Lord Chatfield, First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, and Captain Russell Willson, U. S. naval attache. Chatfield indicated the British would favor raising the maximum size of battleships to 39,000 tons in their coming year's program, but making no change in cruiser limits. [The British and Americans had decided to increase battleship sizes after the Japanese had gone beyond the limits allowed in the London naval treaty of 1936.]

FAR EASTERN AFFAIRS

Feb. 14, 1938—
From: Stuart Allen, consul at Tientsin, China. To: Secretary Hull.

A cable (sent from Chefoo) telling of Japanese marine movements eastward from Chefoo, and of "armed Chinese in bodies of considerable size" opposing the Chinese government authorities in the mountains south of Muping.

Feb. 14, 1938—
From: Frank Lockhart, of the U. S. Embassy staff at Pieping. To: Secretary Hull.

A cable saying (1) the interruption of passenger train service on the Peiping-Hankow railway suggested that Chinese irregulars were active around Paoting; and (2) "several tens of thousands" of Japanese troops were reported moving toward Taiyuan.

Feb. 17, 1938—
From: Joseph C. Grew, Ambassador to Japan. To: Secretary Hull.

A cable relaying a British Embassy report that over 17,000 packages were landed near Chinwangtao without payment of duty.

restated American foreign trade policy, and protested politely but firmly against the Nazi government's barter deals with foreign countries.

Another document released last night was a draft, apparently written by Charles F. Darlington of the Trade Agreements Division, of a reply which he thought should be made to an overture from the German Ambassador in October, 1937.

Written in conciliatory language, on December 31, 1937, the Darlington draft said "the United States Government is ready to cooperate with the German government in seeking some temporary, or interim, solution to their common problem, which would regularize German-American commercial relations pending their reestablishment upon a full most-favored nation basis and at the same time facilitate and hasten the attainment of that end."

There is no record that Darlington's proposal ever went farther than Assistant Secretary Francis B. Sayre, then in charge of the trade agreement work of the State Department. Officials said yesterday that negotiations for a trade agreement with Germany never took place, in view of Hitler's invasian and annexation of Austria in March of 1938.

Other documents released last night were routine reports of Japanese troop movements and smuggling, sent by embassy and consular officers in the Far East.

Florida Court Clears Woman On Red Issue

Tallahassee, Fla., Dec. 17 (U.P.).—The Florida Supreme Court today ruled, 5-to-2, that a Miami Beach woman had the right to refuse to testify whether she is a Communist.

The high court reversed a Circuit Court order sentencing Mrs. Leah Adler Benemovsky to 90 days in jail for contempt of court following her refusal to answer the direct question, "are you a Communist?"

The 50-year-old woman, a resident of Dade County for seven years, had been asked the question by County Solicitor Robert R. Taylor who had subpenaed her for questioning in connection with an alleged Communist fund-raising rally held at a Miami Beach hotel last February.

Justice Glenn Terrell, who wrote today's decision, said later that the decision had no bearing on contempt of Congress charges against several persons who refused to answer the same question in hearings before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

"I read the Federal cases in preparation for today's opinion," Terrell said. "The scope of their (Congress') authority is so much broader that I don't think the two cases are similar."

Terrell said in his opinion that Mrs. Benemovsky had the right to refuse to incriminate herself.

The opinion pointed out that membership in the Communist Party is not a crime in Florida. It added, however, that criminal communism is illegal and that Solicitor Taylor apparently had questioned Mrs. Benemovsky in an effort to link her with criminal communism.

Sunday Court

Regardless of whether Monday's Supreme Court decision is to be construed as actually requiring Sunday court sessions in the District of Columbia, it would be a good idea to have court services available over the week-end. The Supreme Court reversed a local grand larceny conviction on the ground that a confession had been obtained after the defendant had been in police custody for 31 hours. If this decision is to be regarded as a precedent, then presumably all detentions for more than 24 hours without arraignment are illegal.

One of the principal criticisms made of the Police Department is the practice of holding persons without charge for "investigation" over periods ranging up to several days. A subcommittee of the District Bar Association last summer recommended that court processes be available "night and day, seven days a week" to take care of just such cases. There is no reason why Sunday court would be a heavy burden on municipal judges. Probably the cases requiring their attention on Sunday would be relatively few and could be disposed of by one judge within an hour. Judges could be assigned in rotation on a sort of duty officer basis to be available if they were needed. The United States Commissioner already has indicated his willingness to hear cases. Certainly the rights of defendants require that court service be available for prompt arraignment and setting of bonds. With such a procedure in operation, there would be no reason for police to hold anyone without charge for more than 24 hours.

Peace And War

Among the published documents from the Chambers Collection, only two seem to have any particular significance 11 years afterward. These two disclose that in response to a friendly overture from the German Ambassador in Washington, Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, officers in the Trade Agreements Division of the State Department suggested the wisdom of trying to reach an economic accord with the Nazi government. They thought such an agreement might help turn Berlin away from the path of force by demonstrating the benefits of prosperity and peace.

But they also suggested that such a move ought to be secretly pursued until after the congressional election in the fall of 1938, since it would be sure to provoke an outcry from the anti-Nazi public. The episode is acutely illustrative of the peculiar contradictions of reason and emotion prevalent at that time. In all the peace-loving nations this split personality showed up. On the one hand the militaristic and aggressive actions and inclinations of the three Axis powers were roundly condemned. On the other hand, everyone hoped desperately that some way short of war could be found to reach a settlement and a lasting peace.

Herr Dieckhoff handed his aide memoire to Sumner Welles on October 21, 1937, just about two weeks after President Roosevelt delivered his famous "quarantine" speech in Chicago. A day after that speech the League of Nations, seconded in an independent statement by Secretary Hull, had condemned Japanese aggression in China. The speech, of course, brought forth a wave of isolationist reaction against the Administration, a fact doubtless still fresh in the minds of the Trade Agreements officers three months later. Their reports on the German overture came at the end of December and early in January 1938.

At the same time, the idea of heading off the aggressors, leading them into the ways of peaceful change, was actively under discussion higher up in the Government. In October 1937 Welles evolved an idea for an Armistice Day conference at the White House among all foreign representatives in Washington, a kind of peace conference that would show the Axis nations they were on the wrong track. Roosevelt took to this, but Hull succeeded in quashing it as futile or worse without long preliminary spadework. The Brussels Nine-Power Conference in November was also designed originally not to judge the Japanese but to negotiate a settlement satisfactory to Japan, China, and the rest of the world.

In November also the State Department announced that negotiation of a trade agreement with the United Kingdom would begin. This was a high spot in Hull's dream of easing world tensions and assuring peace through better economic relations, and he was certainly consistent enough to believe the trade agreements program could work that way with Germany if the Nazis would abandon their system of Schachtian barter.

Even as the Trade Agreements men were forwarding their conditional approval of negotiations with Germany, Roosevelt was reviving the idea of a peace offensive. On January 12, 1938, he secretly broached to Chamberlain a suggestion that the United States propose a sort of conference to work out a universal peace setlement. Chamberlain turned it down because it would interfere with negotiations between Britain and France on the one hand, Germany and Italy on the other, which must go ahead "if appeasement were to be achieved." One result was that Anthony Eden, who could no longer travel the appeasement path, resigned as Foreign Minister. The other result was that Roosevelt dropped the idea. And when Hitler invaded Austria in March, all thought of talking aggression away evaporated, at least on this side of the Atlantic.

The course of diplomacy then and of history since would have been different if an event that took place in Berlin on November 5, 1937, had been known beyond the inner circle of Hitler's entourage. On that day Hitler met with his top military and Foreign Office advisers. Against his indomitable will their doubts succumbed, and the meeting took the decision to acquire Lebensraum for the Third Reich by any necessary means, including force at the risk of world war. Thus the die was cast, and had any negotiations for a trade agreement taken place, or even been successful, the result would not have turned aggression aside. It might have lulled the peace-loving states into further delaying their rearmament, though.

Breaking The Ice

The Soviet notification that it will return 31 of the 585 naval craft lent it by the United States during the war is the first advance in a long time in the often interrupted negotiations with Russia to settle the lend-lease account. The three ice breakers, which the Navy has been wanting back ever since July, 1946, and the 28 frigates, the return of which this country had been demanding since last January, make up a fairly small part of the total lend-lease bill. Still subject to negotiations are the remaining 87 merchant vessels of the 95 Russia had on hand at the end of the war, whatever number are left of small naval craft, plus civilian-type goods lend-leased for support of the Russian war effort—trucks, tractors, and the like. The amount of these not expended in the war is unknown in Washington, and of course the straight military material is to be deducted from the accounting.

As in many other things, Russia is all alone in not having come to a settlement of lend-lease. All other recipient nations have wound up the accounts. The hope expressed by Mr. Lovett Wednesday that return of the ice breakers and frigates would break the ice-jam in negotiations was of course a very cautious hope. Experience in these negotiations does not encourage any confidence in a speedy and complete settlement, but since these particular ships have been a principal stumbling block, the chances seem improved.

Luxury Plane

The Air Force protests that an injustice was done in our editorial of Thursday commenting on the new "mystery" airplane that reportedly had been prepared for "President" Dewey. The editorial was based on a news story by C. B. Allen, the well-known aviation columnist of the New York Herald Tribune, who has not retracted his account of persistent reports that the Air Force was embarrassed by the new "plush job."

The Air Force denies that the election had anything to do with the case. The plane, a Lockheed Constellation, was one of 10 ordered last spring. At the time the purchase was planned, all DC-6s, including the President's Independence, were grounded because of defects. Consequently, while nine of the 10 new planes were designed for cargo, one was prepared as an executive-type ship as a possible standby for use of the President (which he has so far declined). An announcement was made on October 29, before the election, that the new plane had made its first flight. The Air Force rejects the notion that the plane is palatial and asserts that it will be used in the Military Air Transport fleet for long-distance travel of high Government officials. There can be no doubt that rapid air transport is a necessary adjunct of 1948 diplomacy.

We are glad to print the Air Force explanation that it was not engaged in politicking. At the same time it is impossible to overlook the welter of reports within the aviation industry that the new plane had been rushed to completion before the inauguration. Air Secretary Symington himself fostered such an impression by an anecdote he told at a luncheon Thursday. As reported by Mr. Allen, Mr. Symington described a facetious "change order" sent anonymously to the Lockheed management on the day after the election, presumably by employes working on the plane. "Remove mustache cup," the order stated, "install piano, insert sheet music for The Missouri Waltz . . ." Certainly this indicates that at least somebody had been led to believe that the plane was intended as a "Dewey special."

Overhauling Defense

One reason that unification of the armed forces is not yet working smoothly is that the law has never been carried out fully in administration. That conclusion stands out among the host of recommendations of the Eberstadt committee which, as a task force of the Hoover Commission, has made probably as thorough an over-all review of the defense establishment as has ever been conducted. Most of the many flaws noted by Mr. Eberstadt and his colleagues are flaws of implementation rather than of structure. Their recommendations, consequently, are aimed at greater integration within the present framework rather than at any basic change in pattern.

First as to the indictment. There is inadequate coordination between foreign policy and national military power. Intelligence has been weak. Budgetary coordination is sloppy, and there is insufficient cost-consciousness. Scientific aspects of defense are unsatisfactory because of differences between the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Research and Development Board. Stockpiling has been "deplorable." The performance of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has been "disappointing" because of lack of coordination with other high-level planning agencies. The committee notes that "strategic plans, made without clear guidance of long-term peace aims, were based on assumptions which may or may not be correct; that the military . . . were planning to fight the next war . . . without knowing exactly what we would be fighting for."

Service partisanship, the committee complains, has contributed to a cart-before-horse relationship respecting military policy:

> . . . Instead of policy determining strategy, and strategy in turn determining its military implementation in terms of the size and nature of the military establishment, the tendency is in the reverse direction. To far too great an extent, the unilateral aims and policies of the military services are combining to make the strategy they are supposed to serve, and the strategy is tending to make national policy.

Furthermore:

> To a considerable extent, the services are still headed by the same men who have been carrying on the same controversies from the days preceding unification. At the very least, the act is entitled to a fair trial under the direction of people unprejudiced by the acrimonious disputes of the past, all of whom are sincerely devoted to its purposes and principles.

Some of the committee's correctives are obviously logical. It recommends, for example, a controller responsible to the Secretary of Defense to coordinate organizational, administrative and budgetary policies of the services. It advocates a more thoroughgoing liaison between the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council. It proposes a full-time chairman for the Munitions Board and broader powers of decision for the Research and Development Board. It suggests weapons evalution much along the lines just announced by Secretary Forrestal in apparent anticipation of the report. It points up the need for intensive efforts to obtain better scientific and medical intelligence. It stresses the desirability of more coordination of education and training, with the accent on unity of purpose. And it calls for a greater sense of urgency respecting such programs as industrial mobilization and civilian defense.

It is in the provisions to centralize and strengthen the authority of the Secretary of Defense that the report, in our opinion, is weak.

To be sure, it advocates numerous correctives for the present anomaly of responsibility without authority, and undoubtedly these would be distinct improvements. Under the Eberstadt proposals the Secretary of Defense would be given decisive powers to "establish policies and programs" and to exercise "direction, authority and control"; the "general" powers of supervision would be made specific. The right of the service secretaries to appeal to the President over the Secretary of Defense's head would be eliminated. Moreover, the committee would create an Undersecretary of Defense as a sort of general manager; it would give the Secretary a high-ranking "principal military assistant"; and it would eliminate the undersecretaries of the three services.

But nowhere does the committee come fully to grips with the contradiction presented by three secretaries of semi-autonomous departments. It rejects the proposal to do away with these positions and replace them with assistant secretaries of defense on the ground that this would add to the burden of the Secretary of Defense in appearing before Congress and that competent men for the lesser posts would be hard to find. These seem to us flimsy reasons for continuing a tripartite system of command, the very existence of which leads to partisanship. Moreover, while the Eberstadt task force recognizes the weaknesses of "command by committee," it opposes the creation of a single Chief of Staff of the Armed Services, and proposes instead that the Secretary of Defense be empowered to designate a chairman from the membership of the Joint Chiefs. How this would improve matters the report does not say.

It is significant that former Secretary of War Patterson, former Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy and Chester Barnard favored a single Chief of Staff responsible to the Secretary of Defense as the best means to obtain genuine coordination of planning, but were not able to get agreement from the majority of the Hoover group.

The Eberstadt report now goes to the full Hoover Commission for review and incorporation in the final study of the executive branch of the Government. Possibly the full commission can be induced to tighten up the weak points. In any event, the Eberstadt report has done an extremely valuable service to the country in providing a comprehensive guide for achievement of the ultimate goal of unification. The means by which unity of effort is obtained is not so important as that the aim be advanced. And the crucial need for placing the military establishment in its proper perspective as only one element of the national defense has nowhere been better stated than by the Eberstadt committee: "National security is still thought of too much in terms of military strength alone. There is still inadequate recognition of the equal, and possibly even greater, contributions to our national security that can be and should be made by our political, economic, human and spiritual resources."

Pardridge's Defense

In his communication of December 14, William D. Pardridge, editor and publisher of Air Affairs, contradicts himself in so many places that the writer can hardly believe him serious.

First, he sets forth the premise, which he insists he shares with Henry Wallace, that if we continue to spend billions in military expenditures, we "will bring inevitable inflation . . . a bust, and relief, bread lines, riots, economic chaos." But he and Mr. Wallace part company here. Mr. Pardridge is for spending the billions anyway.

Second, he solves the dilemma he has posed (self-provoked chaos versus military annihilation) by urging the "logic" of a "preventive" war. This is the same "logic" that might lead an individual to volunteer for a fatal inoculation of typhus rather than risk, some day, dying of scarlet fever. But there is hope! "The American people in their hearts cannot bring themselves to initiate a shooting war however much logic dictates its necessity."

Third, "Soviet strategy . . . is forcing us to spend uncounted billions of dollars on economic foreign aid and rearmament. So we do it. What then? We use it!" Is this another call for war? Nay, says Mr. Pardridge, for two whole paragraphs. But then, "there is the need for the will and capability of preventing war and/or economic chaos." Our will would be enforced with an atomic air force, second to none, which would "not arbitrarily but morally" force Russia into the same position "all over the world" that we now occupy in Berlin. This is a peculiar construction of "moral."

My dictionary says that morality is virtue. Christianity teaches that morality stems, ultimately, from God. Mr. Pardridge's morality is evidently that of Napoleon, whose God was on the side of the heaviest artillery.

Fourth, Mr. Pardridge states without reservation that Russia does not have the atomic bomb. He may be right. But what if he is wrong?

Finally, Mr. Pardridge insists with what seems to be the vehemence of a prophet, that if we keep expending the "unproductive billions," "we go broke." Later, he admonishes us to go ahead and go broke by using "our God-given resources to make Russia herself go broke economically and politically." The writer is inclined to inquire whether our "God-given" resources were intended to be used for the purpose advanced. But since neither Mr. Pardridge nor the writer can answer that question, may I ask: Why? So we can all be broke together?

"Stalemate In Greece"

In your December 8, editorial, "Stalemate In Greece," the writer assumes too much for granted, in accepting the intervention in Greece which our Government is attempting as justified.

Mr. Sumner Welles, in his recent book, "Where Are We Heading? says: "The insane delusion that democracy and communism cannot simultaneously exist in the world is rampant. Stupidity, reaction and timidity dominate the councils of the nations."

Our State Department is no exception. One who will make inquiry among well-informed Greeks in our own country, will find, as I did, that the Greek guerillas who are called Communists by many uninformed writers are not such in fact, but are opposed to the present government in Greece as anti-royalists, discouraged heart and soul so completely by its ignorance, indifference and inefficiency and corruption our own representatives admit, that they will fight any attempt to sustain the present regime.

The trouble is within Greece. That is not caused by the aid it may receive from without, even if from Communists. No amount of money or munitions will avail to convert Communists into democrats, or reform the royal regime. As in China, so in Greece, we should get out.

Secularism

I read the statement of the Catholic bishops in your paper of several weeks ago, stating or hinting that secularism was a menace to civilization and is the cause of everything that is bad in our society.

I not only differ, but think that those men ought to know better if they have read the history of the last 2500 years.

In fact, from the time of Anaxagoras, some 500 years B. C., who was one of the first recorded victims of religious superstition, until almost the seventeenth century, A. D., a person took his life in his own hands in even making a suggestion that things are not like what the holy men taught.

In other words, we made no progress for the betterment of society until secularism freed the minds of humanity. Even today in most of the Arabic countries, where secularism has not yet shown itself, it is all your life is worth to say anything against Mohammed.

Let us have more secularism!

"Released Time"

Much of the discussion on religious education in our public schools has centered about the charge made by Mrs. Agnes Meyer in her recent Atlantic Monthly article and by your editorial in criticism of the Catholic bishops' recent pastoral letter, "The Christian in Action" namely, that such a program is divisive and tends therefore to friction in the public schools.

Neither Mrs. Meyer nor your editorial writer give any evidence for such a charge. Prior to the Supreme Court decision in the McCollum case, there were more than 1500 communities having such released time programs and engaging the interests of more than two million children.

This writer is familiar with the program in a number of communities in his home State of Illinois for over a decade. The very opposite of friction was evident in these communities. There was rather a most cordial relation established by the various religious denominations through their part in a common enterprise. In the city of Champaign, the council for religious education composed of members of all faiths worked harmoniously upon this community project.

To say that, because children go to different religious classes the program is divisive, is rather foolish. They divide up into a multitude of classes in every conceivable field without impairing their democratic spirit. Democracy does not require that everyone think and act in the same manner. It should create respect for honest differences and permit them to exist side by side. That is exactly what has been done in the many communities in which the released time program has been in effect for a period which placed it far beyond the experimental stage.

"Capital Dilemma"

Your editorial of December 13, commenting on the recent report of the National Committee on Segregation in the Nation's Capital, has the following statement with reference to racial restrictive housing covenants: "A property-holder may be quite free of racism, yet be irked by the abolition of this 'protection' when he realizes the depreciation in value of his property."

The assumption that racial covenants are necessary to the protection of property values, or that the entry of a colored family into a neighborhood necessarily results in a lowering of property values, is the bugaboo which exponents of racial covenants have frequently evoked to justify their covenanting activities. It is, in fact, quite erroneous for at least three reasons:

In many instances the depreciation of the neighborhood has taken place before the Negro or other restricted group begins to buy into it. There are numerous signs of such depreciation which often escape the observation of neighborhood residents. Single-family residences begin to give way to boarding houses, apartments, flats and sometimes business or manufacturing establishments, until the time comes when Negroes desperate for housing are willing to pay more for property there than the white occupants. Such depreciation is not caused by the influx of the Negro, but has in fact preceded his incoming.

The fact is that Negroes, because of their greater need for housing, are willing to pay more than whites for comparable housing. The influx of Negroes frequently tends to raise the market value of the houses. The Lookland subdivision in the District of Columbia and the Washington Park area in Chicago are examples. Of course, if white property owners in a neighborhood become panicked by prejudice and rush to sell their property all at once, they would probably obtain a lower price on such hurried sales. But if the owners remain calm and hold on to their property, its sale value may even appreciate or at the very least will remain at the level justified by the age, lack of improvement of the buildings, and the general trend in land values.

Negroes can, and where given the opportunity do, maintain high occupancy standards. This has been shown by the surveys of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, mentioned in the report of the National Committee on Segregation in the Nation's Capital, by experience in public housing, and by many housing studies. These demonstrate that whites and Negroes, where they are of the same general economic classes, have comparable security, and have the opportunity to live in decent homes of similar quality, treat their property generally alike regardless of whether the housing is all white, all Negro, or mixed racial occupancy.

It is not race which deteriorates Negro neighborhoods into slums. Rather, the major cause is residential segregation which results in neighborhood congestion and overcrowding of Negroes into inadequate dwellings, prevents Negroes from getting better housing, and induces landlords to abandon good maintenance as unnecessary to attract renters or buyers in this acute Negro housing shortage.

Christmas As Usual

By Malvina Lindsay

Back to Bedlam

ALL OF us Scrooges might as well capitulate to the spirit of pre-Christmas bedlam. Some of us naively thought this year would be different, that people at last were getting some sense. Weren't Christmas shoppers reported as being unusually smart, thrifty, practical minded? Hadn't they regained their sense now that the glamour craze had passed? And hadn't they been trained by years of scarcities to do their shopping early?

We had thought that with retails sales lagging behind 1947 in most cities for the last five weeks, with the general struggle to make ends meet in the face of high prices, with the drop in savings and increased cashing of war bonds, with payments on motor cars, refrigerators and other heavy home goods making big dents in paychecks, that the shopping scene would be a conservative, leisurely, even a roomy affair.

We had resigned ourselves to some mob scenes in toy departments—what with around 24 million children under 8 at large, and with toy dealers predicting 300 million dollar sales for the year. And even though the days of lush spending from war profits and expense accounts had ended, we had recognized that children's stockings still had to be filled, and that some juvenile adults would be exchanging compacts and toilet water, and asking each other on December 26, "What did Santa Claus bring you?" But we had pictured a great number of calm, self-possessed people investing in gift certificates, even in war bonds—and doing this in July or at least late November.

HENCE WE weren't prepared for the good old days, last minute shopping scrambles this season has produced. We hadn't realized how greatly people must have enjoyed their mad prewar Christmas preparations, when, ungoaded by scarcities, they could postpone their shopping until the downtown melee was at its height.

Now we have surrendered. We no longer go around asking: "Who on earth are all these people and what do they use for money?" We do not accept the theory that they are "just looking"—whe have been jabbed too often on streetcars and buses by their packages. Nor do we accept as sufficient explanation the theory that more members of families, especially wives, are working than ever before and hence can maintain Santa Claus as usual despite high prices.

Rather we have finally accepted the fact that people are going to go crazy every year just befor. Christmas, that they will delay their buying as long as possible, and all come downtown at the same time and carry home armfuls of parcels on public carriers at the rush hours, or else nose their motor cars into all the major downtown traffic snarls.

WE KNOW now that we shall always see haggard, overburdened women waddling or flapping along on fancy slippers; confused and fumbling men blocking traffic in department stores; tired, crying children being dragged and shushed by tired, irritable mothers; family parties ambling along in the densest throngs without goal or sense of direction; feminine football rushes at men's necktie and shirt counters; wholesale buying of flowered scarfs for recipients who will probably wear them with as much enthusiasm as they would hair shirts; hapless men being sold erotic perfumes for fastidious women or, trailing negligees for kitchen-slave wives, and throngs of weary, befuddled persons hunting for the old $1 gift, which now has a $1.98 price tag.

We know there will continue to be $35 tricycles bought on installment, wrist watches financed by loan companies, gewgaws presented by means of advances on salary checks, bills left unpaid because the debtors felt it was their inalienable right to "have some Christmas."

We know that people will continue to be so rushed, confused and frenzied assembling things, things, things for Christmas that they will never have so much as a half hour left in which to get themselves together and consider what they personally are going to do to help bring into manifestation—before it may be too late—the great Christmas gift, "peace on earth," which was promised about two thousand years ago.

We know next year's Christmas preparations will be just as irrational as this year's no matter how much or how little prosperity exists. We know there is nothing we can do about it except to join the bedlam by rushing out to pick up "a few little things" to pay back with, or even to express a last-minute expansiveness of heart for someone who will not be able to give us anything next Christmas.

"Pumpkin Melody"

I'd like to add a note to Dr. Chaffee's "Pumpkin Melody" (published December 13).

On December 10 I called the Committee on Un-American Activities to find out if there would be an open hearing I could attend. The young lady answered affably: "There's one going on now. Caucus Room, third floor. Plenty of seats!"

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Hiss And The New Deal

THE HUMAN drama of the Hiss-Chambers case is of a magnitude and a kind that dwarfs the puny professional theater of the present day. It is the tragedy of our time—the tragedy of the lost intellectual in desperate search of certitude.

Childs

It seems to me important to try to understand the terms of this drama. A great deal depends, of course, on the angle from which you view it.

To many, and this would include most if not all the members of the House Un-American Activities Committee, the indictment of Alger Hiss is but another step in proving the existence of a widespread Communist plot within the Government. These same people link that plot directly to the New Deal.

Hiss, therefore, becomes a paramount exhibit. Those on the Un-American Committee who accuse the Department of Justice of trying to suppress the case believe the motive was to shield the New Deal in the person of Hiss.

Hiss had typified what is ordinarily meant by the phrase New Dealer. Out of Harvard Law School, one of the top two or three men in his class, he became law clerk to the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. That was the accolade of the liberal young man out of Harvard, to be taken under the wing of the great Holmes who was then, in 1930, nearing the end of his career.

FOR THREE depression years, Hiss was with one of the big law firms in New York. Then with the beginning of the Roosevelt Administration he came to Washington and from that time served with one Government agency or another.

This brilliant and attractive young man, who might very easily have been making $25,000 or $50,000 a year with one of the large firms of corporation lawyers, was devoting himself to the public good. That was how most of his friends and associates saw him and how they have continued to see him even after his testimony last summer faltered on the question of his relationship with Whittaker Chambers.

They received the news of his indictment with shock and dismay and genuine grief. That is the other perspective from which this drama can be viewed. Most of Hiss' former associates and friends are no longer in Government since the policy-making personnel of the old Roosevelt New Deal has long since been scattered. Some are on the edge of Government, working with research agencies and foundations or labor organizations. Still others are making five and six figure annual incomes in Washington-New York law firms.

TO THESE people, if the charges against Hiss are sustained in court, it will seem to have been a betrayal of an ideal which they cherished. The betrayal will be all the more bitter in view of the fact that to many Hiss stood as a symbol of the New Deal and was one of the earnest architects of the program of moderate reform meant by that phrase.

For these hurt and bewildered people there is only one possible explanation why someone like Whittaker Chambers or Alger Hiss might have done such a thing. The secret State Department documents now released show affinity with the Chamberlain policy of appeasing Germany which was in turn based on the belief that the Communists and the Nazis could be persuaded to kill each other off.

Most young New Dealers of 10 years ago were pro-Russian and passionately anti-Nazi. By slipping out such documents they could help to warn the Soviet Union of the plot.

This is not said, mind you, in an attempt to justify such action but only in the effort to explain why men who seemed to be so idealistic should stoop to the criminal methods of the spy and the stool pigeon. Here, of course, is the heart of the tragedy.

The essence of the corruption of Marxism and Stalinist communism is that the end to be achieved—the perfect state—justifies any means for achieving it. That is where the lost intellectuals, unable to bring relief to the creeds of the past, betrayed by their own brilliance into intellectual arrogance, went so tragically wrong.

Off The Record

CIO Demands Business Act To Halt Layoff

Two CIO officials yesterday called for a duplication of the "famous Roosevelt 100 days" of financial and industrial reform to halt what they called business "profiteering" and mounting unemployment.

Donald Montgomery, United Automobile Workers economist, and Russell Nixon, United Electrical Workers representative, said that present profit policies "spell trouble for the workers."

They testified before the Senate-House Economic Committee which is studying the effect of industrial profits on the future economy.

The committee also heard Vice President John Schmidt of Armour & Co., whose firm reported a $1,700,000 meat loss last year, and Howard C. Greer, vice president of Kingan & Co., Indianapolis.

Banker Sees Truman

Schmidt said the Government does not have to worry about excessive industrial profits in a free economy. Greer testified that meat packers have not made enough profit to attract the capital needed to expand their plant facilities.

Business conditions also were discussed by John E. Bierwirth, president of the New York Trust Company, at a meeting with President Truman.

Bierwith said afterward that Mr. Truman "has the same views I do." Asked what they were, he said: "I believe in a free economy and good general business conditions where everyone has a chance to succeed."

Bierwirth said he also discussed taxes with the President and thought Mr. Truman agreed with him that taxes are "awfully high and the people need relief when they can get it." But Bierwith did not look for any tax relief in the near future.

Montgomery and Nixon accused industry of setting the stage for another economic disaster in a drive for higher profits.

"Production has begun to meet effective demand," Nixon said. "Orders are being cancelled, backlogs are being quickly eaten away and layoffs are taking place."

Montgomery asserted that "present profits will destroy the purchasing power base which is essential to maintenance of prosperity and full employment.

"Already we see consumers unable to buy the total output of full employment . . . and we see the beginning of layoffs. We see the attempt being made to hold prices up, while production falls off."

'48 Crops Top Previous Peak By 11 Points

A final survey showed yesterday that this year's production of crops set a new record.

Reporting this, the Agriculture Department said the aggregate volume of all crops is 37 per cent higher than the 1923-32 base, and 11 points above the previous record set in 1946.

Featuring the record harvest was a bumper corn crop of 3,651,000,000 bushels of excellent quality. This corn crop not only set a new record but exceeded last year's harvest by about 1,200,000,000 bushels.

This huge corn yield opens the way to a sharp increase in production of meats, dairy products and poultry products.

The current short supply of livestock products reflects last year's short corn crop.

Other crops in the record production class include flaxseed, soybeans, peanuts, rice, pecans and cranberries.

The wheat yield was exceeded only in 1947. Nevertheless, there is enough of this grain to permit record exports of cereals this crop year.

Other crops produced in near record volume this year include oats, sorghum grain, potatoes, dry beans, popcorn and citrus fruits.

Despite the record crop output, farmers will receive perhaps about 10 per cent less for this year's production than last year. This decline in income, estimated by the department, reflects a reduction in prices of many products during the harvest season.

The department said nearly 351 million acres of the 52 principal crops were harvested this year. This is nearly two million more than last year.

The record corn crop was a record production of vegetable oil seeds—soybeans, flaxseed, peanuts and cottonseed. This production will help meet a world shortage of food fats.

Thomas Committee

Congress' Stake In Justice Fight

AT ANY TIME, a controversy between two branches of the Government has fundamental importance. The present one is between the Executive branch, specifically the Department of Justice, and President Truman personally, and on the other side the Legislative branch, specifically, the House Committee investigating un-American activities. This controversy not only has basic importance in a permanent sense. It goes to the heart of the "spy ring" case, now under the separate jurisdictions of the Justice Department and the congressional committee and involved in separate proceedings of the two authorities.

Sullivan

The Justice Department wrote to the committee, and simultaneously made public, a request that the committee "refrain from interviewing and questioning witnesses who had in the past, or who might in the future, be called to testify before a Federal grand jury . . ."

Had the Justice Department refrained from including "might in the future," it would have had a reasonable case. Questioning witnesses currently before a grand jury is under most ordinary conditions objectionable, especially in circumstances likely to result in publicity. But by including "future," and by other attendant circumstances, the Justice Department laid itself open to the reply the congressional committee quickly made.

"Taken for what it clearly says, when you request that we refrain from questioning witnesses 'who might in the future be called to testify before a Federal grand jury,' this means that you propose to stop entirely the activities and functions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities . . ."

LEGALISTICALLY, the Justice Department and the congressional committee have different functions. That of the Justice Department is bringing to trial specific individuals against whom have been made prima facie accusations of specific offenses having the legal status of crimes. The function of the congressional committee is to uncover "un-American activities," some of which, however needing to be exposed in the public interest, do not have the legal status of crimes. The two functions and jurisdictions need not necessarily conflict.

The controversy between the House committee and the Justice Department, so far as it is expressed in their exchange of statements, could arise from a mere inadvertence of phraseology on the part of the Justice Department. But as between the committee and Mr. Truman, the controversy is stark. No inadvertence of phraseology on Mr. Truman's part, he has denounced the committee in plain words, even raucous ones. As the ultimate of disapproval of it he has publicly implied the wish that it were dead, and expectation that it will be after the new Congress meets in January.

MR. TRUMAN'S denunciation of the committee might be part of his broad denunciation of the present Congress, called derisively during the campaign "the Republican Eightieth Congress." But if so, Mr. Truman has fallen into a real inadvertence. The House Committee on Un-American Activities is not the creation of this one Republican Congress; it was originated more than 10 years ago by a Democratic Congress and has been renewed during every Congress since, all Democratic except the present one.

When Mr. Truman implies that he hopes and expects that the new Congress will kill the Un-American Activities Committee, he may be thinking primarily of the body in terms of party, thinking that the Democratic majority will kill this committee in a partisan spirit, including assent to an attitude of the Democratic President. But the new Congress may think of itself not in party terms but as Congress, as the Legislative branch of Government. If so, it would be likely to attach importance to the legislative prerogative, and unlikely to kill the Un-American Activities Committee as the legislative body's own creation.

There is light in some figures about the most recent action of the present Congress, which Mr. Bert Andrews of the New York Herald Tribune has drawn from the Congressional Record. When the House in March this year voted upon giving the committee $200,000 to continue its work, the number in favor was 337, to 37 opposed; not voting, 57. Of those who voted for the appropriation, 243 were reelected last November, and this is more than a majority of the House as a whole. And of the 243 reelected, 107 are Democrats, 136 Republicans. These figures do not look like extinction of the Un-American Activities Committee by the new Congress.

Cost of U. S. Market Basket Goes Down for Third Month

The Government yesterday reported further drops in both food and average wholesale prices.

The Agriculture Department said in its monthly marketing survey that the food bill of the average family went down in October for the third straight month. The September-October decline of 2 per cent was the largest since last February, it said.

In its weekly report on wholesale prices, the Labor Department said they fell off four tenths of 1 per cent for the seven days ending last Tuesday. It was the second decline in two weeks.

The Labor Department said farm products and foods continued to drop, chiefly because of good supplies and consumer resistance to high prices.

Average wholesale prices were eight tenths of 1 per cent below mid-November and "only fractionally higher" than in mid-December, 1947.

Retail cost of the family "market basket" declined from a yearly average of $701 in September to $689 in October, the department said.

The "market basket," as used by the Agriculture Department, measures what a family of three average consumers must pay at retail for the average annual purchases of farm products by such a family in the base period 1935-39.

Despite the October decline, retail prices still were 49 per cent above the 1945 average and almost 4 per cent higher than a year ago.

Meat and dairy products led the way in the 2 per cent decline in the retail cost of the "market basket."

The farm value (what the farmer receives) of the "market basket" declined from $372 in September to $375 in October. This $15 decrease compares with a $12 drop in its retail cost.

The difference between what the farmer gets and what the consumer pays goes for marketing costs such as transportation and dealers' mark-ups.

The Agriculture Department report estimated another decline of about $10 in the farm value of the "market basket" for November.

Bendix, Coin Firm Combine Is Broken Up

The Justice Department said yesterday it has obtained an anti-trust judgment against Bendix Home Appliances, Inc., and Telecoin Corp., ending what was termed "illegal restrictions" in the handling of rental washing machines.

Such machines are widely used in so-called "laundry stores," where the patron can use the washer by depositing a coin in a slot.

Attorney General Clark said the judgment was entered in the Federal District Court in New York City. He said it was agreed to by the Bendix and Telecoin Companies. Bendix is headquartered at South Bend, Ind., and Telecoin in New York City.

The Government filed a civil suit against the two in December, 1946, accusing them of conspiring to establish a monopoly in automatic washing machines used for rental purposes.

The department said yesterday's judgment cancels agreements under which Telecoin bought all of its rental washing machines from Bendix, and Bendix was prohibited from selling such machines to anyone other than Telecoin.

The department said the judgment also prohibits Telecoin from limiting the number of rental machines a laundry store operator may obtain or from controlling the location at which the machine will be used.

ECA Comes Down From Billion Zone

By The Associated Press

The Economic Cooperation Administration came down out of the billions yesterday to approve one foreign aid item you could ring up on anybody's cash register—$14.

Bizone Germany got that amount to buy "hides and skins" in Latin America, but won't have to shop around to find out how much it will buy.

ECA officials quickly explained the $14—the smallest single authorization to date—was merely a bookkeeping adjustment in a previous approval totaling $365,100.

Thus far ECA has approved foreign recovery aid totaling $4,057,805,488, including the $14.

Rosslyn Businessmen Elect 1949 Officers

At the annual meeting of the Rosslyn Businessmen's Association Thursday, members elected the following officers for 1949: President, Moritz A. Cohen; vice president, Burr Heishman, and secretary, Fred N. Windridge. Three members, Henry J. Brown, Harry Goldman and Ernest V. Cooke, were appointed to serve with the new officers on the association's board of directors.

Rail Workers' Raise Asked

asked a 40-hour week with their present 48-hour pay, plus a 25-cent-an-hour increase.

The emergency board headed by Dr. William M. Leiserson, former chairman of the National Mediation Board, recommended the "48-for-40" but whittled the 25-cent increase demand to 7 cents.

To ease the cost of the 40-hour week, the board postponed it until next fall, turned down a number of union demands including time-and-a-half pay for Saturdays and double time for Sundays, and abolished premium weekend pay where it now exists.

The board noted, too, that its 7-cent pay increase recommendation is a lower figure than most other workers received in third postwar round pay raises.

The workers who actually run the trains, approximately 350,000 represented by five other rail unions, settled their third-round demands several months ago for a 10-cent hourly increase. The proposed 40-hour work week would not apply to them. They are paid on a mileage basis.

The board said the railroads are the only major industry without the 40-hour week.

The board estimated that the increased payroll cost to the railroads of both the 7-cent pay increase and the eventual 40-hour week will be approximately 14 per cent.

New Suit Possible In Charter Battle

Murray to Appear

3 Walk Out On Hoffman Union Probe

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 17 (AP).—Representative Clare Hoffman (R., Mich.) wound up another stage of his inquiry into the December 1 raid on the struck Shakespeare plants here after three CIO officials refused to testify.

He said his subcommittee of the House Labor Committee will return to Washington. The only other scheduled business before it is an appearance of CIO President Philip Murray at an unspecified date.

A State grand jury meanwhile is continuing its probe of the dawn raid, during which 300 CIO United Steelworkers overturned cars, burned a truck, smashed property and injured seven persons.

Hoffman made little progress today.

He subpenaed Thomas Shane, State director of the USW-CIO, and International Representatives Glen Sigman and Clarence Jackson. He said he wanted to find out from them if Murray knew about the raid in advance or ordered it.

The three union leaders walked out, however, refusing to testify.

They quoted Representative John Lesinski (D., Mich.) who said here recently that Hoffman had "no more authority to conduct this investigation than a rabbit."

"You go ahead and conduct your circus," Shane told Hoffman. "We are not participating in it."

Sigman added that "we are not interested in any investigation that is being held only for the benefit of newspaper headlines and the National Association of Manufacturers."

Hoffman said the trio's refusal was a misdemeanor and that he would refer it to Federal Judge Raymon V. Starr at Grand Rapids for "appropriate action."

Possibility of further litigation over Montgomery County's charter was seen yesterday as F. Barnard Welsh, legal adviser to the county commissioners, raised a new issue.

The county commissioners now are serving as an interim council.

The new issue was raised when Welsh yesterday said commissioners are entitled to full compensation until 1950 even though replaced on January 10 by an elected county council.

A charter attorney, James J. Hayden, has publicly expressed opinion that the commissioners are not entitled to their salaries when stripped of their duties.

Commissioners Brooke Johns, George C. Esworthy and Charles Jomison presently draw $1800 a year as rural district commissioners and Commissioners Wesley I. Sauter and O. W. Youngblood are paid $3000 annually as suburban commissioners.

Meanwhile, directors of the County Charter Committee, which campaigned for the charter agreement, announced reelection for the coming year of Chairman Norman B. Ames.

Ames said the charter committee would be "neutral and adopt a hands-off policy" as to the county's charter goverment administration, divorcing "ourselves completely from any county council influence."

Ames said three directors of the committee, Mrs. Ralph Himstead, Frederic P. Lee and Thomas C. Kelley, who are county council candidates, will resign from the committee if elected.

Technical Post

Navy Names Niedermair Design Chief

Niedermair

John C. Niedermair, 6116 32d st. nw., veteran Navy Department employe, yesterday was appointed technical director of preliminary ship design in the department's Bureau of Ships.

Formal presentation of the appointment, which carries a salary of $12,000, was made by Vice Admiral Earl W. Mills, chief of the Bureau of Ships.

Niedermair is the fourth Navy employe to be appointed to a Civil Service position paying in excess of $10,000 under provisions of Public Law 758, which was enacted June 24, 1948. The law authorized the Navy to fill 13 such positions in the professional and scientific services.

A graduate of Webb Institute of Naval Architecture in 1918, Niedermair served in the Navy during World War I. Later, in a civilian capacity, he served as a technical aide in salvage operations on the submarines USS S-51 and USS S-4. For his work on the former, he was commended by Curtis D. Wilbur, then Secretary of the Navy. Neidermair was also awarded the Distinguished Civilian Service Award for his role in the design of Navy ships during World War II.

Before coming to Washington in 1928 to work in the Navy Department, he lived on Staten Island, N. Y.

Victim Denies 'Encouraging' Jap Minister

Tokyo, Dec. 17 (U.P.) — Mrs. Haruye Yamashita, 47-year-old Diet member, denied today that she encouraged amorous attentions from a member of the cabinet and said she had no intention of going on the wagon as a result of the incident.

Mrs. Yamashita virtually plunged the Japanese government into a cabinet crisis when she rushed into Parliament to announce that the finance minister, Sanroku Izumiyama, tried to kiss her in the House lobby Monday. Izumiyama resigned as a result.

Today, women Diet leaders, and members of the Court of Domestic Relations, charged the minister might never have made amorous advances if Mrs. Yamashita had not drunk two glasses of sake with him.

Mrs. Yamashita immediately counterattacked.

"There were rumors of all sorts flying about the Diet immediately after Izumiyama's improper advances on me. I therefore saw the necessity for defending myself. The shorthand notes of my speech will show whether I was drunk or not," she declared.

She said she had been drinking all her life, "and I do not see why I should give it up so long as it harms no one.

"Some women have been saying Izumiyama made a pass at me because I was open for it," she continued. "I don't know what they mean by that. It is possible Izumiyama misunderstood me because I sat and drank with him."

Mrs. Yamashita said she had taken good care of herself.

"I am a fairly strong woman, but Izumiyama was too strong for me when he dragged me into the corridor. He wanted to take me out to some hotel and even ordered an automobile. He bit me in the chin. I punched him in the ear and he released me and I ran away."

Bethesda Man Held in Knife Attack on Maid

A Bethesda veteran who broke into another home last year thinking it was his own, yesterday was in Rockville Jail on a charge of assaulting a maid in his home with a paring knife.

Police said Joseph A. Wagstaff, 24, of 556 Grove st., had been arrested on a warrant sworn out by Frances Tolson, 30, of 1822 15th st. nw., a maid in Wagstaff's home.

The woman said Wagstaff on Wednesday became enraged when his grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Robinson, of the same address, refused to give him money. Turning on her, the maid said, Wagstaff lunged at her with a paring knife but missed, bending the blade on the kitchen sink.

In June, 1946, police said, Wagstaff was convicted in Las Vegas, Nev., of pumping five bullets into a friend over a gambling debt. He was convicted of assault with intent to kill and served one year.

In September 1947, Wagstaff broke into a neighboring home thinking it his own and policemen wounded him in the shoulder when he threatened to shoot them.

Wagstaff was being held by Montgomery County police in Rockville jail under $300 bond

Tariff Cuts Planned on Butter, Rum

By the United Press

The State Department served notice on the dairy industry yesterday that it intends to negotiate a tariff cut on butter imports.

The department said it plans to offer a tariff cut on a long list of commodities, ranging from rum to platinum aand including butter, as a bargaining point in obtaining trade concessions at the international tariff conference in Geneva next April.

The proposed butter reduction would be designed primarily to help Denmark but could be extended to other nations under the most-favored nation clause.

The present import duty is 14 cents a pound, except for the first 50 million pounds imported during October-March. The tariff on this is only seven cents, the minimum charge permitted by law.

The department proposes to put a seven-cent duty on butter imported during April-September and presumably would set a limit on the amount which could be shipped at that figure.

Denmark favors the change. She pins her hopes for economic recovery on the United States to a large extent and says she cannot compete with a 14-cent tariff.

The Tariff Commission has the power under law to veto the proposal even before the Geneva negotiations start. It holds hearings on all proposed changes to give interested parties a chance to protest and then reports to President Truman on whether they should be made.

Boy, 5, Saves Girl, 2, From Drowning

Five-year-old Joe York became the hero of East Capitol st. yesterday when he rescued Lois Cottrell, 2, from a four-foot-deep pool of icy water behind her home.

The little girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Cottrell, 3997 E. Capitol st., was playing with Joe and other children when she slipped and fell into the pool, formed by an outside extension of storage basements in the National Capital housing project.

Joe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy York, said he ran over, put out his hands and dragged the drenched child to safety. Mrs. Cottrell promptly gave her a hot bath and put her to bed.

She said the incident brought two laborers from the housing authority to barricade the pool. "I had been trying to get something done about it for more than a year," she added.

Gen. Meyers Asks Reversal In High Court

Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers asked the Supreme Court yesterday to throw out his conviction on charges of subornation to perjury —persuading another man to lie under oath.

He told the high court in a petition that he did not get a fair trial and that the way he was treated is "disgraceful."

Meyers, retired Air Force officer, has been in jail here since last March 15 serving a sentence of 18 months to 5 years imposed in United States District Court here.

A jury in the District Court found Meyers guilty of inducing Bleriot H. Lamarre, wartime president of a Dayton, Ohio, company to testify falsely before a Senate war investigating subcommittee.

Lamarre first told the Senators Meyers had had no connection with his firm which received profitable war contracts at a time when Meyers was Army Air Forces purchasing officer.

Later, Lamarre said he had lied, that Meyers was the real owner of the concern and he himself was only a "dummy" president who turned most of his pay over to Meyers.

Meyers' conviction in the District Court was upheld by a 2-1 vote in the United States Court of Appeals here.

In his Supreme Court appeal, Meyers said that "an honest perusal of the record . . . cannot fail to disclose that the trial was a subtle mockery, a travesty and a sham, and that the two-judge decision of the Court of Appeals is a fitting and hypocritical climax to these disgraceful proceedings."

Meyers asserted he was denied "the right to a judgment of acquittal when the evidence disclosed that the perjuries upon which the indictment rested were never committed at all."

All three graduated from Virginia Theological Seminary last June 3 and were made deacons by Bishop Dun the following day.

A national conference on church and state will be held in Washington January 27 under the auspices of Protestants and Other Americans United for the Separation of Church and State.

This is the first national conference of the organization, which was formed last January, by a group of Protestant churchmen.

Washington Jewry to Begin Chanukah Observance Dec. 26

Chanukah, the "festival of the lights" will be observed by Washington Jewry beginning at sundown December 26.

The eight-day festival, known also as the "feast of dedication," begins on the 25th day of the month of Kislev.

At sundown each day a candle is lighted in the home and the temple until eight lights are burning.

Chanukah dates from 165 B. C. That year the Jewish people, led by Judas Maccabaeus, defeated the Greeks who were demanding that the Hebrews give up the religion of their fathers for Hellenistic ways.

The first thing the victorious Jews did was to cleanse the temple in Jerusalem, which had been used by the Greeks for idol worship.

Thus, the holiday commemorates the achievement of religious liberty and a revival of the sentiment for national development among the Jews. To many, it dramatizes the conviction that the forces of light, of religion and freedom, will overcome the forces of darkness, paganism and tyranny.

Several legends surround the lighting of the eight candles during the festival. According to one, the Greeks defiled all the oil in the temple when they occupied it.

When the Jews won their revolt, they searched the temple for pure oil, but found only one small flask bearing the seal of the high priest—enough for light for one day. However, a miracle occurred, and the oil lasted for eight days.

During Chanukah gifts are given to children and to the poor. A light, fluffy pancake is the traditional delicacy of the season. Children play a game with the 'draidle," a top on which are written four Hebrew letters meaning "a great miracle happened here."

Cancer Expert Urges Earlier Ulcer Surgery

More prompt surgical removal of stomach ulcers would save lives needlessly lost to gastric cancer, an outstanding surgeon told Washington physicians here last night.

The speaker was Dr. Arthur W. Allen of Boston, president of the American College of Surgeons. He appeared as guest lecturer last night in the monthly medical talks sponsored by the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md.

It is unfortunate that the symptoms of benign (non-cancerous) and early malignant ulcerations of the stomach are often the same, declared Dr. Allen. Also, he added, both may respond equally well temporarily to bland diet, alkalies, rest, and other conservative treatments.

Large because of these facts, said the surgeon, valuable time is lost in the proper treatment of early cancer of the stomach.

"When a gastric ulcer is removed surgically under the clinical diagnosis of benign ulcer and found by the pathologist to be cancer, the patient has twice as great a chance of being cured as he would have had had the operation been done at a time when the lesion was clinically cancer," declared Dr. Allen.

"Since cancer of the stomach kills more people in the United States each year than any other type of cancer, we should take advantage of the opportunity to resect ulcerative lesions of the stomach without delay."

Dr. Allen, however, said the same haste was not necessary in cases of duodenal ulcers (the duodenum is the first part of the intestinal tract into which the stomach passes food). These, he said, are never malignant and four out of five respond to nonsurgical treatment.

Rev. Austin to Talk

"God's Unspeakable Gift" is the theme of a sermon to be delivered by the Rev. Charles B. Austin at 11 a. m. Sunday at West Washington Baptist Church.

Advocate of 3 R's

Montgomery School Critic Put on Board

Wylie Barrow, assistant treasurer of the Washington Gas Light Co. and a resident of Chevy Chase, Md., has been appointed to the Montgomery County Board of Education, Governor Lane announced yesterday.

Barrow

Barrow, who has three children in Montgomery schools, is a member of the Parents' League for Curriculum Improvement, a group which has been outspokenly critical of school board policies.

He was appointed to replace Mrs. Helen C. Walker, former school board president, who has been named to the State Board of Education.

The Parents' League, organized last year, charged school officials with paying too little attention to the "three R's" and other educational fundamentals and overemphasizing social studies.

Barrow's name was recommended to the Governor by the County Democratic State Central Committee. He has been employed at the gas light company for 20 years.

Dr. Wexberg Not to Seek Clinic Post

The name of Dr. Leopold E. Wexberg, director of the Health Department Bureau of Mental Hygiene, was withdrawn yesterday as a candidate for the position of director of the District's new alcoholic clinic.

Commissioner Guy Mason, who announced the step, said he had asked Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing to detail a psychologist from the United States Public Health Service to "set up the organization and get it going."

In the meantime, he said, he plans to ask Congress to raise the $8100-a-year salary to a higher figure in order to attract candidates. Mason said he was "very much disappointed at this delay in getting the project started."

Dr. Wexberg said he was interested in remaining in the mental hygiene field and would accept the clinic directorship only if he could retain his present position also. Acceptance of the clinic post would result in a $100 a year increase for Dr. Wexberg.

Commissioner Mason said he did not wish to consolidate the two posts and would do so only if there appears to be no other way to find a proper person.

Scout Car Team

2 Policemen Are Fined in Neglect Case

By Donald Oleson
Post Reporter

Two Metropolitan Police privates yesterday were fined $25 each on charges of neglect of duty and one of them was fined an additional $50 for making a false statement.

A Police Trial Board found Pvt. James E. Beach of the Thirteenth Precinct guilty of both charges, and fined him $75.

At the same time Pvt. Warren L. Garrett, also of the Thirteenth Precinct, was fined $25 on the neglect charge by Capt. Albert H. Bullock. Garrett, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced by the Thirteenth Precinct captain at his own request instead of appearing before the Trial Board.

All charges grew out of an incident last November 16 when the two privates, in scout car 132, were dispatched to 1324 Euclid st. nw, and failed to turn in a complete report later on an attempted suicide there.

At the Police Trial Board hearing, Dr. Carl Dicksa, of Emergency Hospital, testified that he was dispatched in an ambulance early November 16 to the Euclid st. address, after a woman had apparently attempted suicide by swallowing poison.

No police were present when he arrived, Dr. Dicksa testified, but a scout car pulled up as he was leaving the house with the woman. He said a policeman offered help, and when told the woman was in critical condition, did not detain him.

Pvt. John R. Harris, police dispatcher, then stated he sent Scout Car 132 to Euclid st. at 12:04 a. m., following an earlier check by Scout Car 101 of the Tenth Precinct on a request for an ambulance at that address.

Lieut. Robert D. Chennault, Thirteenth Precinct superior duty officer, testified Beach told him at 1:35 a. m. that the ambulance was gone when Scout Car 132 arrived at the scene.

Five sixth grade students in Arlington's Fairlington School have parlayed the foibles of their parents and a knowledge of traffic safety into a very special Christmas bonus.

It began several months ago, when members of the school safety patrol, all sixth graders, began a safety contest with their parents.

The students kept a record of the safety boners pulled by their elders. Enough black marks meant the parent would give to his or her youngster a special Christmas present.

Parents, meanwhile, kept an eye peeled for pedestrian safety errors their children made and were to get a present from the children if enough errors were observed.

The idea for the contest originated with Arlington Traffic Safety Officer Frank Palmer.

Sixth Grade Teacher Miss Jessie Carpenter, who heads the school safety patrol, got parents' consent to the game, coached the students.

Results? Out of the 20 patrol boys and girls, 5 yesterday had enough points on their parents to warrant the present. Score against the children—zero.

Chief complain against erring elders was jaywalking, Miss Carpenter reported. No driving violations were noted.

Ten-year-old Kenneth Grundborg's chief complaint against his mother, Mrs. B. H. Grundborg, was her failure to cross at intersections and wait for the green light.

Said Mrs. Grundborg, who lives at 4219 S. 36th st.: "Every time I'd move, I'd have to watch my step." She admitted her young son had observed accurately.

And Phil DuSault, 11, of 4842 S. 28th st. complained that his father, Lieut. Col. P. E. DuSault, jaywalked.

Mrs. A. H. Zwerner also was observed paywalking by her 11-year-old son, David. The Zwerners live at 4858 S. 28th st. Black marks for a similar safety error went against Mrs. Ross V. Thompson of 2745 S. Buchanan, who in turn complained that her 10-year-old son, Joe, was "too particular."

And Patty Fletcher, 11, of 3537 S. Wakefield st., reported she had a "lot of trouble" with her mother. Mrs. M. J. Fletcher, whom she marked down for jaywalking.

BEST DELIVERY SERVICE—Betty Grable has the right idea about how to get her Christmas gifts delivered. She delivers them herself, a pleasure to overworked mailmen, gas station attendants and the recipients alike. Wraps her own, too

Safecrackers Get $700 at Esso Station

Yeggs cracked a safe at the Esso gas station at 4100 Hunt pl. ne. and escaped with $700 in bills and change, the manager, Alfred Segal of 7429 Livingston rd. se. reported yesterday.

The thieves forced their way through a series of screen, glass and wooden doors to get at the 3-by-4-foot safe under the station's counter, police said. They moved the safe to a rear room, then pried off dials and bolts.

Early yesterday police arrested three men who had allegedly broken into Kline's Liquor Store, 201 H st. nw.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence on a charge of housebreaking, they were held under $1000 bond each and received a continuance until December 23.

Police identified the suspects as Jonah L. Robinett, 33, 227 E st. nw., Charles Toplaski, 43, same address, and Richard S. Ward, 35, 728 8th st. se.

They were caught after a short chase on foot during which police fired several warning shots. Each man was found to have in his pockets two bottles of whisky with the store's identification on them, according to police.

Md. Veterans Complain of Housing Lack

Approximately 3100 veterans with dependents in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties believe they have inadequate housing.

The plight of the former GI's was revealed, in figures compiled by the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission which indicated that nearly 50,000 veterans in the State complain of unsatisfactory housing.

More than half of this number live in Baltimore.

In Prince Georges County, which James P. Lazzati, executive director of the commission, said was fairly typical, 20.8 per cent of 9404 veterans covered by questionnaire said they were married and have inadequate housing.

Of this figure, 73 per cent are tenants, 24 per cent "doubled up," 13 per cent with relations; 9 per cent home owners; 3 per cent buying homes, and 1.5 per cent boarding.

The average rent which married veterans in Prince Georges County said they could afford is $40-$50 for houses or $30-$40 for apartments.

The picture was brighter in Montgomery County where only about 1200 out of 13,000 veterans were listed as having inadequate facilities, questionnaires were not used and the figures were obtained through applications filed with the Montgomery County Housing Authority.

Joseph D. Busher of Silver Spring, chairman of the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission gave credit to three veterans housing developments in the county, taking care of about 400 families, for helping keep the figures low.

The commission pointed out that plenty of homes are available at $12,000, but that the average veteran is not able to pay more than $8000-$10,000.

Water Gate Concert Fund Plans Studied

Financing the Water Gate summer concert series was discussed yesterday at an informal meeting of Board of Trade officials and representatives of the National Symphony Orchestra Association.

"We'll only have one campaign and that will include the Water Gate," Frank R. Jelleff, vice president of the Symphony Association stated after the meeting.

Last year the Board of Trade spearheaded a special campaign to underwrite the Water Gate Series, after the symphony, operating at a deficit, decided it could not afford to run the series.

Talk at the meeting centered on plans for the scheduled February symphony campaign, according to Edwin N. Lewis, public relations director of the Board of Trade, who stressed the talk was exploratory in nature.

Others who attended the meeting were Leon Chatelain, jr., president of the Board of Trade; George R. Titus, chairman of the board's cultural development committee; J. I. Mutch, manager of the National Symphony, and Howard Mitchell, who will succeed Dr. Hans Kindler as conductor next season.

Alert Cabbie and Police Speed Frustrate a Holdup Here

Two men who police say hoped to raise a "Christmas fund" by a series of cab robberies were captured early yesterday when a hacker fought them off and called police.

The men, Hal F. Courts, 21, a dishwasher of 801 New Jersey ave. nw., and James W. Carter, 21, unemployed, of 1273 Stevens rd. se., were held in $1000 bond each for the grand jury when arraigned before Municipal Judge George D. Neilson on charges of attempted robbery.

Courts and Carter were picked up by Cabbie Otis Barlow, 29, of 401 1st. st. nw., at 6½ and M sts. nw., shortly before 3 a. m.

Barlow, police said, was to be the first unwilling contributor to the pair's Yule fund.

But the plan backfired when the hacker, alarmed by surreptitious signs the men were making—one in the front seat and one in the rear—sped to a gas station at New Jersey ave., New York ave. and 3d st. nw. and leaped out.

The pair tried to grab him but Barlow struggled free, dashed into the station's office and called police as the men fled down 3d st.

A police cruiser manned by Precinct Detectives E. R. Amos, Robert L. Carter and Plainclothesman R. J. Reed arrested Courts and Carter about a block from the scene. The officers were congratulated by Lieut. Edgar E. Scott, robbery squad chief, for fast work.

Reed was one of four honored as Policemen of the Month last October for his efforts in the Nathaniel Johnson murder case.

Double Bill, Heavy Cast Mark Blessed Event in Brooklyn

New York, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—Everybody got into the act today when Mrs. Florence Santaveechi, 27, of Brooklyn, gave birth to twins.

The cast included eight policemen, a doctor, a priest and a dozen or so neighbors. And, of course, the mother.

It all started at 6 a. m. when Mrs. Santaveechi realized that she was about to give birth prematurely. She sent her father stumbling out into the darkness to phone for help. He called the police.

Officers Otto Peters, 30, and Walter A. Casey, 31, responded. Both Peters and Casey are father of three children each and, as Peters put it, they just "used a little common sense" and delivered a 4½-pound boy.

They were beaming over their proficiency when a young interne, Dr. Joseph Berke, arrived. He took one look at the mother and promptly delivered another baby. The second infant was a 4-pound girl.

The twins were not lusty and Berke feared for their survival. He sent Peters to call the police emergency squad, which arrived, sirens screaming, with six men and four tanks of oxygen.

The din and the sight of men dashing in and out of the Santaveechi apartment drew friends from all over the neighborhood. The place soon was jammed with people carrying around hot water, passing along towels, moving the oxygen tanks and making a great many suggestions to the doctors.

For a time the twins failed to respond and Peters was sent to a nearby Catholic Church to summon Father Jerome Murphy to baptize the babies.

Finally, the oxygen and massage treatment showed results and the twins were taken to a hospital. They were reported doing well late today.

Where was the father all this time? Well, they're never around when you need them. Santaveechi is a soldier, away at camp.

One on the Aisle—

A Snapshot Role Allotted Ethel

By Richard L. Coe

THE SELF-PITYING HERO is rarely persuasive enough to make a good story. Such a character is the central figure of the Metropolitan's "Moonrise," a picture which, whatever its pretensions, comes under the head of nonsense.

This is too bad, for there are some compelling moments and several able performances in this melodrama, from a novel by a one-time film reviewer of the New York Times, Theodore Strauss.

But impatience, more than pity, is the emotion conjured by this story of a young man who has been haunted all his life by the fact that his father was hanged for murder. Not until the end of the picture do you know exactly what his father was hanged for, nor do you know of his old grandma who talks in riddles.

Making matters worse is the fact that I'm afraid Republic Studios, which usually turns to more obvious film excitement, feels that in "Moonrise" it is evolving a work of art. What it assumes to be sincere and sympathetic somehow becomes sniveling and synthetic. Some flashes of imaginative movie-making (a scene on a ferris wheel, the similarity of a child's doll to a hanging body) are promising, but there's a musty air about the whole thing.

Dane Clark plays a fellow who's been taunted by his playmates for his father's ignominious end. Having taken all he can bear, he one night lashes out at his most persistent tormentor, kills him, hides the body in a swamp and makes love to the deceased's girl friend. This turns out to be True Love, and when the inevitable chase narrows, the Good Side comes out and Dane gives himself up. As you can see, unless a story like this is brilliantly handled, it's likely to seem just sordid foolishness which, I'm afraid, is exactly what "Moonrise" is.

"MOONRISE," a Republic Picture produced by Charles Haas, directed by Frank Borzage, screenplay by Charles Haas based on the novel by Theodore Strauss. At the Metropolitan.

Queen Ethel—in a Flash

The picture is noteworthy, if such be the word, for having a star who commands something less than three minutes on the screen in the final few shots of the film. The star is Ethel Barrymore, who plays the grandma who sent Clark off from their mountain home to live in town under his own name. Queen Ethel has been called on for some remarkably foolish doings in her long day, but this is the most mystifying of them all. Her trade-mark of a voice is always music to my ears, but you'll miss it if you choose that spot to open a fresh box of popcorn.

Allyn Joslyn has some moments as a shrewd sheriff and Henry Morgan (Washington's Harry Brattsburg) is outstandingly good as a mute whom Clark has defended. Gail Russell's face remains happily without the usual Hollywood make-up man's mask, though whether she's an actress is difficult to say. I'm inclined to think she may be, despite the phony posings of "Moonrise."

Caps Go After No. 19 Against Celts Tonight

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Those almost unstoppable Washington Caps are favored to continue their wrecking job against the Basketball Association of America's Eastern clubs at Uline Arena tonight where they take on the Boston Celtics.

The high-flying Washingtonians will be shooting for their nineteenth triumph in 21 outings and their eleventh straight on the home hardwood. They've already beaten Coach Doggie Julian's Celts twice, once here and again in Boston.

The first meeting was a romp for the Caps, but the return engagement in Boston was a thriller with the Caps staging one of their patented rallies in the fourth quarter to triumph.

The Caps have an unblemished record in their own Eastern Division, having knocked off Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, Providence and Boston with regularity.

Their only two setbacks came at the hands of Western Division teams, Indianapolis interrupting a 15-game winning streak and St. Louis responsible for the only other blur on the Washington mark.

Off to a slow start, the Celts have been coming fast lately under the tutelage of Julian, who guided Holy Cross to the NGAA title in 1947 and finished second last year. They've won three of their last four games and are hot on the trail of the second place New York Knickerbockers.

Gene Stump, All-America from DePaul, is the boy who's been making the Celts go these past few weeks. He's the team's leading scorer, averaging a creditable 13.5 points per game and is also the key man of Boston's fast-breaking offense.

Average 12 Points

Stump, 6-feet-3, gets a lot of help from Mel Riebe 29-yead-old veteran, and Ed Ehlers, a South Bend hotshot who found his way into Purdue instead of Notre Dame. Each owns a respectable 12-point per game average.

The Caps, as usual, will open with their old reliables. They're Kleggie Hermsen at center, Bones McKinney and Sonny Hertberg at forwards and Capt. Bob Feerick and Freddie Scolari at guards.

Then comes Leo Katkaveck and Mat Zunic to relieve Scolari and Hertzberg and after them Johnny Norlander and Dick O'Keefe follow to further harass the Celtics, it is hoped.

Game time is 8:45 o'clock. An Industrial League preliminary opens the show at 7:30.

Past Catches Up With Tony And Primo

Detroit, Dec. 17 (AP).—Plans for a wrestling exhibition between former heavyweight boxers Tony Galento and Primo Carnera ran afoul of the Michigan athletic board of control today.

Commissioner John J. Hettche said that he would not approve a match between the two. Earlier today, Galento's manager announced at Newark, N. J., that the Galento-Carnera match would be held here Jan. 7.

"That's out," commented Hettche.

The Michigan commissioner announced today that he had placed $300 fines on Carnera and another wrestler, Gorgeous George, because of unsatisfactory performances in their December 10 meeting here.

Hettche said that match was billed as a two-falls-out-of-three affair but that it ended in confusion with both men being disqualified by the referee.

Declaring that wrestling is listed only as an exhibition affair in Michigan, Hettche said, "A lot of people take it seriously and we are out to help clean up the game."

He added:

"Carnera is under suspension and Galento never has been in good standing in Michigan since he stopped Natie Brown in the fourth round of a fight here in 1939."

Black May Go Home

Cleveland, Dec. 17 (AP).—Pitcher Don Black of the Cleveland Indians wants to go home for Christmas and "maybe he will,' his doctor said today.

Braden also said he believed the Indian righthander will be able to pitch again.

Dr. Braden said the delicate, four-hour operation he performed on Black 10 days ago for a weak spot in a blood vessel was a sucess.

'They're Off' —The Gates Not the Horses

New Orleans, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—A comedy of errors, involving collapsed starting gates, four cranes, three canceled races, and a two-hour delay, upset today's racing program at the Fair Grounds.

It all started when a wheel fell off the starting gate, and the gate bogged down in the mud. It couldn't be dragged off the track so a spare could be brought up.

The race track brought out its crane. The crane wasn't heavy enough to lift the gate. A larger crane was rushed in from a construction company, but it was too big to get on the track.

When a crane finally was found that would lift the gate, it was the fourth that had been tried.

The delay forced cancellation of the first two races with the stewards also calling off the daily double and paying back the money that had been bet.

The final touch came when darkness forced cancellation of the eighth race.

Quantico, Fort Bragg Clash Today

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Quantico Marines, All-Navy champs, will attempt to bring Eighty-second Airborne Division's football team to earth at 2 p. m. today at Maryland University's College Park stadium.

The powerful Marines, seeking their twenty-fifth consecutive victory, meet a foe that's also unbeaten. The Army boys from Fort Bragg, N. C., successfully sidestepped nine opponents and today's game is billed for the mythical service championship.

It may well serve as a forerunner to an official title game for the armed forces. With the increased emphasis on sports in the postwar plans, such a game is in sight.

Today's contest is sponsored by the Washington Junior Board of Commerce with proceeds going to its Youth Welfare Fund. Tickets are $1.20 and $2.40, with servicemen admitted free.

Quantico Star-Studded

Quantico let only three opponents score on it in racking up 12 successive triumphs this season and rules a two or three touchdown choice today. The Marines seem to have the edge in weight and experience.

Three of Quantico's brighter lights starred at the Naval Academy—Joe Bartos, Dick Ambrogi and Center Bill Jesse. Bartos, anxiously sought by the Redskins, is Quantico's one-man gang on offense.

The bruising 210-pounder leads in scoring 13 touchdowns; averages 9 yards a try in rushing and also is tops in pass receiving with 17 for 379 yards. Bartos has tossed six passes, completed three and two were for touchdowns.

Despite those staggering figures, Quantico is far from a one-man club. In fact, Hal Harwood fields two complete teams. The host of good backs include Ambrogi, Passers Rudy Flores and Roy Russell, Joe Tamillo, George Greco, Ben Moore and Ray Schuett.

Meyer Scoring Star

The Eighty-second hasn't been idle, rolling up 302 points and allowing only 65 points in its highly successful season. Star back is John Meyer, 20-year-old 160-

GW Drubs VMI, 71-45

Lexington, Va., Dec. 17.—George Washington University regained its winning form here tonight and outclassed Virginia Military Institute, 71-45, in a Southern Conference game.

In contrast to their drab, losing performance against Washington and Lee here last night, the Colonials passed smoothly and made a good percentage of their shots.

Set shot artist Phil McNiff paced the Colonials with 17 points and stretched his Conference leading scoring total to 75 for five games. Scoring laurels for the game, however, went to V. M. I.'s Fred Anson with 19.

G. W. took a 33-21 first half lead and it never was threatened thereafter. The win was the third in five Conference games for G. W. V. M. I. has lost both of its Conference starts.

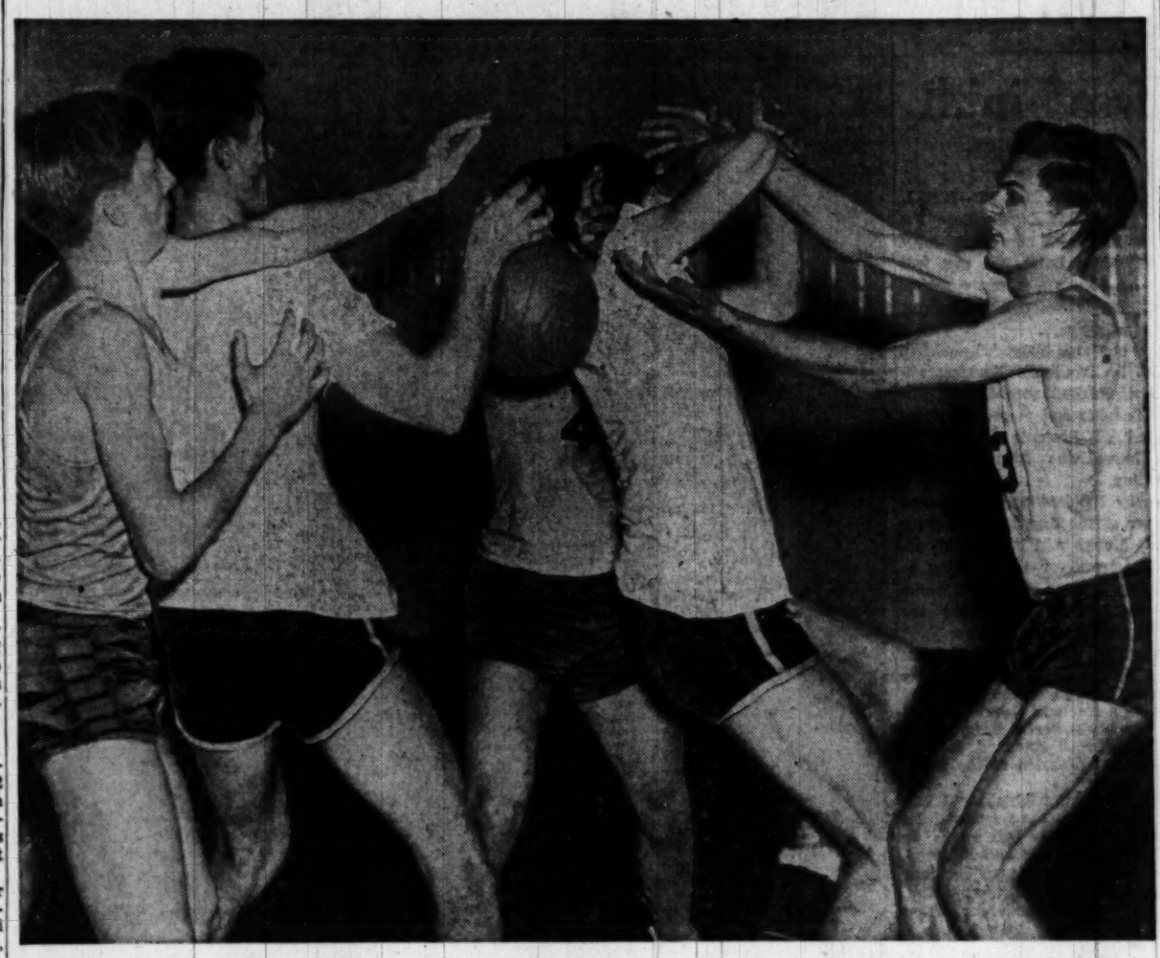
AMERICAN HOCKEY LEAGUE
Springfield 8 ..... Washington 8



By Arthur Ellis—The Washington Post

'Skins' Draft Choices Will Be Linemen

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

A lot of people will be saying "Never heard of the guy!" when the Washington Redskins reveal the name of their first selection at Monday's draft meeting of the National Football League.

That's because the Redskins' first, and probably as many as their first three choices will be linemen.

Guards, tackles and ends will be their main consideration as Redskin officials meet in Philadelphia with representatives of the nine other N. F. L. clubs to split up the 1948 crop of collegiate graduates.

Have Enough Backs

"We've got all the backfield men we need," Coach Turk Edwards said yesterday, "if we can keep enought of them in shape to play. We've even got enough backs for trading purposes—and intend to use some of them for just that."

A check of the Redskin roster bears Turk out. Now available, or owned, by Washington's pros is a total of 22 backfield men. This includes 13 veterans of 1948, three rookies already signed, and six collegians to whom the Redskins own draft rights.

Those signed are Jack Kirby, U. S. C.; Pete Stout, T. C. U., and Bob Goode, Texas A. and M. Already on the draft list are Fullback Harry Jagade, Indiana; Halfback Jack Kurkowski, Detroit; Fullback Joe Colone, Penn State; Halfback Brian Bell, Washington and Lee; Halfback Joe Bartos, Quantico Marines, and Halfback Bob Anderson, Stanford.

Skins Rate Seventh Choice

The Redskins will have seventh choice in Monday's grab-bag, with only the Chicago Cardinals and Bears and Philadelphia Eagles drawing after them.

Actually Monday's first draw will be in the second round, owners having picked one player apiece at a recent meeting in Pittsburgh. Goode was the 'Skins pick.

In all, about 30 players will be chosen by each N. F. L. team before the session ends late Monday or early Tuesday.

Veeck Buys Okla. City Club

Oklahoma City, Dec. 17 (AP).—Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians, announced here tonight that he and two partners had purchased the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas League for an undisclosed amount.

Veeck named E. J. (Jimmy) Humphries and Rudie Schaffer, business manager of the Cleveland club, as the partners.

Lon Warneke Back in Majors; Takes Over Henline's Umpire Job

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Lon Warneke, the old Arkansas hummingbird, will make his debut as a National League umpire next season, President Ford Frick announced today.

Warneke, who was one of the National League's top right-handers for more than a decade, has been umpiring in the Pacific Coast League the past three seasons. He fills a vacancy on Frick's staff created by the departure of Butch Henline.

Coming up in 1931 with the Chicago Cubs, Warneke won 192 games for the Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals before he called it quits in '45. He pitched two World Series victories over Detroit for the Cubs in '35 and was a 22-game winner both in '32 and '34.

Coast critics sent in glowing reports on Warneke's umpiring.

In Title Game Sunday

Weather to Decide Whether Cards or Eagles See the Light

Philadelphia, Dec. 17.—If the weather forecast and previous meetings between the teams mean anything, the Chicago Cardinals and Philadelphia Eagles may need Shibe Park lights and a "sudden death" extra period to determine the National Football League championship here Sunday.

Long-range predictions by the United States Weather Bureau are for rain or snow—or a mixture of both—for the title game. Certainly it will be almost dark before the tangle, which starts at 1:30 p. m., comes to an end.

There never has been a "sudden death" period in a championship game. But should the Cards and Eagles finish the regulation four quarters in a tie, they will continue play until a deciding score is made. The fifth quarter would start with a regular kickoff.

The likelihood of such a period is taken into consideration in the game odds, listing the Cardinals as a 3½-point favorite to win the sixteenth annual NFL title game. It's the second time this season the teams have met, Chicago taking a 21-14 margin in an early season game.

It was by the same margin, at 28-21, by which the Cards won last year's championship game as they swept to their first crown in 25 years as the Eagles got into their only championship game in 14 years of trying.

A Cardinal touchdown in every period won the '47 clash. Elmer Angsman got off two 70-yard scoring sprints as he hung up 159 yards in 10 trips with the ball. Charley Trippi handled the other two touchdowns on dashes of 44 and 75 yards. Pat Harder kicked all the extra points.

While its great running star, Steve Van Buren, was held to 26 yards in 18 trips with the ball, Philadelphia depended largely on Passer Tommy Thompson. He completed 27 of 44 tosses, gaining 297 yards. One pitch was to Pat McHugh for a 53-yard touchdown. Others set up touchdowns by Van Buren and Craft on short line plunges.

Saddler Stops Young in 10th

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Featherweight Champion Sandy Saddler carved up rough Terry Young tonight, stopping the East Side toughie after 37 seconds of the tenth and last round of a nontitle bout tonight at Madison Square Garden. Saddler weighed 128, Young 136.

With blood pouring from a deep gash over Young's left eye, Referee Eddie Joseph stopped the bout to save Terry from serious injury.

Young, who never had been knocked out, refused to go down but he sagged in his corner in the ninth and almost pitched over on his face.

A crowd of 9081 which paid $22,222 gross turned out for the last Garden show of the 1948 season.

For $12,000 'Gate'

Jack Dempsey Gets Hard-Earned Verdict Over Internal Revenue Dep't. Commissioner

By The Associated Press

Jack Dempsey won a decision yesterday over one of the toughest scrappers in the country . . . the Internal Revenue Commissioner.

The gate involved was a tax bill on $12,000 of the $36,724 "Jack Dempsey's" restaurant and bar in New York paid the former heavyweight champ for personal appearances and the use of his name in 1942.

The 15 judges of the United States Tax Court gave Dempsey the nod, unanimously.

One punch that the commissioner "swung" was that Dempsey was making a profit out of appearances in a private business enterprise at the same time he was on active wartime duty as a Coast Guard officer.

The commissioner said rules of the Navy, which had wartime charge of the Coast Guard, forbade officers or enlisted men from "engaging in private employment" except where specific permission was given by the chief of the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

The judges chalked that up as a wild "swing."

Before Dempsey even accepted his commission, they said, he told his prospective senior officers that he was under obligation to appear at the restaurant-bar as a drawing card.

Not only did Dempsey's immediate superior officers okay it for him to do so in his off-duty hours, said the judges, but "indeed, they accompanied him there on several occasions."

The commissioner's other 'jab" was that $24,724 was "reasonable compensation" for Dempsey's services and that the restaurant couldn't take a tax deduction on the remaining $12,000—the amount of a 1942 "raise" given Dempsey—because that was "excessive" payments.

The judges ruled that out, too, saying the way they saw it Dempsey's name and appearance as a drawing card were not only well worth $36,724 to the restaurant-bar but a bargain at that price.

The main reason people were cramming the place in wartime 1942 was "in hope of seeing Jack Dempsey," and that was why the place grossed $819,673 and rolled up a $110,328 profit, the judges said.

Detroit Franchise In NBL Withdrawn

Chicago, Dec. 17 (AP).—Detroit withdrew from the National Basketball League today because of poor attendance. The franchise was switched to Dayton, Ohio.

Dayton will be represented by the New York Rens, one of the outstanding Negro basketball teams in the Nation. They will be known as the Dayton Rens. They will start play in Dayton Sunday night, engaging the Anderson Packers.

The Detroit team, winner of only two out of 18 games, is reported to have lost $11,000.

Lions Lose Out, 8-5, to Springfield

A second-period lapse during which their opponents, the Springfield Indians, netted three quick goals cost the Washington Lions the hockey game at Uline Arena last night before 1225 fans. The score was 8-5.

Springfield scored its last two goals in the last 15 seconds of the game as the Lions gambled desperately, trying to erase a 1-point deficit and leaving their goal completely unprotected.

The Indians' eight goals were manufacturered largely by Hub Macey and Bill Gooden who had a hand in all but one of the eight. Macey himself pocketed three.

The Lions looked bad in the second period as the Indians ran up a 6-1 lead after carrying over a 2-1 edge from the first period. First Phil Vitale drew blood while slashing Hazen McAndrews to earn himself a 5-minute rest in the dog house.

Only one Indian, Leo Curick, could score while Phil was out but when his five minutes were up the fun started. Hub Macey dislodged the puck from a mixup near the Lion goal and poked it home. Within 30 seconds at 11:51, Macey did it again, this time on a rebound of Bill Gooden's blocked shot.

Joe Conn converted Macey's back-hand pass with a long-distance shot past the blinded Crowdis. Then as a series of 2-minute penalties kept the Indians short-handed for the last 6 minutes, the Lions sent four forwards down the ice and got back two goals. The last was the result of fine leading pass from Norm Burns to Ken Schultz and a neat bit of feinting by the latter which drew McAttee out of position.

ACC Will Keep Same Eight Clubs

By Harold Claussen

Cleveland, Dec. 17 (AP).—The All-America Football Conference will stay in business in 1949 with the same eight clubs, but there may be a new commissioner at the head of the junior professional grid loop.

Commissioner Jonas Ingram tonight spiked long-standing and increasing rumors that the conference, or at least some of its weaker members, would fold up. He told club officials in their annual meeting here:

"We are proceeding with plans for next year and will hold our draft meeting as scheduled Monday. Cooperative relations with the the National Football League continue to be the desire of our conference."

Directly from Ingram came the hint the conference may soon be looking for a new boss. He said:

"Unless there is peace between the two leagues within the next 30 days, I am through with professional football. I took this job two years ago after my retirement from the Navy with the intention of staying for only one year.

"I thought I could bring about a settlement between the leagues. It's still my hope to see them get together, and if that doesn't happen soon I'll step out."

Ingram became commissioner two years ago, succeeding Jimmy Crowley who took over the Chicago Rockets.

Earlier the conference confidently announced its "eight-club league will continue" operations next year.

The statement apparently dispelled reports that the league was ready to fold or that some of its better teams would merge with the rival National circuit.

Earlier, another hint of peace came from Ben F. Lindheimer, owner of the Los Angeles Dons, and chairman of the A-A executive committee.

In a long statement declaring scouting costs had been reduced, he said of players discovered: "Whether they come into our conference, we want them in professional football."

Lindheimer's statement also refuted reports that the circuit was ready to fold by looking forward to tighter competition in 1949 and pointing out that the conference's

A. U. Wins By 66 to 38

American University won its third Mason-Dixon Conference game last night, trouncing Western Maryland, 66-38.

It was the seventh win of the year for the Eagles who have been beaten only twice. Eddie Moffatt bagged 14 points, eight of them on free throws, to pace A. U. to its one-sided victory.

The game was close for the first period which saw A. U. lead, 24-15, but after that it was the Eagles all the way. Leo Lathroum and Bill Seibert evenly divided 18 points to set the pace for the Green Terrors.

Lucky Incident Wins After Lucky Incident at Charles Town

Ft. Myer Host

D. C. Military District Has Boxing Fever

THE MILITARY District of Washington is all awhirr with boxing fever. The seven local Army installations which make up the District are being scoured for boxing talent, from flyweights to heavyweights, to take part in the boxing tournament to be held January 26-28 at Fort Myer.

The sudden flair for fisticuffing in local Army circles parallels the announcement by the District's Commanding General, Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gray, that the all-Army tournament would be held at Fort Myer during the week beginning February 20.

"As an advocate of all forms of competitive sports among soldiers," General Gay expressed his satisfaction with the selection of Fort Myer, and the District would do everything possible to make the tournament a success. A topnotch local entry, culled from the local tournament, next month, would go a long way.

Leapfrog at 40

The ageless leapfrog, Dave Albritten is coming back to reassert his preeminence in the high jump at the Evening Star Track Games, January 15, at the National Guard Armory. The 37-year-old former Ohio State star and owner of 11 national championships accompanied his entry blank with the statement that he intends to retire the three-year trophy on which he already has one leg. When and if he succeeds, Albritten will be nearing a ripe 40 years old, an age when most high jumpers have long since retired themselves.

Boys Club Tourney

All five defending champions of last year's Boys Club of Washington Christmas basketball tournament have entered again this year and are ready to take on all comers. The tournament starts December 27 and entries will be accepted until 9 p. m. December 23 by Ollie Dryzer at ATlantic 0949. An 80-pound class has been added to this year's event.

Another Tourney

Entries for the seventh annual D. C. Recreation Department Christmas basketball tournament, which begins on December 27, will still be accepted this morning by Clint Price at Pleasant 8666. To date 115 teams have entered in both the boys' and girls' divisions.

Sherwood Girls Win

The Sherwood High girls basketball team yesterday swamped Poolsville, 24-4, at Sherwood. High scorer for the winning team was Ann Garcrell with 7 points. It was the second straight win for Sherwood.

2 Contenders Collide in Close Finish

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, Dec. 17.—Mrs. L. G. Bedwell's Lucky Incident had all his luck with him again today. In a blanket finish, the colt won by a head margin after the second and third horses collided leaving the starting gate.

The stewards blamed the mishap on C. L. Kronfeld's Markless after she finished second, and disqualified her and placed her third behind E. L. Poston's White Easter, the horse who figured in the bumping.

Lucky Incident was the second winner of the day for Apprentice Willie Downs and brought his total successes for the meeting to 33. The winner was a strongly backed favorite throughout the betting and returned $4.20.

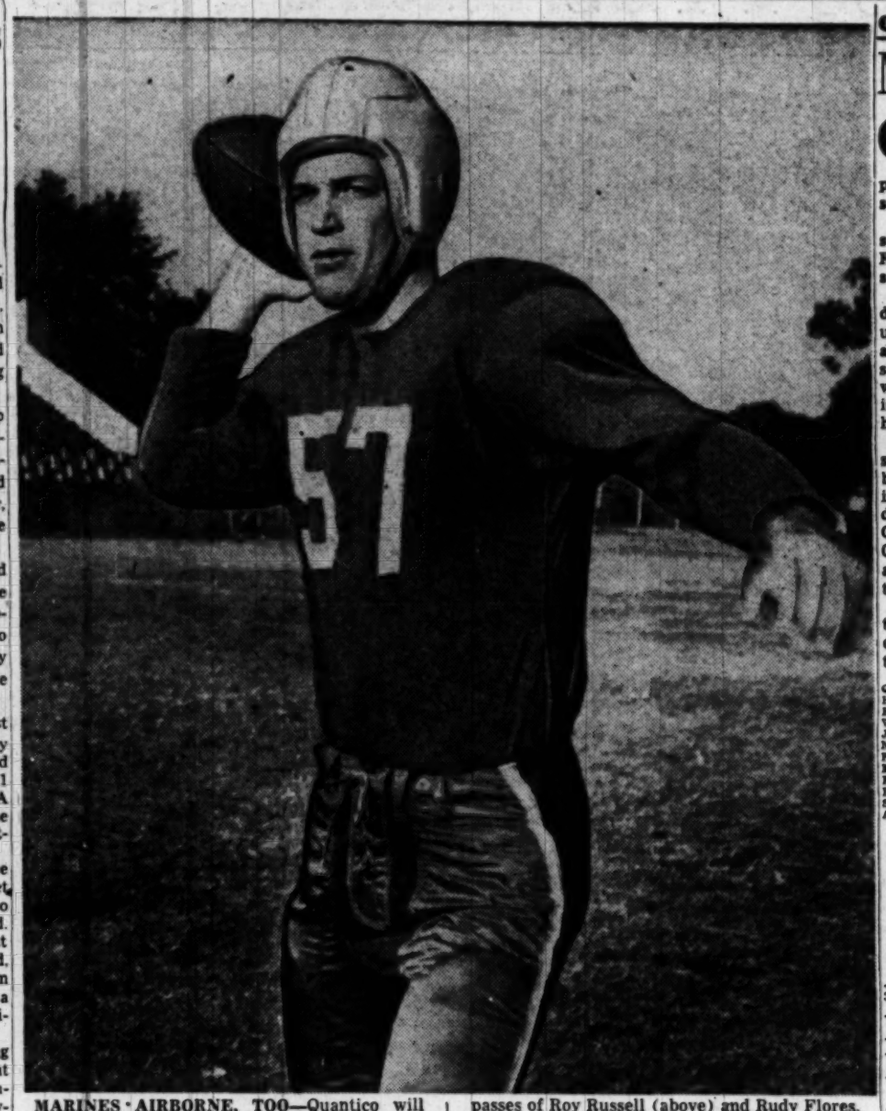
The track was muddy—not a fast track at the meeting—and Lucky Incident in winning for the second time in a row was clocked in 1:31 for the about seven furlongs. A crowd of 4500 reported for the next-to-last program of the meeting.

Markless, after brushing White Easter, went to the front and set a good pace. Gay Pilate tried to get to the leader and faltered. Downs always had Lucky Incident in good position and, when asked, the colt moved to the leader. From that point to the wire it was a ding-dong battle with Lucky Incident having the most left.

White Easter, after being bumped, dropped back to last at the first turn. Jockey Lou Lombardi saved ground while improving his position to the far turn where he came to the outside. In the final drive White Easter was closing in on the leaders but distance ran out on her.

Downs rode his first winner of the day aboard Thomas Kenwood's Char Cross in the third race fashioned for 2-year-olds. He took the filly to the front and kept her there to the tune of an $8 win mutuel. W. R. Hoffman's Edna's Idyll ran second and S. H. Rogers' King's Guard was third with the winner registering time of 1:34 for the about 7 furlongs.

Jockey Ray Powers was the riding hero of the early stages of the program. He rode the winners of both ends of a $99.40 daily double. In the first race he scored with S. J. Cicero's Loutey at $4.80 and then came back in the second to get home with R. Parker's Tetra Rock at $28.40.



MARINES · AIRBORNE, TOO—Quantico will take to the air today at College Park against the Eighty-second Airborne Division on the passes of Roy Russell (above) and Rudy Flores. The game between the undefeated clubs is for the mythical service championship

Fifteen Negroes are on the Army squad and five are starters. One, Fred Bell of Galveston, Tex., is second high scorere with 30 points.

The Eighty-second may be underdog but it definitely will be undaunted. Coach Mike Chester, a member of the original Eighty-second, made four combat jumps with it. He insists a thing like facing 22 or more Marines can't scare his boys.

Quantico, considered the No. 1 service club, has made a comeback to the grid heights it reached in the early 1920s. Those were the days when All-American Frank Goettge, killed as a colonel on Guadalcanal, led the Marines against the best college competition in the land.

Quantico then played on even terms with Haskell Indians, Vanderbilt, Lou Little's Georgetown teams, Carnegie Tech and others.

Ingram May Quit

1948 attendance was only 5.49 per cent below that of 1947.

The report pointed to a late season rise in attendance due to "close races" in both the Eastern and Western Divisions as compared with the past two years of the league's existence.

The executive committee report also said confidently that "we hope in the future to get the greatest college players available regardless of reputation."

While singularly optimistic about the junior circuit's future, the committee avoided mention of a truce with the NFL as predicted by Ingram.

Ingram Confident of Peace

As the meeting opened, the commissioner said he believed seven NFL owners "are in favor of some sort of working agreement now.

'I'm confident some kind of settlement will be made within the next month."

Ingram was named AAC boss two years ago shortly after he relinquished command of the Navy's Atlantic Fleet.

Prior to the announcement, Dan Topping, president of the New York Yankees, said he would be glad to serve as landlord on December 26 should th ewinner of the National League title game and the A-A champion agree to meet.

A New York paper said today that if the Philadelphia Eagles, owned by Alexis Thompson, won the national league title game from the Chicago Cardinals, he might send his team against the A-A champion in a football world series.

Thompson, one of the few National League owners seeking a truce in the dollar war between the two circuits, is a close social friend of Toppings.' For the past two seasons Thompson's Eagles have won everything but customers. They have won the Eastern championships two years in a row although unable to show a profit at the box office.

Topping's invitation, however, denied that such a football world series game had been discussed or that he had been approached.

Eastern Track Coach Will Quit

The public high schools lose their third coach in three months Monday when Joe Kaufman leaves Eastern to become athletic officer at Fort Myer, Va.

He follows Rolland Lund of Eastern and Herman Littman of Roosevelt, who joined the Army after the coaches lost their battle for a wage increase.

Kaufman was a Marine lieutenant during the war, and served in the Southwest Pacific. He will receive a captain's commission in the Army.

He has been Eastern's track coach since 1946. Before the war, he was on the Anacostia High coaching staff. His Eastern track team last spring won the Interhigh championship, ending the five-year reign of Woodrow Wilson.

Like Lund and Littman, Kaufman will be given military leave by the schools. No successor has been named.

Lund, who led the fight for higher wages, now directs the athletic program at the Pentagon. Littman is head of the athletic program in the Military District of Washington.

Macks Sell Bob Savage

Philadelphia, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics tonight announced the sale of Pitcher Bob Savage to the St. Louis Browns for an unannounced sum.

Savage, a right-hander, won five and lost one last season as a relief hurler. He was the first major leaguer wounded in action in World War II. He won the Purple Heart and the Bronze Star.

43 Records Broken

Ted Wins Batting, Slugging But Di Mag Takes RBI Title

Chicago, Dec. 17 (AP).—New York's Joe DiMaggio watched Boston's Ted Williams cop the 1948 American League batting and slugging crowns, but the Yankee Clipper grabbed the important runs batted in title with a bag of 155.

Official league statistics today, besides awarding Williams the slugging championship with a .615 percentage and DiMaggio his second RBI diadem, also counted out 43 major and league records broken or tied last season.

Williams, whose .369 average topped the individual batting, finished 17 percentage points ahead of DiMaggio's .598 in the slugging compilations, but was third in RBI's with 127, 28 behind Joltin' Joe. The Yankee star played in 153 games, compared with Williams' 137.

Boston Shortstop Vern Stephens was second in the RBI column with 137, despite the dubious distinction of hitting into the most double plays, 25.

It was DiMaggio's best season at belting across tallies since his high of 167 in 1937 and surpassed by 30 his previous league-leading best of 125 in 1941. Although handicapped by an ailing heel, DiMaggio staged a brilliant run-production comeback from 1947 when he batted in only 97 and his 1946 low of 95. Those two seasons were the only ones in his 10-year major league career DiMaggio fell below 100 RBI's.

Third top slugger was New York's Tommy Henrich with a .554 percentage, while Cleveland's Joe Gordon was fourth in RBI's with 124.

Bell Loses, 32-30, to Chamberlain

Chamberlain and Bell Vocational Schools, clamoring for admission to the Interhigh League, staged a nip and tuck basketball game yesterday with Chamberlain grabbing a 32-30 victory at the Bell gym.

The lead changed hands eight times, with neither team ahead by more than four points. It took two field goals in the last minute and a half by Bob Woods and Buddy Horrell to pull the game out of the fire for Chamberlain.

Bell led, 8-7, at the end of the first quarter, with Chamberlain ahead, 14-13, at halftime and, 22-19, going into the last quarter. Horrell and Bill Cloud paced the winners with 14 and 10 points. Lee Shiflet's 9 were high for Bell.

A special commitee appointed by the high school board of principals will make the decision on whether to accept or reject league applications next week. If the applications are accepted, yesterday's game will be counted in the Interhigh League standings.

Blast Shakes Housing Units In Arlington

An early-morning boiler room explosion yesterday rocked the Jubal Early housing development in Arlington, blowing out two walls of the heating plant building but injuring no one.

Development Manager Benjamin Bengis said he believes the explosion was due to accumulated gases from "green coal" in the hot water boiler furnace.

Both the front and back cinder block walls of the heating unit, located between units 538 and 540 on S. 20th st., were blown out or left sagging by the blast. Damage was estimated at $5000.

Of Jubal Early's 1700 residents, one of the closest to the blast was Mrs. Earl Stitt of 538 S. 20th st., whose apartment was separated from the boiler room by a cinder block wall.

She was fixing her hair in the apartment bathroom, Mrs. Stitt said, "when I heard a noise like somebody dropping a heavy tool." Then, she said, the explosion came, "and the room was full of dust." Her apartment was not damaged, however.

Units of the Clarendon, Jefferson and Arlington fire departments responded to the explosion, but there were no flames. Housing Manager Bengis said normal heating service for the two units supplied by the boiler room should be restored "within a week."

Agency Given $90,000 Grant

United States Book Exchange, Inc., announced yesterday that it had received a three-year grant totaling $90,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation.

The Rev. James J. Kortendick, secretary and chairman of the board of USBE, said the grant would enable the organization, an independent agency for library exchanges whose national work will be supported by participating American libraries, to extend its operations on an international scale.

The agency, currently housed in the Library of Congress and receiving State Department cooperation, will serve libraries and other institutions all over the world by collecting, listing, and distributing printed materials on a cooperative basis. The USBE will also act as a clearing house for information on libraries still suffering from war damage or economic conditions.

The USBE took over the assets, materials and staff of the American Book Center September 1. Its officers are: Milton E. Lord of Boston, president; Irene M. Strieby, Indianapolis, vice president; Father Kortendick and Raymond L. Zwemer, Washington, treasurer. Alice Dulany Ball, Washington, is executive director.

Thrice Wed, Once Divorced Woes Revealed

The martial life of thrice-wed—but only once divorced—Chief Petty Officer Laurence Cash Garrett was bared yesterday in Municipal Court.

According to testimony Garrett, who is 45, married his second wife, Ruth, in 1936, although he was not fully divorced at the time from wife No. 1, Nannette. And he married Margaret Compton, 32, in 1937.

He wants the marriage to Margaret annulled. She, in turn, wants a divorce from him on the grounds of adultery, and claims he is the father of her 14-year-old daughter.

Ruth, whom he says he loves and desires to stay married to, is a blonde. Margaret is brunette. No one is talking about Nannette.

Garrett said that while married to Nannette, he was transferred from California to Washington. He said he called his attorneys in California and was told that Nannette had divorced him.

So, the Navy man said, he married Ruth on March 8, 1936. It was only later, he asserted, that he learned that the divorce from Nannette became final only on August 18, 1936.

He said he met the then Miss Compton in 1933 and that she claimed she bore him a child on March 21, 1934.

She "exerted great pressure" to persuade him to marry her, he said.

And on May 4, 1937, he states, he became drunk, "deprived of his sense of reason" because of it, and went off to Ellicott City, Md., where he and Margaret "participated in a marriage ceremony."

He admitted giving her money to support herself and the child but denied that they ever lived together as man and wife.

Margaret says that Garrett committed adultery with Ruth in Manila and Hong Kong, while he was on an Asiatic tour of duty.

Garrett, who is a big man with grey hair, anad has been in the Navy 26 years, lives with Ruth at 2544 17th st. nw. Margaret lives at 813 Marietta pl. nw.

The case is to continue Monday before Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

3 Soldiers Hurt In Fort Meade Grenade Blast

Three soldiers were injured, one officer seriously, when a hand grenade exploded prematurely yesterday during a demonstration at Fort Meade, Md.

The injured in the post hospital were identified as Lieut. Charles A. Deakin of Danbury, Conn.; Pvt. Erskine J. Underwood of Iva, S. C., and Pvt. Robert J. Degraffinreadt of Siler City, N. C.

An Army spokesman said Deakin was holding the grenade, preparing to release it, when it went off. He was the most seriously injured of the three hurt.

Gold in Ex-Wife's Plate Brings Man 75c, Jail

Superior, Wis., Dec. 17 (AP).—Ernest Smith's divorced wife won't have her two front teeth—or any of her uppers, for that matter—for Christmas.

Municipal Judge Claude Cooper sentenced Smith to six months in the county jail yesterday after he pleaded guilty of stealing both plates of his wife's dentures.

"That's a pretty mean trick, Ernie," commented Judge Cooper after Smith admitted selling the gold from the upper plate for 75 cents. He returned the lower.

Fight Opens To Bar Rise In Maryland Phone Rates

Opposition, Headed By State, to Give Case at Hearing Set for January 11

Opponents of a proposed increase in Maryland telephone rates marshaled their forces yesterday for a hearing before the State Public Service Commission on January 11.

Aligned against the requested increase for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. were the State, the Mayor of Cumberland, the Communication Workers of America, Local 1874, of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) in Cumberland, the Progressive Party of Maryland and J. M. Wright, Lanham resident.

Wright, a Government employe, opposed the increase because, he said, it would "seriously injure the morale of Washington people who live in Maryland."

Stopgap Rise Asked

The company has asked the commission to approve a temporary increase of more than three million dollars, which would hike phone bills 14 per cent. It also has filed a request for a permanent increase amounting to six million dollars, including the temporary jump, in revenue annually.

Attorney General Hall Hammond, who has intervened in behalf of the State, has called a meeting in his office next Tuesday to map the opposition's case at the hearing.

Joseph A. Beirne, president of Communication Workers of America, said a union study shows "wages and other costs can be absorbed by current rates or through rate increases much more modest than the company is now seeking."

Crull Heads Study

Beirne announced John L. Crull, CWA vice president, is supervising the union's "study and intervention in rate matters." Crull stated:

"If it seems advisable for us to do so, we'll file a petition to intervene in the case ourselves. Otherwise we will help the State in its case."

CWA, claiming "some Bell companies are asking for their second or third increases since the war," asserted the Maryland company already has received a postwar $5,289,595 annual increase.

Mayor Thomas S. Post of Cumberland has wired the commission his opinion that "such an increase is not necessary at present."

"Earnings Low"

The company, in reply, said earnings are critically low and are trending downward.

"Continuing high costs of everything," including wages, were said by a utility spokesman to have "seriously impaired the company's earnings."

"Adequate earnings are essential to attract the large sums of new capital needed so that we can continue with our vast service improvement and expansion program—a program which benefits both our customers and our employes," the company statement declared.

School Patrolman Gets Award for Saving Student

A 13-year-old school patrolman who pulled a schoolmate to safety from in front of a speeding car last week was presented a pair of gloves yesterday at the annual Christmas party of the Fairfax County School Patrol.

Dennie O'Shea, who lives in Groveton and is a student at the Groveton School, received the award yesterday before 785 fellow patrolmen at the Fairfax Theater in Fairfax County. Police Sergt. Lewis Shumate, who heads the patrol, explained the gloves by the fact that the county had not had time since the incident to get a medal.

The three-hour party also included a talk by Assistant Attorney General James Palmer, and variety acts.

Driver Cleared

Policeman's Death Ruled Accidental

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that the death of Mortimer P. Donoghue, 58, veteran policeman who was killed in the collision of a police van and automobile September 15, was "accidental."

The verdict, returned by a six-man jury after half an hour's deliberation, exonerated James J. Hartin, 54, of 1803 M st. ne., driver of the automobile. He had been arrested on a charge of colliding and held for action of the coroner.

Pvt. Earl Johnson, 48, of 629 Quebec pl. nw., who was seriously injured in the collision, testified that he was driving the van "just moderately" when the accident occurred at 5th and K sts. nw. Donoghue of 4902 Kansas ave. nw., who was riding beside Johnson, was thrown from the vehicle and crushed under the left rear wheel of the heavy van when it overturned.

Sergt. Emmett Waters, of the Accident Investigation Unit, who questioned Hartin after the accident, quoted the motorist as saying the police van "struck" his automobile first. He reported he was travelling 15 or 18 miles an hour.

Asked if he would submit to a chemical test to determine alcoholic content of his blood, Hartin replied "sure," Waters testified. Results of the test were "negative," he added.

Jimmie Lowery, a janitor, of 1701 Park rd. nw., told the jury the van, carrying 12 prisoners to Municipal Court, was travelling on the "wrong side" of the street. The testimony was not substantiated by other witnesses.

Donoghue, who left a wife and two sons, died of a crushed chest and abdomen and other injuries, the autopsy showed.

Woman Gets 20 Months on Pander Count

Mrs. Maxie Smith, 51, who police said has been active in prostitution here for 20 years, was sentenced yesterday to serve 20 months to 5 years for pandering.

Mrs. Smith, who resided at 1317 Rhode Island ave. nw., and kept at least two women at a time for prostitution, was convicted of a seven-count indictment charging that she accepted sums of $10 to $30 as commissions from the women.

The sentence was imposed by Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut of District Court.

Two men were each given three to nine years in prison for taking indecent liberties with young girls.

They are William H. Harper, 19, of 411 50th st. ne., charged with molesting an 8-year-old girl, and John W. Jacobs, 30, of 5501 Jay st. ne., charged with molesting a 9-year-old girl.

Charged with second-degree murder, William C. Parker, 34, of 1626 Church st. nw., was given 5 to 20 years. According to the indictment, he fatally shot Russell Sykes, 32, of 1627 Church st. nw.

In a manslaughter case, Mrs. Marion M. Brown, 30, no fixed address, was given 5 to 15 years for shooting Jimmie R. Jeffries, 35, of 224 D st. ne.

Charged with burglary at 3803 Davis pl. nw., Parnell M. Smith, 30, of 1421 P st. nw., was given 16 months to four years. Taken from the building were 22 cases of liquor valued at $1495.

In lottery cases, Carl S. Cummings, 49, of 425 12th st. ne., received 60 days in jail for possession of numbers slips. Charged with operating a lottery, Samuel A. Smith, 41, of 251 Warren st. ne., received 20 to 60 days.

Hilltop Market Denied ABC License Transfer

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday announced the dismissal of a petition of Daniel Singer to transfer Class A license from the Hilltop Market at 5607 Georgia ave. nw., to 3016 Nichols ave. se.

The board's action was taken under a regulation prohibiting issuance of such a license for a location within 400 feet of a school in a residence zone. Singer's petition was opposed by a number of residents of the area at a hearing on Thursday.

Alexandria Council Votes For Budget

$3,936,624 Sum Passes 2 Readings Unanimously; Final Action Due Tuesday

By Richard Lyons
Post Reporter

The Alexandria city council last night passed on two readings a city budget calling for expenditures of $3,936,624.56 in 1949.

The council's approval of the budget was unanimous. Three days must elapse, however, before it can be finally adopted on the third reading. A special meeting for this purpose has been called for Tuesday night.

Although the 1949 budget calls for spending $700,000 more in 1949 than in 1948, tax rates on real estate and personal property will remain unchanged.

The real-estate tax rate is $2.75 per each $100 valuation, and the personal property tax rate is $3 for each $100 valuation.

The city expects to obtain the additional revenue needed from new businesses and residents.

Also passed on two readings last night were three changes in the business license tax ordinance.

They provided: (1) that carnivals pay a license fee of $1000 a day instead of the present fee of $500; (2) that most businesses in the city pay a $25 regulatory tax in addition to the present taxes on gross receipts; and (3) that sound trucks pay a $25-a-day license fee but no longer be required to obtain a permit from the city manager.

The budget adopted last night was identical in its total amount to the one tentatively agreed upon by the council two weeks ago. Increases in some individual items totalling $10,410 were absorbed by cutting the budget's contingent fund.

The council voted to request the State Compensation Board to increase the City Sergeant's budget by $1,660.

School Appropriation Passed

There was practically no public opposition to the budget as presented by the council.

In other actions, the council passed on first reading a $419,000 appropriation to build additions to two of the city's elementary schools.

The appropriations which will be taken from a $5,250,000 bond issue sold last summer also must lie over for three days before final approval.

Earlier yesterday, the Alexandria School Board accepted a $419,000 bid for construction of additions to two city elementary schools.

The winning firm, Eugene Simpson & Bro. of Alexandria, promised to complete the following construction within 180 working days from the date the contract is signed:

Add six classrooms and a cafeteria to the Douglas MacArthur School, 100 block of Janney's lane.

Add eight classrooms and a cafeteria to the Maury School, 600 block of Russell rd.

Original plans had also called for a home economics room at MacArthur School and one more classroom at Maury chool. When bids were received on these plans a week ago, however, the lowest was about $25,000 more than the school board had allocated for the work. Superintendent T. C. Williams said Simpson's bid yesterday was just within the budgeted figure.

Big Parade Honors 3 New Fort Belvoir Units

THEIR FLAG—Colors are presented to the newly activated Seventh Engineer Construction Brigade at Fort Belvoir, Va., by Lieut. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler. They are received by Col. C. H. McNutt. Maj. Gen. Douglas L. Waert stands by. Some 8000 troops turned out for yesterday's review, at which the Seventh and Twenty-fourth Engineer Construction Group and the 801st Engineer Aviation Battalion—all newly activated—received their colors

The Army Engineer Center at Fort Belvoir, Va., held its biggest parade since the war yesterday to honor three newly activated units and to award six decorations for wartime valor.

With 8000 troops marching in review before Lieut. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, Chef of Engineers, and Maj. Gen. Douglas L. Weart, post commander, colors were presented to the Seventh Engineer Construction Brigade, Col. C. H. McNutt commanding; the Twenty-fourth Engineer Construction Group, Lieut. Col. W. P. McCrone commanding, and the 801st Engineer Aviation Battalion, Maj. J. W. Leverette commanding.

Among those decorated for valor in battle was 55-year-old Chicago-bred M/Sergt. Edd Hudson, veteran of 25 years in the Army. He received a long overdue Belgian citation, recommended when he was in the 309th Engineers, 85th Infantry Division, during the war. His citation read:

"By authority of His Royal Highness, the Prince Regent of Belgium, and with the permission of the Adjutant General, Department of Army, M/Sergt. Edd Hudson is named Chevalier of the Order of Leopold, 2d, with Palm, and is awarded the Croix de Guerre 1940 with Palm, for diligence, brilliant organization and courageous spirit shown in such a remarkable manner by his bravery in the battles leading to the complete liberation of Belgium from the hands of the common enemy."

M/Sergeant Hudson of Headquarters Company 9829 is the father of three children.

Decorations also were awarded to M/Sergt. Robert A. Hanna, Joppa, Md., who received a Bronze Star Medal, and to Capt. John O. Ford, Lewisburg, W. Va.; CWO Edward M. Niedziela, Bayonne, N. J.; Sergt./1C Miles J. Mulholland, Fort Belvoir, and Pfc. Earl H. McCollum, Seligman, Mo., who received commendation ribbons.

In Murder Case

Revelation Of True Age Voids Trial

Alvin M. Johns, 1402 S st. nw., escaped a possible life sentence yesterday when court authorities learned for the first time that he had lied about his age and was only 17 years old.

Johns was indicted and convicted in District Court of second-degree murder after he insisted he was 24 years of age. He had been charged with firing five fatal bullets into Zeb Jeffries, 29, of 1505 Vermont ave. nw., during an argument in October at 7th and S sts. nw.

His attorney, Robert I. Miller, learned Johns' true age after the conclusion of the trial but before sentencing.

Because Johns is a minor, the conviction was set aside by Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut and the case was referred to Juvenile Court. Under the law, however, Juvenile Court may waive jurisdiction and another District Court trial of the case is possible.

Court authorities said Johns started lying about his age some two years ago when he boxed for a time professionally in Philadelphia and claimed he was 19 years of age. When he came here the same year he said he was 22 in order to get a job with Government Services, Inc., it was said.

According to police, Johns shot Jeffries in an argument that began when Jeffries called him "Dynamite." Johns said Jeffries put a lighted cigarette in his shirt and drew a knife.

Residents Delay Yule Purchases, Sales Show

Area Shoppers Revert To Prewar Habits As Stores Appear To Be Well-Stocked

Greater Washington residents are going back to prewar habits of putting off Christmas buying until the "last minute," department store executives agreed yesterday when they saw the latest Federal Reserve Board figures.

These showed that department store sales here, which have been lagging behind last year's Christmas business, suddenly turned upward last week.

Sales were 6 per cent higher than for the corresponding week in 1947, and 28 per cent more than the previous week.

No Shortage Worries

"Up to this year," explained an official of a leading store, "people were worried about shortages, and they bought that dressing gown for Uncle Harry pretty early."

Another executive, who said he definitely expected his store's December sales would be ahead of last year, also pointed out that November was warm. The recent sales increase coincided with cool, clear weather, regarded as good Christmas shopping weather, he said.

The upturn here last week went against the nationwide trend, as Reserve Board figures showed department store sales last week slipped under last year's for the sixth consecutive week.

Fifth District Gains

Sales in the Fifth Reserve District, which includes Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina as well as the District, were up 3 per cent last week as compared to last year. Baltimore sales showed no change from last year's. Fifth District sales were 23 per cent higher than for the previous week, ending December 4.

Court Boosts Student Fare In Nearby Md.

The 3-cent school fare will be raised to 5 cents in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties on Monday, December 27, by decree of Baltimore Circuit Court.

Judge W. Conwell Smith "permanently restrained" the Maryland Public Services Commission from enforcing its order of April 22 requiring a special school rate of 3 cents for each mile-and-a-half zone. This requirement was made a condition to a general fare increase to 5 cents for adults.

Judge Smith "vacated and set aside" the 3-cent fare order, effective December 27.

Smith's action followed a decision of the Maryland Court of Appeals on November 12, holding that the reduced fare order took "private property for public use without compensation." The upper court action reversed a previous decision of Smith, who had upheld the order, and told the lower court to vacate the PSC order.

Capital Transit had protested that it was "illegally high-pressured" into the reduced school fare. The company also claimed it would still lose $188,000 a year on Maryland operations even if a uniform 5-cent fare was granted.

Some 10,000 student-fare identification tickets were issued in the two counties at the beginning of the present school year, a company spokesman recently said. The 3-cent schol fare and the adult 5-cent fare went into effect June 6.

Term Stay Asked For Review of Christoffel Case

By The Associated Press

Counsel for Harold Christoffel, convicted of perjury, yesterday sought to prevent his going to prison while they are preparing a motion for a Supreme Court review of the case.

O. John Rogge, chief attorney for the former Milwaukee Labor leader, filed a motion with the Federal Court of Appeals for a "stay of mandate."

This automatically holds up any immediate action by the District Court in committing Christoffel to prison to serve his two-to-six-year sentence.

Yesterday was the deadline for the motion by Rogge, who told the Appeals Court that it was done "pending filing in the Supreme Court" of a motion for a review of the conviction.

Christoffel was convicted last March of falsely stating under oath before the House Labor Committee that he had never been a Communist.

Tar Heels Dance Tonight At Gay 'Mistletoe Mingle'

By Nicha Soure

An old-fashioned Mistletoe Mingle will inaugurate the season's gaiety for the Tar Heels in Washington tonight. North Carolina's traditional Christmas dance, the most colorful affair of the 10 dances scheduled for the North Carolina Society, will take place in the large ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

Festivities will start at 9:30 p. m. with a merry get-together of downhomers and Dave McWilliams' Orchestra will be tuning up around 10 p. m. Special feature of the dance will be a towering Christmas tree bearing gifts for Tar Heel veterans who are hospitalized in the Washington area. In the Christmas tradition, carols will be sung during the intermission and one of the guests of honor will be that popular old gentleman, Santa Claus.

Among those who will receive the guests will be Comptroller General and Mrs. Lindsay Warren, Director of the Budget and Mrs. James E. Webb, Assistant to the President and Mrs. Charles S. Murphy, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John S. Graham, Commissioner of the Court of Claims and Mrs. W. Ney Evans, W. A. Graham Clark of the Tariff Commission, Assistant Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Gordon Gray, Assistant Attorney General and Mrs. T. Lamar Caudle, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Morrison and President of the Society and Mrs. John K. Slear.

At the Mistletoe Mingle the society promises there will be an abundance of the silver-berried Christmas green on hand, but, to be on the fun side, "tuck a sprig in your hair or in your coat lapel."

SINCE the Christmas holidays and the inauguration activities will keep quite a few Washingtonians on the go, the Society of Virginia has postponed its next dance from January 6 to February 21.

On that day in February, the eve of George Washington's birthday, Virginians will celebrate with a George Washington Birthday and Colonial Ball. Members of the society will be dressed in colonial costumes to represent famous historical characters of the Washington period. The ball will be at the Carlton Hotel, with Sidney's Orchestra furnishing the music.

Next official function of the Society of Virginia will be a brief memorial service at the tomb of Woodrow Wilson. The service will be held in the Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral on December 28 at 2 p. m. Canon Crawford Brown of the Cathedral will officiate, assisted by Dr. Graham Gordon Lacy, pastor of the late President Wilson's Church.

Rixey Smith, president of the Society of Virginia, will lay a wreath bearing the State of Virginia colors and Mrs. Richard A. Allen, chairman of the memorial committee, will read a special tribute to President Wilson. Mrs. Wilson will attend, as will the executive council and officers of the Society of Virginia.

DON'T FORGET: December 20 is the deadline for a tall tale in the Paul Bunyan contest sponsored by the Minnesota State Society.

Entries must be written on standard business-letter-size paper (8½x11 inches) in 500 words or less. While anyone over 18 residing in the Greater Washington area may submit as many entries as he wishes, each must be written on a separate sheet of paper, on the back of which the name and address of the originator should be written. The Contest mail address is: Paul Bunyan, Box 66, Benjamin Franklin Station, Washington 4, D. C.

MEMBERS of the Arkansas State Society will honor Governor-elect Sidney McMath at a reception Sunday in the caucus room of the Senate Office Building at 3:30 p. m.

A Navy Department representative will present to the society a photograph of the Battleship Arkansas, and Marine Corps officials will give Governor-elect McMath photographs of battle scenes in which he took part.

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, Leslie Biffle, director of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, and John R. Steelman, special assistant to the President, are among those scheduled to attend the reception.

MR. and Mrs. Vincent H. Conner of Martinsburg were the winners of the waltz contest at the West Virginia State Society dance at the Shoreham last Saturday.

Howard Starling, West Virginia State Society executive vice president, appointed Mrs. Russel Reily, Cecil Smell and Heber H. Rice as judges for the contest which was held during intermission.

Another society which will be featuring mistletoe and Santa Claus tonight is the Illinois State Society. This Christmas dance will be held in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

The ballroom will be decorated with holly and mistletoe in true Christmas fashion and Santa Claus will make his rounds to everyone present about 11 p. m. Starting at 10 p. m. Dave McWilliams orchestra will furnish the music for dancing.

Plans are under way for the State society's inaugural calendar. The Kentucky Society is giving an inaugural reception and ball in honor of the Vice President on Friday, January 21. In addition to the guest of honor, Vice President Alben W. Barkley, the guest list will include the Governor of Kentucky and Mrs. Earle C. Clements, the Chief Justice of the United States and Mrs. Fred M. Vinson, Associate Justice and Mrs. Stanley F. Reed, Associate Justice and Mrs. Wiley B. Rutledge, Judge and Mrs. Wilbur K. Miller.

Conway-Coleman Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Conway announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mildred Gertrude, to the Rev. John P. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Coleman of New Rochelle, N. Y.

The wedding will take place at 4 p. m. on February 7 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Rock Creek Parish. Bishop Angus Dun will officiate.

Chemicals for Colorful Flames

Can you tell me what kind of chemicals to put in the water when soaking newspaper logs to make them give a colored light when burning? Also, is there any special way to roll the papers? R. R. H.

Old magazines are especially recommended for making such logs, but newspapers can be used if they are rolled up tightly enough. Roll several magazines or papers together very tightly to make a good-sized log and tie at each end and also in the middle. Soak for 10 days in a solution of 10 cups rock salt, 10 cups bluestone, and about 3 gallons of water, depending on size of container. Place as many logs in solution as can be covered with liquid. Allow to dry thoroughly before using. This may take as long as six weeks.

I am interested in J. E. McM.'s inquiry about Ebelskivers in the Sunday "Ask Anne" column. I have an Elebskiver pan which came from Iowa. It's like a series of small cups. You drop a bit of Ebelskiver dough in each cup, and turn them with a knitting needle, hat pin, or something of the kind. The dough puffs up and gets brown. When done, the Ebelskivers are rolled in powdered sugar and served as a dessert. It is a Scandinavian dish, as you probably realize, and quite delicious. M. M.

Here is a recipe for "Ebelskivers" for J. E. McM., whose letter appeared in the Sunday Post.

EBELSKIVERS

2 cups flour
2 eggs
2 cups buttermilk or sour milk
1 teaspoon soda

Add soda to flour and beaten egg yolks to milk. Beat egg whites separately and add at the very last, folding them in. Have the Ebelskiver pan warm. Fill one half full with lard or any other shortening. Have shortening as hot as you would for frying doughnuts. Turn the Ebelskiver right away with hat pin. When brown on both sides, put hat pin through to see if done. Serve hot. Sprinkle with powdered sugar or use jelly.

This is my favorite recipe. They are as light as a feather and delicious. She should be able to get pans in any hardware store—"iron muffin pans." If pans cannot be found in Washington, call me at Metropolitan 3282 and I shall be glad to give information. J. B.

Thanks to the several readers who sent us information about "ableskievas" or "epleskivers," including M. N., C. W. J., R. G. E. McC., J. Watt, and K. S. The letters were most interesting and informative and we wish we had room to print them all. They are being forwarded to J. E. McM.

I noticed the recent query in your column about "decoupage" and am sending you the following quotation on the subject from an article by William Harris in the May, 1948, issue of Woman's Day.

"Decoupage is a French word for the art of 'cutting out.' It usually implies the cutting out of paper, although the term actually includes fabric, wood, or any other substance that can be cut.

"All you need is a pair of small, sharp-pointed scissors, a tube of ordinary glue, a celluloid ruler or any old playing card, an old file box, a tray or wastepaper basket, a few magazines or seed catalogs, varnish and enamel.

"First, choose the object you want to decorate. Next, decide what subject matter you want to use and start looking through magazines. You may prefer flowers, leaves, jewels, or animals, or you may want to scramble them all together in a fantasy of your own. Don't forget that you can use a portion of a picture, such as the flower from a hat. Keep a sharp eye out for what you want. Material from magazines printed on heavy paper will work best.

"When your collection of cutouts seems enough for the area you are going to decorate, give one piece a coat of glossy or flat-finish enamel, whichever you prefer. Flat finish enamel comes only in black or white, but the white can be tinted with tube oil color. Don't worry too much about the finish of your enamel as the final coat of varnish will determine whether your decoupage will be dull or shiny.

"When the enamel is dry, arrange your cutouts in a pleasing effect. Remove them one at a time and apply a thin coat of glue on the back of each. Put it back in position and press firmly. Use the edge of a flexible celluloid ruler or the edge of an ordinary playing card to press your cut-out down evenly with no wrinkles. After each application, gently wipe off any excess glue with a soft damp cloth and allow the glue to dry for several hours.

"Then give the entire piece a coat of clear, waterproof varnish in glossy, semigloss, or dull finish, whichever you prefer. Clear varnish comes in small cans in all three finishes. Waste baskets and boxes that won't get hard wear or be subjected to moisture need not necessarily be varnished at all, but trays that will be wiped off must be varnished. Two coats, the first well dried before the second is put on will be extra protection." C. E. W.

I am giving my little girl a birthday party soon and would be grateful to you for any suggestions you may offer. She will be 5 years old and there will be approximately 20 guests—small children. I imagine some of the mothers will be here, as I live rather far in the country and not very near many people, especially those invited. This is to be her party, however. A. M. G.

Here are some suggestions for a party with a Christmas theme: Young children would love colorful Christmas cookies cut in the shape of Santas, trees, bells and angels with their ice cream. If you wish, you could also have a birthday cake with candles as a centerpiece, for singing "Happy Birthday" and for serving to the mothers.

For entertainment, you could start the party off by having the guests hunt peanuts in the shell which have been previously hidden about the rooms. Give each guest a small sack and the one getting the most might receive a simple prize.

Unless you have a very large recreation or living room, 20 guests are really too many to entertain with games. Maybe you could have one of the mothers who does it well tell a Christmas story. Or play some of the very entertaining story records. This sort of entertainment is nice just before the refreshments are served to slow the tempo of the party.

Just before the children go home, you could give each a small wrapped favor or a candy cane from the tree.

Would you print a recipe for "Taffy Apples" in your column? I would like to make them for Christmas for our neighbor children. R. W. H.

TAFFY APPLES

2 cups sugar
½ cup light corn sirup
¾ cup water
Red vegetable coloring
Few drops oil of cinnamon.

Wash apples; dry thoroughly. Insert wooden skewer into stem end of each. Combine sugar, corn sirup, and water in deep saucepan. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Add enough coloring to color deep red. Cook slowly, without stirring to 300 degrees F. on a candy thermometer (or when a small quantity dropped into cold water becomes brittle.) Remove from heat; add oil of cinnamon, stirring only enough to mix. Place over boiling water. Dip apples, one at a time, in syrup, twirling as apple is removed. Place on waxed paper to cool.

I am crocheting pin and earring sets for Christmas gifts. After much searching I finally found earring backs, but I have not been able to find a base for my brooches and scatter pins. Could you tell me where I could buy them or else make some other suggestion? L. D.

A hobby shop on 12th st. sells plastic foundations for these brooches and small pins. The fastener on the pin does not come attached, but they sell them separately to be attached by cement. The shop can be reached by calling National 7922.

Can you tell me how to make an old-fashioned pomander ball? R. T. M.

Use an orange or a small grapefruit. Stick whole cloves close together into the skin of the fruit. As a preservative, use a mixture of powdered orris root and ground cinnamon. Use two tablespoons of orris root and two of cinnamon to prepare three oranges. Roll orange in mixture after cloves have been stuck in, patting in as much powder as the ball will hold. Wrap in several layers of tissue or other soft paper and store in a cool dry place for several weeks. The ball will dry and shrink a bit. Remove from tissue paper and tie ribbon twice around ball. Make bow and sturdy loop at top so that it can be hung in closet to lend its spicy fragrance to clothing and other things kept there.

Can you give me a recipe for white fruit cake? L. B. C.

WHITE FRUIT CAKE

1 cup shredded cocoanut
1 cup sliced citron
1 cup sultana raisins
1 cup chopped candied pineapple
1 cup sliced candied cherries
2 cups blanched almonds
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon vanilla
½ cup fruit sirup
8 egg whites

Combine first six ingredients with one cup flour. Sift remaining flour with baking powder. Cream shortening with sugar and flavoring until fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients and fruit sirup alternately in small amounts, beating well after each addition. Add fruit mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into batter. Pour into greased pans lined with heavy greased paper and bake in very slow oven (275 degrees Fahrenheit) about 4 hours. This recipe makes 5 pounds fruit cake.

I am in need of some yarn to finish some Christmas knitting and have been unable to find the kind I am using here. The name of the yarn is "Fleece Gold" yarn, 3 ply, made by the Oregon Worsted Co., Inc., in 1-ounce balls. Can you give me the address of the Oregon Worsted Co. or any store in Washington that carries the yarn. I need color No. 242, maroon, and color No. 4137, green. R. H. W.

I have been unable to locate a Washington store that sells this particular yarn or to obtain the address of the Oregon Worsted Co. Can any reader help? R. H. W.

Do you know of any place in Washington where I could purchase frames for boudoir lamps? As I would like to cover some for Xmas gifts, I would appreciate an early reply. E. G. M.

Sometimes the firms listed under "lamps" in the yellow pages of the telephone book which cover frames to order will sell just the frames as a special favor to their customers. The only other suggestion I would have would be to purchase an inexpensive shade on a wire frame in a dime store, remove the cover and replace it with one of your own making.

We have an old upright piano which has as its only good feature plain straight lines, the result of removing some gingerbread trimming several years ago. The old thing still has nice tone, however, although the finish is dark, muddy "mahogany" which is peeling. (The veneer is not warped, however.) Now we are expecting holiday guests and the piano is the eyesore of the recreation room. What can I do quickly and without much work to make it look decent? I'm willing to paint it any color you might advise in any medium lacquer, house paint, etc., but must do it right away. R. A. G.

The easiest way to refinish the piano would be to paint it or apply a mahogany varnish stain. But in order to make the job worth the effort of painting, the parts of the present finish which are peeling should be sanded smooth. The entire finish doesn't need to be removed. If the rest of the finish has a high gloss, that should be cut by rubbing the surface with sandpaper. After sanding, wipe the surface with turpentine or benzine to remove any soil or wax. When dry, apply the paint or varnish. If you choose to paint, apply two coats of flat paint as undercoats and, for the third and last coat, use enamel. The color you choose should blend with the other colors in the room, or you could use a light gray, ivory or white. If the recreation room is in the basement, one of these light finishes would be nice.

I am one of these unfortunate individuals who learned French and trigonometry in school, but I never learned to cook. I've picked up a good deal, but find myself lacking knowledge of basic principles. I can't follow a great many recipes because I just don't have the groundwork. I can't attend a class because I have a small baby. Do you know of such a book that will help me? F. B.

Cookbooks these days contain many things besides recipes. For instance, "The Good Housekeeping Cookbook" edited by Dorothy Marsh (Rinehart & Co., Inc.), has chapters on how to plan meals, nutrition, food stretchers and alternates, pointers on marketing, explanations of common cookery terms and methods, directions for making accurate measurements and how to use the recipes. Included between the covers of this book is enough information to start you well on the road to being a good cook. Also, "Housekeeping Made Easy" by Dorothy Lois Abel (Funk & Wagnalls Co.), has a chapter titled "Who Said 'Bride's Cooking?'" which would be very helpful to you in learning the groundwork for good cooking techniques and food management.

I would greatly appreciate any suggestions you may have for cleaning a large spot on a fibre rug caused by spilled oily furniture polish. Washing with a liquid rug cleaner did not help at all. The rug is blue and I cannot use water on it. B. B.

Mix enough carbon tetrachloride into corn meal to make it damp and rub this into the stained spot. Try to work it into the weave and let it stand for 30 minutes, then brush away or remove with the vacuum cleaner. If the stain is not completely removed the first time, repeat.

I have a copper frying pan lined with a silvery metal, apparently tin. Through use it has become scratched so that the copper shows through. Is this dangerous and, if so, where can it be repaired? J. H. McQ.

If the exposed copper is tarnished or corroded it is harmful to use as a cooking utensil. If kept brightly polished, it is all right. Firms listed under "Platers" can reline the pan with chrome, but it has been suggested that the job would probably cost as much as a new pan would.

Queries and contributions to the "Ask Anne" column should be in written form. We regret that time does not permit handling such material on the telephone. Address letters or cards to "Anne, Room 408, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C."

Indian Minister, Mme. Nehru Say Farewell at Cocktail Party

By Marie McNair

FAREWELLS were said in the happiest way yesterday by the Indian Minister and Mme. Nehru, so soon to sail for Europe. On Wednesday they'll be aboard the ship that will take them to Sweden and the Minister's new post as chief of mission in Stockholm.

After a round of parties in their honor the Minister and Mme. Nehru gave their own—a cocktail party in the Indian Embassy chancery on Massachusetts ave. It's a perfect house for a party with one spacious room opening into another, and a wide foyer running down center. It was there that Nehrus stood to welcome their friends. Mme. Nehru in native dress, a sheer white and silver thread sari with a wide border of embroidered blue and gold.

"I want to take all the mementos of Washington with me that I can," smiled Mme. Nehru, as she asked her guests to please sign their names in her guest book. And on the pages were inscribed the names of members of the diplomatic corps, official Washington and many of the Nehru's personal friends.

Diplomats There

Lady Rama Rau, wife of the Indian Ambassador, was there to sign the book, with her daughter, Mme. Fremila Wagle, tall, slim, and lovely in an electric blue sari printed in black.

Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese Ambassador; Mrs. Harold Burton, wife of the Justice and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, all three au courant on fashion, wore brown, the three costumes completely individual in style and fabric. Mme. Koo's tunic was embroidered in muted tones of rose and blue and a massive gold collar was fastened about her throat. Mrs. Burton wore a straight frock of crepe topped by a brimmed hat trimmed in uncurled ostrich and Polly Guggenheim was in satin, the V-neckline pierced with diamond clips, and she wore a pale beige hat on her fair hair.

The New Zealand Ambassador, Sir Carl Berendsen, and Lady Berendsen, made the rounds; and I glimpsed Mrs. Wiley Rutledge, the Justice's wife; the Dominican Ambassador and Senora de Thomen, the Pakistan Ambassador, M. A. H. Ispahani; the Iranian Ambassador, Hussein Ala, and Mme. Ala, and the Yugoslav Ambassador, Sava Kosanovic, with his counsin and hostess, Dr. Mica Trbojevic.

Making the Rounds

The Canadian Minister, Thomas Stone, was there, alone, for he's waiting the return of Mrs. Stone from Mexico City. Stanley Woodward, Chief of Protocol, and Mrs. Woodward, were there, and Roy Muir—he's assistant chief—with Mrs. Muir. Then there were the Finnish Minister and Mme. Jutila with their pink cheeked young daughter, Vappu; the Ecuador Ambassador, Augusto Dillon, and Senora de Dillon, in a smart black satin costume; Mrs. Martin Vogel also in black satin with paradise on her hat and diamonds flashing at her neck and wrists.

Arthur Saul talked with M. O. Baig, Counselor of the Pakistan Embassy, and then there were Mrs. James Souby, who left for the Syrian Legation party; Mrs. Dorothy Lee Ward, Mrs. William Pope Anderson, Mme. Economou-Gouras, wife of the Counselor of the Greek Embassy; Judge and Mrs. George Neilson, and last, but certainly not least, the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Belt, whom I met on the stairway coming in, "Cuca" de Belt wrapped in broadtail and mink.

Three Times Lemon Is Pretty In Lingerie Fashion Parade

By Sonia Stein

PALE YELLOW turned up three times in the lingerie section of the fashion show at the Palladian Room of the Shoreham yesterday. And welcome it was, too.

There's nothing wrong with white and pink and blue, to be sure, but yellow has such a young look! Palest sweet-butter quilted crepe was used for a fitted robe, with a spray of orchid flowers decorating each pocket.

A silk satin gown with silk chiffon negligee were in a lemon sherbet yellow.

Also in the show, a weekly affair presented by Jelleff's, was a very sophisticated aqua satin negligee with no trimming, except for two bands across the midriff terminating in bows.

Strictly in the ooh, la la! category was a black nylon gown with permanently pleated skirt.

For holiday dances, there was a white net dress with huge coin dots of white jersey all over the skirt and the matching stole. The strapless top was of draped jersey.

For women who promise not to jitterbug or swing around the room in Viennese waltzes, there were two beaded gowns, one in white crepe and the other in electric blue. The self-color beading on both made a squiggly all-over pattern.

Several of the other dresses were beaded on the bodice. A white one for the young set had lines of beading radiating from a solidly beaded modified bateau neckline. For the young lady's mother, there was a white gown with fine lines of beading running horizontally across the bodice and the small cap sleeves.

Shown with many of the gowns were jewels from the Sabine Heritage collection which is on display at Jelleff's through next Wednesday. Among them is a pair of gold and diamond pendant earrings from the collection of Sarah Bernhardt. All of the pieces are from famous jewel collections; many are European crown jewels. There are also inexpensive items of silver and turquoise which came from New England collections.

Miss Sabine herself, was wearing a pair of gold East Indian bell earrings and an Etruscan design gold necklace at yesterday's showing which is the last luncheon fashion show at the Palladium Room until after the holidays.

The Family Scrapbook

Lollipop Dolls, Apple Santas

Christmas decorations need not be confined to the tree ornaments and to outer door window wreaths. When there are young children in the home particularly, it will be fun to develop other ideas for decorating tables, book-shelf tops, and similar nooks and crannies.

Gaily costumed lollipop dolls furnish a treat for both eye and palate. They're easily made, too. Take the usual flat-sided "all-day sucker," or lollipop, make a paper face to paste on the cellophane covering, wind a pipe cleaner around the upper part of the stick for arms, make a simple blouse and skirt of crepe paper and there you are. All kinds of combinations can be worked out. You may want to have a United Nations group with native costume, for instance.

Red apples, marshmallows, a bit of cotton, some raisins, and a few other kitchen odds and ends are the makings for fine Santa Claus table favors. The marshmallow is fixed to the top of the apple by a toothpick to make head and body. Raisins can serve for eyes, the cotton for bread and hair, a small paper cone for the hat. Or you may find other materials that will make even more realistic, fat-bellied Kris Kringles. And much of the fun is in the making of your troop of Santa Clauses.

Herzog Feints Newsmen Out of Position; Scores On Quarterback Sneak

One of the most ruthless reportorial wolfpacks in Washington is based at the White House. Everybody who leaves the President's office finds his exit blocked with correspondents who fire embarrassing questions.

Thursday, for example, Chairman Paul M. Herzog and his entire National Labor Relations Board went to see the President, and the reporters lay in wait outside the door.

It was bound to be an edgy interview. The press would want to know about official plans for changing the Taft-Hartley law, and the NLRB members would have to avoid making commitments in Mr. Truman's name.

When the board members emerged from their conference with the President, the newsmen opened fire.

"What was the purpose of your visit, Mr. Herzog?" began one of the boys. Herzog considered his answer carefully, and then began speaking in a solemn voice, at dictation speed.

"We came here today," he said, "because our director of information, Mr. Silverberg, is going to . . ."

"Silverberg?" interjected a reporter. "Spell it, please."

"S-i-l-v-e-r-b-e-r-g," spelled Herzog. "Mr. Silverberg is going to . . ."

"What's his first name, Mr. Herzog?"

"Louis. Louis G., as in George."

"Okay, we got that. Go ahead."

"We came here today," resumed Herzog, "because our director of information, Mr. Silverberg, is going to be married this afternoon, and the board wished to get the President's permission. Thank you, gentlemen."

And with that, Herzog and his board escaped through the front door, while the wolfpack tried to figure out what had happened to them.

MISCELLANY

Mrs. S. R. Young of Alexandria, Va., reports that there's no agreement among District Liners on the matter of snow. A woman on the bus the other day said, "My, I certainly am glad it didn't snow when it was supposed to; I hate snow." But her companion came back with, "Oh, I love snow. I come from Iowa, where it REALLY snows" . . . If we can't agree on a simple matter like snow, how are we ever going to get together on such complex questions as international affairs? . . . Charles Cohen, the stamp and coin man, who spends more time helping hospitalized veterans than tending his store, is off to Europe soon . . . Mrs. Harold Ecklund of 2020 N. Powhatan st., Arlington, Va., knows where Mrs. Roland C. Brown of Fort Belvoir, Va., can get that merry-go-round horse she was hunting. Mrs Ecklund says that the E. L. Myers Antique Shop in Vienna, Va., has a wooden horse that's a beauty. It needs a little touching up, but "it's a thing of beauty. It was made in England, and has such a fine expression" . . . And Mrs. Lura Chambliss of 322 36th st. ne. says there's another such "horse" at the Fleming Shop, 3823 Bladensburg rd., Colmar Manor, Md. . . . That recent ad offering a 1937 Willys for $2.50 was a slight typo. When Rita Fox of American University saw it, she quipped, "Now I can afford a car"—but then the printers changed their minds, and made it $200 in the next edition . . . Charles J. Clifford of 406 Silver Spring ave., Silver Spring, Md., and J. C. H. of 3214 13th st. nw., point in glee to the 8-column headline on our recent Sunday amusement section: "Sand, Snow and Serf Send Up Cry That's Hard to Resist"—and who could turn a deaf ear to the cry of a serf? . . . What Clark Griffith needs is a few more sons-in-law who can hit .300 or better.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Mr. Hildreth has asked for everybody's cooperation in making the inauguration a success, and most residents are responding wholeheartedly.

But the hotels have doubled their rates, and certainly will not make many visitors feel like coming back here again.

Can you explain why the hotels should double their rates for inaugural week?

Florence Van Walker.

Dear Florence:

I guess it's the old law of supply and demand. When buyers are willing to pay high prices, there will always be sellers who will oblige them by charging high prices. Bill.

NEW YORK—Howard Lindsay and his wife, Dorothy Stickney, who again are playing Mr. and Mrs. Day, tell of the first time they took a vacation from "Life With Father." Percy Waram and Lillian Gish were hired to play the roles while the Lindsays rested . . . The Lindsays went to Woodstock, and after the first night, Lindsay telephoned Russel Crouse, his co-author of the play, and asked: "How's business at the box-office?" . . . "Fine," said Crouse. "We had 21 standees tonight" . . . "That's good," said Lindsay. They continued talking for a while, and then both said "good-by" . . . One minute later Crouse's telephone rang again. He answered, and heard Lindsay's delayed gasp: "TWENTY-ONE?"

Dennis King had a more satisfactory experience when, after starring in a series of operettas, he finally demanded and received a piece of the next show. After it ran a long time, King took a vacation while a substitute played his part . . . The star went to England, where Gilbert Miller asked him: "How's your show doing?" . . . To King the conflict between his roles as vacationing star and as part owner was no conflict at all. "The show dropped $8000," King replied. "Very gratifying."

Jascha Heifetz was at a party where a bore approached him and said to the violinist: "Mr. Heifetz, there are only three concerts I ever go to—yours, Mr. Toscanini's and Vladimir Horowitz' " . . . Heifetz replied: "You really believe in taking chances, don't you?"

CHANGE: Beatrice Lillie, who has become an accomplished painter of still-life, was persuaded to try portraits. Her first subject was Mrs. Jack Haley, wife of Miss Lillie's co-star in "Inside U. S. A." . . . Last week Miss Lillie, busy at her canvas, had a compulsion, the kind which sometimes attacks mischievous people in front of subway signs. She painted a mustache onto the face on the portrait, studied her handwork, started to adjust it—and now it's going to be a portrait of Clifton Webb.

Klan Out to "Get" Pearson Spy

By Drew Pearson

When the Ku Klux Klan met in Macon last week, Grand Dragon Green held a press conference at which someone asked if he had caught "Drew Pearson's spy."

"He's within 10 feet of me now," replied the grand dragon, staring straight ahead, "and we're going to 'get' him Monday night."

PEARSON

Last Monday night the grand dragon presided as usual over Klavern No. 1, Atlanta, and one klansman asked him about Pearson's spy.

"You won't have to worry about him any more," replied the grand dragon. "I have 'attended' to this man."

If the grand dragon continues to banish klansmen suspected of being "Pearson's spies" he may soon be short of members. It also looks as if the grand dragon will have to do some more housecleaning because here is a play-by-play account of last Monday's meeting—after the "spy" supposedly was banished.

Klan Minutes

One hundred klansmen present, five new members, no reinstatements . . . Sam Roper, exalted cyclops of Klavern 197, was a visitor, made a long talk on the Macon meeting, congratulated the Klan on the fine Macon attendance and the great job they were doing for the South . . . Grand Dragon Green urged klansmen to consult Klavern officers before taking the law into their own hands. Klansmen can call him at his house or office any hour of the day or night if "things need to be straightened out" . . . The grand dragon also told how he handled the boys of the press at Macon, said he had had one reporter from a Pittsburgh paper thrown out. (Obviously referred to Boyack of the Pittsburgh Courier, though he pronounced the name "Bodkin.")

Grand dragon was boiling mad over the fact that "some sorry, low-down scoundrel" hung up an effigy of a klansman in full robes. He was having the robe examined for laundry marks or any telltale clews that might identify the owner . . . "If necessary, we will have all robes called in and each exalted cyclops check to see who is short of a robe in his klavern," said the grand dragon . . . Exalted Cyclops Roper described Drew Pearson as "such an obnoxious liar he wouldn't believe him on his deathbed" . . . Cliff Vittur attacked Methodist ministers who passed a resolution critical of Chief Ellis of the county police force for allowing the Klan to parade December 4. "They are so-called preachers who are trying to condemn everything except Methodists," said Vittur.

There will be a Christmas party Monday night (December 20). But because the grand dragon was presiding, the boys were careful not to say anything about the present they have ready for him and his secretary.

High-Flying Senator

The Wilmington (N. C.) Chamber of Commerce which gave free hospitality to the Donora, Pa., smog victims, has written the Civil Aeronautics Board asking why Senator Brewster of Maine was able to get free airplane transportation, while the smog victims couldn't. Capitol Airlines wanted to give the poison-gas sufferers a free flight to Wilmington, but the CAB said no.

At about the same time, however, Maine's high-flying Senator Brewster got a free ride in a CAB plane to San Antonio, Tex. CAB's official excuse is that the first part of the trip (to Indianapolis) was an inspection flight with other Congressmen along.

However, the CAB can think up no good excuse for sending Brewster the rest of the way to San Antonio (plane NC212, Pilot J. Chester Shimp) to accommodate the Senator in delivering a paid lecture before the Automobile Dealers Association.

Brewster even had the gall to ask the CAB to send a plane all the way to Dexter, Me., to pick him up at his home, but at the last minute he changed his mind, and left from Washington, D. C., instead. After delivering his lecture in San Antonio, Brewster also got a free ride back to Washington.

McKellar Won't Yield

Tennessee's never-say-die Senator Kenneth McKellar won't step aside for anyone else to become president pro tem of the Senate as long as he has strength enough to swing a gavel.

In fact, the Democratic dean is privately campaigning for the office which he is supposed to inherit under the Senate's seniority system. When he heard that dapper Millard Tydings of Maryland might take the job away from him, McKellar promptly dictated an appeal to his colleagues.

"Some have asked me," he wrote, as tactfully as possible, "whether I will be an applicant before the Democratic caucus for the position as president pro tem of the Senate.

"Should my colleagues elect me to the place, I would esteem their action very much."

Note—When an unsuspecting newsman innocently asked Senator McKellar his age the other day, the Tennessean flew into a rage and actually beat and kicked the startled reporter.

"What are you newspapermen trying to do," he shouted, "put me in my grave? You keep calling me a tottering, ailing old man because you don't want me to become president pro tem!

"Why," he added, "I haven't been in the hospital for over four months."

Merry-Go-Round

Bob Hope, who is never too busy to do his act before a veterans' hospital, is taking time off to fly to Germany this Christmas to entertain American troops . . . Bob has an excellent chance of getting the Louisville radio stations that the Courier-Journal wants to sell . . . Mississippi's snorting Congressman John Rankin staged quite a tirade in his private office the other day. "Before I get through with Drew Pearson," he screamed, "I'll tie him in knots and hang him in the same noose as Alger Hiss" . . . President Truman's friends say they are trying to find a suitable Christmas present for former Congressman Slaughter of Kansas City. Though a Truman-hater, Slaughter contributed more individually than anyone else in the United States to Truman's election. (He lobbied through Congress the ban on the Government's renting of more grain elevators, so the Government couldn't pay parity prices.) . . . Some Truman friends say the Justice Department is most ungrateful for indicting Slaughter instead of rewarding him . . . I. F. Stone's new book, "This Is Israel," is the best account yet of the new republic's fight for independence.

Pencil

The pencil is an instrument . . . That human beings use . . . To carry on their daily tasks . . . Or merely to amuse . . . It serves the scholar young or old . . . The doctor and the clerk . . . The banker, engineer and judge . . . And all who ever work . . . The salesman and stenographer . . . Reporter, racketeer . . . Accountant farmer, laundryman . . . And preachers far and near . . . The pencil drafts the speeches and . . . The treaties that are made . . . And writes the notes anonymous . . . Of those who are afraid . . . Of course at times it makes mistakes . . . In office, home or shop . . . But that is why it carries an . . . Eraser at the top.
